BOY GETS TICKET FOR THE FAVORITE IN ENGLISH DERBY

London's Financial District Suspends Business During Drawing for Sweepstakes.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, May 10.—A 7-year-old boy who "does not understand what it is all about" was envied by thousands today as the result of the draw yesterday in the Stock Exchange Derby sweepstakes which gave him the ticket for the favorite in the classic race. All business in London's financial district was suspended while the drawing was made.

Jimmie Gibbs, small son of a city contractor, held one of the two tickets for Cragadour, the colt of Lord Astor. His mother and father already have arranged for him to sell the ticket at a good price, or to sell at least half of it, before the colt has a chance to be beaten in the race on Epsom Downs June 5.

"We are all naturally greatly excited," said Mrs. Gibbs after the news was brought to her. "Jimmie does not understand what it is all about. His father gives each of his four children tickets for each draw but keeps none for himself.

All big prizes were duplicated this year, but the other lucky person had not yet been discovered.

SENATE, NOT HOOVER, TO FIX SALARY OF FARM BOARD HEAD

Votes to Make Chairman Pay $12,000, Same as That of Other Members.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 10.—The Senate today refused to give President Hoover the power to fix the salary of the chairman of the proposed farm board, and voted to fix his salary at $12,000, the same as for other members of the board.

The vote was 46 to 32, with the Democrats lining up almost solidly against the proposed presidential power.

The Senate today agreed to limit debate on the bill and pending amendments at 3 p. m. Monday.

The Senate refused to exclude milk, milk products, fruits and vegetables from the list of agricultural commodities to be affected by the farm relief bill. The vote was 66 to 11.

An amendment sponsored by Senators Jones and Dill of Washington, to exclude apples and pears, also was rejected, 63 to 19.

BOARD OF ALDERMEN VOTES, 21 TO 7, TO SEAT BROCK

Eilers, Fett, Kuhs, Krueger, Neu, Reifling and Studt Register Opposition.

The Board of Aldermen today voted, 21 to 7, to seat Rudolph H. Brock, Alderman-elect from the Twenty-third Ward, whose eligibility was questioned on the ground that he was not a resident of the ward.

Brock's opponents maintained that he had registered last September from 4535 Lindell boulevard in the Twenty-fifth Ward. Although he has lived there two years, Brock declared the residence was temporary, pending completion of repairs at his home at 4404 Washington boulevard.

Aldermen Eilers, Fett, Kuhs, Krueger, Neu, Riefling and Studt voted against seating Brock.

WHY A PREACHER PLAYS GOLF

One Sport That Gives Worst Duffer the Most Enjoyment.

By the Associated Press.

OMAHA, Neb., May 10.—The Rev. J. S. Bunting, rector of the Episcopal Church of the Ascension, St. Louis, wouldn't think of giving up golf. In the course of a speech at a church fellowship dinner here last night, he offered his explanation of "why duffers continue, year after year, to battle bunkers and weeds and dig divots on golf links of the nation."

"Golf," the rector said, "is unique as the one human pursuit out of which the worst players get most enjoyment. My game is very bad, but I wouldn't think of giving it up."

TWO MEN GET LIFE, ONE 14 YEARS FOR KILLING RECLUSE

LATTER DROVE CAR FOR THE SLAYERS

Justus Nungesser Was Shot to Death Near Mascoutah in Effort to Obtain Hidden Wealth.

Valentine Harpstrite, Raymond Rensing and Elmer Lindner were found guilty of the murder of Justus Nungesser, East Side recluse, in a verdict announced in Circuit Court at Belleville this morning. The jury fixed the punishment of Harpstrite and Rensing at life in the penitentiary, and that of Lindner at 14 years, the minimum penalty.

The verdict was reached at 2:30 o'clock this morning after the jury had deliberated since 6 o'clock last night. It was reported that they had agreed on the guilt of all three on the first ballot, but disagreed on the penalties.

Harpstrite Was Leader.

State's Attorney Lindauer in the closing argument yesterday had asked for the death penalty for all three.

One of the jurors said that four of the panel had voted on the first ballot to sentence Harpstrite and Rensing to death. The same four, in early balloting, were in favor of freeing Lindner, acting in the belief that he was drawn into the murder without full knowledge of what was contemplated. After a half-dozen ballots all were agreed to sentence Harpstrite and Rensing to life imprisonment and the discussion of Lindner's case occupied their attention for the rest of the time.

Attorneys for the convicted men filed a motion asking for a new trial which was denied by Judge Miller. They will be taken to the penitentiary at Chester, Ill., late today to begin serving their sentences.

Harpstrite, 27-year-old New Baden saloon keeper who was alleged to have been the leader in the plot to kill Nungesser for the money he was supposed to have had hidden near his home, was most affected when sentence was pronounced by Judge Miller this morning. He turned his back to the bench, and leaned on it for support. Rensing and Lindner, who had confessed the killing, were more calm, but there were tears in Lindner's eyes.

Trial Attracts Crowds.

The trial began Tuesday, and a night session was held on Wednesday. Crowds jammed the courtroom throughout the proceedings.

Nungesser was shot and killed on the morning of Sept. 9, 1928, on his farm five miles north of Mascoutah, Ill. The State alleged that Harpstrite and Rensing had planned the killing in Harpstrite's saloon, where Nungesser was a frequent visitor. They hired Lindner, who operated a garage at Trenton, Ill., to drive them to Nungesser's farm. Lindner remained in the automobile, according to confessions made by him and Rensing, while Harpstrite and Rensing approached Nungesser. They fired several shots at him and fled without obtaining the money they came for.

ROBBER SLAIN BY POLICE IN SIGHT OF 20 ON STREET CAR

COUSIN CAPTURED BY FIRST OFFICER

Other Policemen Trail Trolleys Until Paroled Highwayman Is Seen—Pair in 10 Holdups.

Twenty passengers, including many women, on a City Limits street car in Richmond Heights, shortly after 10 o'clock last night, saw a young highwayman shot and killed by police following a series of holdups which culminated in his attempt to escape on the car.

The robber was Charles Sherman, 23 years old, paroled last Dec. 23 from the Pontiac (Ill.) Reformatory to which he had been committed for robbery in East St. Louis. He lived with his mother at 507 North Twenty-sixth street, East St. Louis, but stayed occasionally with relatives on this side of the river, at 6208 Lotus avenue.

His second cousin and companion, Ray Perkins, 44-year-old roofer, was arrested and confessed he and Sherman had committed 10 robberies in St. Louis and outlying towns. Perkins lives with his wife at 626 South Broadway.

Escaped From First Officer.

Starting at 9 o'clock, Sherman and Perkins held up a lunchroom at 6339 St. Louis avenue, Wellston; the Mueller Motor Co., St. Louis avenue and Lucas and Hunt road, and Sid's filling station at 7002 Clayton road, taking a total of $33. Roy Berghaus, attendant at the filling station, reported the robbery immediately to the Mounted District and, by means of the teletype system of communication, descriptions of the robbers were flashed to city and county police.

Motorcycle Policeman Thomas Rose of Maplewood saw Sherman and Perkins loitering near the E. and J. tire store at Manchester and Southwest avenues and got off his machine to question them, as they fitted the descriptions of the robbers. (Perkins later confessed they were about to hold up the tire shop).

While Officer Rose was talking to Perkins, Sherman slipped behind him and, pressing a revolver against his back, ordered him to walk down the street. The policeman walked until he heard Sherman running in the opposite direction. Then he turned and fired two shots at Sherman.

Companion Captured.

Sherman got away through alleys and yards, but Officer Rose captured Perkins and telephoned the Maplewood Police Station for assistance.

Policeman Edward Niedringhaus drove to the City Limits car loop at Manchester and Yale avenues, two blocks away, figuring the fugitive, who had no automobile, might board a street car. Niedringhaus trailed three cars from the loop to the Market street car line in Richmond Heights, about a mile away, without seeing Sherman aboard.

On the fourth car, on the rear platform, stood Sherman, who had come out of hiding and boarded the car at the loop. The policeman looked at the fugitive and the fugitive looked at the policeman and exhibited nervousness. At Yale and Dale avenues, approaching the Market line intersection, Policeman Niedringhaus drove ahead of the City Limits car and parked on the tracks. As the street car stopped he went aboard and took Sherman prisoner.

Fled as He Stepped From Car.

Getting off the trolley, Sherman threw his revolver into a clump of hedges and broke loose. Policeman Niedringhaus and Deputy Marshal William Skillman of Richmond Heights, who had driven up, called on Sherman to halt and fired shots in the air. When the robber continued running they fired two shots at him. One took effect in his heart and he fell dead, in view of the passengers on the street car.

Meanwhile, Officer Rose, about to board his motorcycle to join in the chase, was struck by an automobile, rendered unconscious and taken to St. Mary's Hospital. His injuries proved slight and he was discharged from the hospital.

Sherman's possessions included $14.50; a parole card; a letter from a Chicagoan recommending him as "reliable and dependable;" a notebook in which was written: "I have a fellow that will do it for $1000—say Yes or No," and a magazine clipping showing a group of angels on the back of which someone had written: "It won't be

800-BARREL WELL IN NEW DUPO OIL FIELD BROUGHT IN

George M. Timberlake of Centralia Gets Producer 500 Feet Outside of Supposed Petroleum Area.

GEOLOGISTS SAID TESTS WOULD FAIL

Now Experts Join in Congratulating Driller, After Seeing 200-Foot Column Shoot Into Air.

The eighth and largest oil well in the newly developed field at Dupo, Ill., 10 miles south of East St. Louis, brought in by the St. Clair County Oil Co., was estimated to be capable of producing 800 barrels a day after 150 quarts of nitroglycerin, detonated at the bottom of the 538-foot hole, sent a 200-foot column of oil into the air yesterday.

George M. Timberlake, rotund little Centralia, Ill., oil operator, known as "Hot Apples," drew his "string of tools" into the field south of the Dupo, Ill., schoolhouse several weeks ago, and geologists smiled with amusement.

Already there were seven wells producing up to 200 barrels a day each, but this was 500 feet outside the area which, they said, covered the oil-bearing Kimmswick limestone. They were convinced it would be a "dry hole."

Yesterday, the experts smiled their congratulations when the well, which was brought in Wednesday night, was "shot," and agreed that it would produce 800 barrels a day.

Oil Men Are Surprised.

"A good well in any man's field," said an oil man known for his conservatism. "Didn't look for anything like this in Kimmswick lime at 538 feet," another man in an oil-stained hat observed with surprise. "And I had it pegged for a 'dry hole,'" the third member of the group said.

It was a gala day for Dupo. Word had gone around soon after oil was struck Wednesday night that the well was to be "shot" yesterday. he village of 1393 persons, including merchants, farmers and employes in the Missouri Pacific Railroad yards there, has been quick to pick up the parlance and the idioms of the oil fields.

They began to gather at noon, finding seats on oil-stained timbers as they passed four monotonous hours while the steel casing was pulled from the hole. Then came the automobile with the explosive which was too loosen the Kimmswick limestone at the bottom of the hole. The crowd pressed back as the explosive was poured into the long cans in which it was lowered.

Oil Shoots Up 200 Feet.

As the wire was strung from the hole to the electric detonator, they found positions to windward, to avoid the black spray. The handle was pressed downward. There was a rumble and a burst of oil. Another burst mounted higher to 200 feet, against a blue sky. The column settled, but oil continued to bubble out of the hole.

The crowd lingered, but oil men were seen to filter through the crowd. One had a lease in the broad flat territory in the same district between the bluffs and the Mississippi River. It was conditioned on his starting to drill by today. The extremely doubtful area's development had awaited the outcome of "Hot Apple's" hole. One of the 14 drills in the field was on the lease last night.

Construction of a pipe line by the Illinois Pipe Line Co. to its main line at Wood River, which carries oil from Texas to New Jersey, seems probable as a result of the rapid development of the field. The company's line to the Lubrite Refining Co. refinery at East St. Louis has been carrying the production of the field, which is marketed at $1.05 a barrel, but the capacity of the refinery is threatened.

Field Produces 500 Barrels.

Such a connection would give the Dupo producers advantage of the Oklahoma price, which is slightly higher than the Illinois price, oil men explained. The production of the field, with wells being pumped slowly, has been about 500 barrels a day.

While production of all wells gradually will diminish, output will be kept up by drilling new wells. About 6000 acres are under lease, owners being given one-eighth royalty in addition to other consideration. Some royalties are being sold.

"All these wells are headed for 10 barrels a day," one oil man said. "But one power house can pump many wells and that production is profitable, of course."

The oil is of a good grade, testing 33 on the Baume scale, on which 38 is considered high.

ART MUSEUM PAYS $24,000 FOR PAINTING

Acquires Copley's Portrait of Viscount Sidmouth in England.

The City Art Museum today announced the purchase for $24,000 of a portrait of Viscount Sidmouth by John Singleton Copley.

The painting is regarded as an important acquisition, as a similar example of the painter's work is not to be found outside of England, according to Charles Percy Davis, curator, who said the portrait was acquired directly from the collection of Capt. T. E. Sotheron Estcourt of England, into whose family it had passed from the Sidmouth family many years ago.

Henry Addington, first Viscount Sidmouth, entered the House of Commons through the interest of William Pitt and became Speaker, President of the Council, Viscount Sidmouth, Lord Privy Seal and Secretary of State for the Home Department.

It is as Speaker of the House that he is shown in this portrait, at the age of 32, in his robes of office and with the mace on the table. He is painted full length. The canvas is more than seven feet high.

Copley, who lived from 1737 until 1815, was an American of English-Irish parentage. He is sometimes spoken of as a self-taught portrait painter, but he had the advantage of early teaching from his stepfather, Peter Pelham, also a portrait painter. He achieved great success in America and in England, where he went in 1775. He became an associate of the Royal Academy in 1777 and academician in 1783. Engravings have bee made of his paintings, including this portrait of Viscount Sidmouth.

Civilian Engineer Gets Year's Pay, Naval Officers Distinguished Service Medal.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 10.—The two naval officers and the civilian engineer who were responsible for the invention and testing of the submarine "lung" escape device today received the highest honors the President and the Navy Department could confer.

Secretary Adams, at the direction of President Hoover, awarded the distinguished service medal to Lieut. Charles B. Momsen and Chief Gunner Clarence L. Tibbals, who tested the device, escaping by means of it from depths as great as 206 feet. The Navy Department maed a cash award of a year's pay to Frank M. Hobson, civilian engineer of the Bureau of Construction and repair, who was assisted by the others in working out the invention.

Tibbals already has received the Navy Cross in recognition of his part in the raising of the submarine S-4. Lieut. Momsen made a preliminary test of the lung at the time the S-4 was refloated.

BUFORD QUITS SENATE FOR REMAINDER OF SESSION

Submits an Apology to Democratic Caucus for His Profane Outburst on the Floor Wednesday.

REFUSES TO RESIGN EARLIER IN THE DAY

Kinney of St. Louis, Casey of Kansas City and McCawley Save Colleague From Expulsion.

By CURTIS A. BETTS,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, May 10.—Senator Carter M. Buford of Reynolds County was saved the odium of expulsion from the Missouri Senate by submitting to the caucus of Democratic Senators last night an apology for his conduct on the floor of the Senate Wednesday, and by agreeing to remain away from the Senate for the rest of the present session.

The Senator expressed regret for his violently profane outburst following the action of a Senate clerk, Harold Mason of Marceline, Mo., who demanded in a loud voice from the gallery: "My God, take that drunken Senator out of here and proceed with your business." Buford shouted back with opprobrious epithets: "Bring him down here, I'll take care of him." The Senate was in an uproar instantly and wild excitement reigned for several minutes, Buford repeating his profane outburst, and finally causing the Senate to be adjourned to end the scene.

Ultimatum Served on Buford.

It was ostensibly to consider the punishment that would be imposed on Buford for this action that the caucus was called yesterday morning, though in reality it resulted from a long series of offenses of similar, though somewhat less objectionable kind that have characterized his conduct throughout the session.

The apology and agreement came after an entire day of caucusing and several conferences with Buford, and after the caucus had served on him an ultimatum that he either resign or be expelled. The final outcome was the result of a determined fight made for Buford by Senator Casey of Kansas City, Senator Kinney of St. Louis and Senator McCawley of Carthage.

Senator Casey today read Buford's apology to the Senate and offered a motion that it be accepted and that Buford be granted leave of absence. The motion was adopted without comment.

Text of Apology.

The apology signed by Buford was:

"I, Carter M. Buford, Senator of the Twenty-fourth Senatorial District, express my sincere sorrow and regret for my unseemly words and conduct, which transpired in your body on the eighth day of May, 1929.

"I am truly sorry and regretful of such conduct and trust the membership will believe and realize that my violation of the decorum and proper conduct of a Senator in this body was due to my physical condition and was not prompted by any disrespect for the body or any member thereof.

"The interference from the gallery by one not a member incensed me and caused me to make an unseemly outbreak. I have not been well, and the sudden interference from the gallery with my illness unbalanced me temporarily.

"I request the Missouri Senate to grant me a leave of absence from attendance in said body during the balance of the present session of this Assembly."

Before the caucus adjourned at 10 o'clock, Buford had departed with his sons, Anthony and Wilbur, in an automobile for St. Louis, where Democratic Senators were informed he would remain several weeks for treatment.

Senator Cave, Democratic floor leader, and caucus chairman, who was authorized to speak for the Democratic Senators, said he thought the abandonment of the plan to expel Buford was wise.

"All that could have been accomplished by expulsion will have been accomplished if the agreement is kept," he said. "If it is not kept then the most drastic action must be taken."

A Senator who participated in the caucus said that Senator Casey

DEBENTURE PLAN CAUSES SPLITS IN HOUSE AND SENATE

Borah Answers Charge by Fess That He Is 'Pseudo-Republican' by Calling Him 'Intellectual Slave.'

DEMOCRATS ENJOY ROW OF OPPONENTS

Robinson Denies Proposal Is Unconstitutional, and Predicts It Will Be Brought Up for Vote.

By CHARLES G. ROSS,
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 10.—The special session of Congress, not yet a month old, has already given the administration leadership a bad case of frayed and jumpy nerves.

On the Senate side, the spectacle is presented of the wheel horse, Fess of Ohio, the Republican whip, openly attacking Borah and the other Republicans who defied the President to vote for the farm debenture plan.

On the House side, the little group of leaders who control the course of legislation as effectively as it was ever controlled by "Czar" Cannon—the triumvirate composed of Speaker Longworth, Floor Leader Tilson and Rules Chairman Snell—are casting about for the most efficacious means of killing the debenture plan when it comes to the lower body.

In the offing is the Smoot-Hawley tariff, which increases tariff rates higher than the Fordney-McCumber act, which had already put them higher than they had ever been before.

Fess Assails Borah's Regularity.

At a time when the administration needs all the votes it can muster, Senator Fess, assuming at once a punitive and a prophetic role, made public a letter which widened the gap between the regulars and the independents of the party. Fess called Borah a "pseudo - Republican" and bemoaned the fact that the President had been led by Borah to call the special session.

If the President had been guided by his (Fess's) advice, said the Ohio Senator, there would have been no special session and hence no Democratic-Republican coalition to embarass the President at the outset of the administration.

"We are in the session for all summer, if not all year," he said plaintively.

Borah immediately slapped back. So also did Nye and Brookhart, the others who were specfically named in the Fess letter.

Borah Calls Fess a "Slave."

Borah said that in voting for the debenture plan he expressed a long-settled conviction; he had supported Mr. Hoover sincerely, but that did not mean that he was to be forever debarred from voting his own views. He put Fess in "the base class of intellectual slaves."

While this provocative exchange was going forward on the Senate side, to the vast delight of the Democrats, the House leaders were in anxious conference over the debenture plan. Regular Republicans from the Senate, such as Watson, Edge, Moses and Fess, dipped into the parleys.

Some of the conferees thought that the House leadership should refused to receive the bill with the debenture plan from the Senate, on the ground that the Senate had usurped the constitutional prerogative of the House to initiate revenue legislation.

Speaker Longworth, it is known, is already prepared with a ruling that the action was unconstitutional.

"Let the Senate once get its nose under the tent," said one of the leaders, "and it will eventually turn the whole tent over on us."

Advisers Prefer Short Cut.

On the other hand, the view was expressed that the bill should be received and the debenture plan smothered in conference. This appeared to be the view of the Senatorial advisers, who pointed out that a rule against the receipt of the bill would bring on a debate in the Senate that might last all summer.

The question was left open. One likely solution is that the House will receive the bill, but at the same time, under the whip of the Republican leadership, go on record with an expression that this action is not to be construed as a precedent.

On the floor of the Senate, Joe Robihson, the Democratic leader, made a savage attack on the movement to have the House turn back the bill on constitutional grounds. His speech was in reply to a remark by Senator Moses that in adopting the debenture provision the Senate had "affronted" the House.

Robinson declared it was plain to anybody who had studied the subject that the debenture plan had no relation whatever to the clause of the Constitution which provides that "bills for raising revenue shall originate in the House of Representatives."

Robinson Says Plan Is "Ruse."

Robinson said that the Supreme Court had repeatedly decided that the econstitutional provision in question had to do only with the taxing power. It had nothing to do, he asserted, with bills for the withdrawal of money from the Treasury. He resented what he called a "parliamentary ruse" to keep the House from expressing itself on the debenture plan.

"Let us get that proposition clear now," warned Robinson. "Before this Congress shall adjourn the debenture plan will be voted on."

Robinson asserted that the proposed debenture was no more a bounty than the tariff.

"If" he said, "the high tariff which has been built up about industry is to be maintained, the same privileges, to some degree, should be extended to the farmers—the people who need them most.

"There is one principle to which we should all conform. That is the principle of equality of rights, privileges and opportunities. When the Republican majority recognize that principle, instead of coming here with a 500-page bill, which constructs higher and higher and stronger and stronger the bulwarks behind which great wealth intrenches itself, they will do something calculated to afford relief, quick relief, to those who have been the object of our professed political solicitude throughout 10 years of agitation."

Moses retorted that he was sure the House would "politely return" the farm relief bill.

Borah and Others Reply to Criticism by Fess.

In a statement on the Fess letter, Senator Borah said he did not Senator Borah said he did not like personal controversies, but he thought such action by the party whip demanded a reply. He recalled that for three years he had been an advocate of the export debenture method of farm relief and had voted for it last year.

"I therefore voted upon yesterday according to my long-settled convictions. I would not know how to vote otherwise. I am sure that Mr. Hoover did not assume for a moment that by my support I was changing my views upon public questions or surrendering the right to form them. Only a base class of intellectual slaves would entertain or promulgate such an idea.

"There have been questions about which we have differed ever since we have both been in public life. There will undoubtedly be questions in the future upon which we shall differ."

The Idaho Senator referred to the protective tariff as a benefit to manufacturing interests, and contended debentures would be no more of a bounty.

"Mr. Fess," he continued, "hastens with impatient pride to devote all kinds of bounty to manufacturing interests, but recoils with pseudo-pride from extending the same principle exactly to the producers. If the economic schism thus indicated means one which will break across party lines, it will be because those who have been recipients of the favor of the Government so long are unwilling to extend the same favor to the producers."

Senator Nye asked, "Who gives and establishes what is to become Republicanism?

"Is it a few individuals or is it the great mass of people who determine what is and what is not Republicanism?" he continued. "Those who freely resort to the term 'pseudo-Republican' would do well to study their own Republicanism with that which gave birth, vitality and life to the party."

Senator Brookhart acknowledged that he had asked Mr. Hoover to call an extra session, adding that he was "the first one to do so."

"But the farm bill I had in mind when I talked with Mr. Hoover last summer and again when I campaigned for him, was different from the one we are called upon here to pass."

Senator Fess said that all the Republican independents "save one" voted with the Democrats for the debenture proposal. He added that Senator Couzens of Michigan "stood with the administration."

JOHN GILBERT AND BRIDE BACK AT WORK

Return to Hollywood by Airplane After Marriage at Las Vegas, Nev.

By the Associated Press.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., May 10.—John Gilbert, motion picture hero, and Ina Claire, film actress and former musical comedy star, were back in Hollywood today for an interval of studio work before starting on their honeymoon.

Miss Claire and Gilbert were married yesterday at Las Vegas, Nev., after having made a night trip across the desert from Los Angeles to expedite their marriage plans. A marriage in California involves a three-day wait for issuance of a license.

Las Vegas, a desert town near the California border which has taken on new life recently because of its proximity to the site of the Boulder Dam, was expectant. Real estate agents, cowboys, miners and young women crowded into the small office of Justice of the Peace Roger Foley when the film pair arrived. Both gave their ages as 32 years. Foley pronounced them man and wife in a deep bass voice and Gilbert and Miss Claire embraced.

As they emerged from the office they were greeted with cheers and waving of hats. They left almost immediately in an airplane for Hollywood.

Gilbert planned to be back at his studio today and Miss Claire expected to resume work on a film Monday. They plan to live at Beverly Hills until their present pictures are completed and then take a honeymoon trip.

ADMITS GRAUSTEIN GAVE HIM MONEY TO BUY 4 PAPERS

William Lavarre Says He Sought International Paper Co. Head to Finance Plan.

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 10.—William J. Lavarre, a 30-year-old Harvard graduate, today told the Federal Trade Commission that the International Paper Co. gave him and his partner, Harold Hall, a New York newspaper man, virtual carte blanche to purchase Southern newspapers. Under this agreement the two young men purchased four newspapers without putting up a cent of their own capital.

Hall declined to give the individual prices paid for the four papers. A. R. Graustein, president of the International Power and Paper Co., testified recently that he understood that his company had advanced $855,000 to the young men.

The papers bought by Hall and Lavarre were the Augusta (Ga.) Chronicle, the Columbia (S. C.) Record and the Spartanburg (S. C.) Herald and Spartanburg Journal. The two latter papers are published by the same corporation.

Charles O. Haron, editor of the Spartanburg Herald and Journal, has submitted his resignation to Lavarre, in a telegram in which he said he never would have knowingly "agreed to become the editor of newspapers owned or circulated by the International Paper & Power Co., or any special interests."

Commissioner Edgar A. McCulloch was apparently dumfounded that a corporation like the International would advance so much money without any written contract for protection.

"Did you furnish any capital in the transactions?" he asked. "No, sir," Lavarre replied.

"Then it looks to me like a purchase by the International, which paid you a salary, advanced you the money for the papers and in one instance advanced you money to run the paper," McCulloch continued.

Merely Acted as Banker.

"The International merely acted as a banker," Lavarre declared.

"But the Internatioal is not a banking institution," McCulloch observed. "I think it is through the International Securities Co.," the witness said.

"Do you know of any bank, which will lend you the full purchase price of a company," Healy interposed. "A bank might, to develop a growing business," Lavarre replied. "I meant that the International had no more control over us than a bank would have had if we had borrowed the money from it. Just because a bank holds a mortgage on my home, does not mean that the bank owns or controls my home."

"Do you think a bank would lend you the purchase price of a home?" Healy asked. Lavarre admitted that he did not think a bank would advance so much money on a home.

The telegram from Hearon was put into the record as an exhibit in the Federal Trade Commission's investigation of newspaper purchases by the International Power and Paper Co. Hearon said in his telegram that he was "under the impression that we were selling the newspapers to you individually." Hearon also resigned as supervising editor of the Columbia, S. C., Record, and Augusta, Ga., Chronicle. The two other newspapers owned by Lavarre and Hall.

"Why did you buy only four newspapers?" asked Robert E. Healy, chief counsel for the Commission. "Because I had only two legs," Lavarre replied.

At $250 a Month.

Lavarre told an amazing story of salesmanship. He stated that for some time he had contemplated buying a string of Southern newspapers, but had lacked capital. Early last fall, however, he conceived the idea of getting the needed funds from the International Paper Co. He made a survey of the Southern field and finally induced Graustein and N. C. Head, vice president of the International, to back him.

The two paper and power executives agreed that he and Hall, who had been business manager for the New York Telegram, should continue the survey and draw on funds advanced by the International. From these funds, the two prospectors paid themselves a monthly salary of $1250 each and drew whatever money necessary for expenses. No notes or receipts were given for the amounts drawn.

The only stipulation the International put on the activities of the two men was that the International should have the power to refuse the options obtained by them.

Crosses Bryan-Thomason Trail.

Under Healy's cross-questioning, Lavarre told in great detail his attempts to buy a score of other newspapers. In these efforts, he crossed the trail of John S. Bryan and S. E. Thomason, publishers of the Chicago Journal and several Southern papers. Bryan and Thomason also have received financial assistance from the International in their acquisition of newspapers.

Commenting on the activities of these competitors, Lavarre said, "It was rather funny. We thought that they had their own money. When we learned that they had the same backers, we withdrew from a deal for the Greensboro (S. C.) News. We found that our broker was working for them."

Lavarre said that no one knew until the last two weeks where he and Hall obtained the money to purehase the newspapers.

"No question was ever raised as to our backing," he testified. He said that all payments were made in cash. In purchasing the Augusta Chronicle, Lavarre said, he learned that the Georgia Power Co. controlled part of the capital stock. At Healy's request, the witness identified an editorial in the Chronicle, written by Lavarre, which denied that the Georgia Power Co. at present had any interest in that newspaper. Nothing was said as to the International backing of the purchasers.

Indorsed in Blank.

Lavarre testified that in buying the Greensboro Record and the Augusta Chronicle, the stock was indorsed in blank and turned over to him. He stated that the securities of the Spartanburg papers were assigned directly to him.

All the securities, he said, were now in a safety deposit box in New York. He stated that morally these should be turned over to the International as collateral for the loans, but that physically they had not been so turned over.

"Our plan was," he said, "to form a holding company to be known as the Piedmont Publishing Co., which would issue bonds, non-voting and voting stock. The non-voting securities were to be turned over to the International as payment for our loans. This has not been done as yet, and I don't know whether it will be done."

This Piedmont company, so far as Hall and Lavarre were concerned had no connection with the International's purchases into the Gannett newspapers.

"Do you still retain authority from the International to purchase papers with the understanding that it will back you?" Healey asked. "I do not know," Lavarre replied. "That is a question that I should not raise on my own initiative."

Like Graustein, Lavarre insisted that the International was interested in buying newspapers merely to find an outlet for newsprint. He denied, like Graustein, that the paper and power company had any intention of directing editorial or news policy.

NO INVESTIGATION IN FATAL SHOOTING AT STURGEON, MO.

Clarence Chilton, 21, Died April 26 After Being Wounded March 31 While in Aunt's Yard.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

STURGEON, Mo., May 10.—Although two weeks have elapsed since his death, no official investigation has been made to determine the circumstances surrounding the fatal shooting, March 31, of Clarence Chilton, 21-year-old ward of E. L. Rucker, prosperous Sturgeon merchant, who was shot while in the back yard of his home and died April 26 from the effects of the wound.

Chilton told Mr. and Mrs. Rucker, with whom he had made his home since early childhood, that he was shot by a prowler, who might have been attempting to steal the Rucker automobile, parked in a rear shed. The Ruckers have accepted his version and have not requested an investigation. No inquest into his death was held, due in part to the fact that the county Coroner recently accepted employment in another city and has not resigned.

Residents of Sturgeon, however, are inclined to discount the prowler theory, a Post-Dispatch reporter learned and constant discussion of the Easter Sunday shooting has given rise to various reports and opinions. The majority of the townsfolk think that young Chilton, who was popular in the community, either was shot by some unknown enemy who laid in wait for him, or that the wound, which at first was not considered vital, was self-inflicted.

Discharged Shell Found.

"Happy" Chilton, so nicknamed because of his sunny and generous disposition, was shot from the front under the left shoulder about 9:45 p. m.

A discharged .32-caliber shell, apparently ejected from an automatic pistol, was found about 10 feet from the blood-spot by searchers the morning after the shooting. Chilton made his way to the kitchen door and called for help. He told Mrs. Rucker that he had seen the flash of a pistol from the alley, felt the bullet, and as he fell, had heard someone running away in the alley.

Many of "Happy" Chilton's friends, in discussing his death, recall how the youth was the leader in fun-making around Sturgeon, which sometimes drew them out of the bounds of propriety and into the hands of Constable Hallahan. It is remembered how rapidly he drove the automobile furnished him by his aunt, Mrs. Rucker, and how freely he spent the money he received from the same source.

Boasted of Affairs With Women.

Some of those who knew him say that he at one time owned a pistol of the same caliber as that which cost his life. All agree that he was a free spender, a heavy drinker and was the "life of any party" he attended. He was given at times to boasting, his former companions said, especially of his affairs with women. He recently told his friends that he was attentive to a married woman, and added: "She's just worrying me to death."

Some of his associates have pointed out that "Happy" in attempting to achieve the public attention he seemed to crave, may have shot himself Easter Sunday night, intending to inflict a wound which would gain him notice, but would not result in death. He may have concealed the pistol, it is said, and when he was well enough to leave the house, recovered it. The fact that no one of Chilton's family has requested an investigation is held by many to be indicative that the wound was self-inflicted.

However, Chilton's closest friend, William Lawrence, who was with him almost constantly from the day after he was shot until the hour of his death in a Moberly hospital, where he was taken when a blood-vessel injured by the bullet, had burst, is convinced that "Happy" did not wound himself.

Chum Discounts Suicide Theory.

"He asked me several times," Lawrence said, "if I knew anybody who had it in for him enough to shoot him. I told him I didn't, and he said he just couldn't figure it out unless it was someone who wanted to steal the car. Chilton didn't have any real enemies that I know of. He liked a good time and he got around a lot, but why anybody would want to shoot him, I don't know. It's got me."

Mrs. Louise Spelman, who before her marriage to Clay Spelman, now a garageman in Columbia, had kept company with Chilton, was one of the last persons, other than his family, who saw the youth just prior to the shooting. Mrs. Spelman, who at that time was living temporarily with her parents in Sturgeon, met Chilton in a restaurant, where they had sodas together. He left her a short time before he was wounded, Mrs. Spelman said, and she noticed nothing unusual in his manner or conversation.

Although interest in the community is still centered on the manner in which Chilton was killed, his friends, who have attempted to unearth evidence that would justify special investigation by Prosecuting Attorney Reagan of Columbia, are yet at a loss to prove or disprove "Happy" Chilton's own explanation that he was shot by a prowler.

CHLORINE EXPLOSION GASSES 30, ONE FATALLY, IN EAST

By the Associated Press.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., May 10.—Thirty men were gassed, one fatally; a building was wrecked and the entire Solvay district threatened by the explosion of a 9000-gallon tank of chlorine gas in the chemical and dye plant of the Solvay Process Co. today.

The most seriously affected were rescued from a cloud of the poisonous vapor by fellow workers. They were James Carlise, 25, who died later in a hospital, and Charles Ney, 39.

The explosion occurred while the dirigible Los Angeles was flying over the town, a fact which perhaps saved the lives of some workers as they rushed into the open air to watch it.

The force of the blast tore loose the walls and roof of the wooden house in which the tank was placed and the deadly gas spread through the neighborhood. Workers wearing gas masks went into the wreckage and carried out Carlisle and Ney.

PASTOR DIES AFTER ATTACK OVER SERMON HE PREACHED

By the Associated Press.

PORTLAND, Ore., May 10.—The Rev. Andrew Lajunen, pastor of the Finnish Pentecostal Church at Mullan, Ida., died in a hospital here today from injuries alleged to have been inflicted by four members of his congregation because they objected to a sermon.

Before his death, the minister told detectives that he had refused to sign a complaint against the four men, whom he was unable to name, and that an investigation of the case by officers at Mullan had been dropped.

The pastor went to Spokane three days after the attack and then came here to visit a friend. His condition grew worse and he entered the hospital. Hospital attendants said death was caused by a fractured skull.

SECOND MISSOURI WOMAN POISONER GETS FIVE YEARS

Mrs. Nora Edwards, Like Mrs. Bertha Gifford, Uses Insanity Plea in Defense for Attempted Murder.

ACCUSED OF TRYING TO KILL HUSBAND

Two Previous Mates, Daughter and Stepson Died Mysteriously — Arsenic Found in Her House

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

POPLAR BLUFF, Mo., May 10.—The second conviction of a Missouri woman for poisoning in the last six months occurred here yesterday when Mrs. Nora Edwards, 38 years old, was sentenced to five years' imprisonment for attempting to murder her third husband, J. W. Edwards, 60.

Mrs. Edwards' first and second husbands, her 13-year-old daughter, Ethel May, and Edwards', son, Forrest, 15, had died mysteriously, with symptoms somewhat resembling those of Edwards. Investigation was blocked when the County Court refused to appropriate funds to exhume the body of Forrest Edwards for examination for poison.

Last November Mrs. Bertha Gifford, whose defense, like that of Mrs. Edwards, was insanity, was convicted at Union of poisoning Edward P. Brinley, a farm hand. Suspected of responsibility in 17 other deaths, she was committed to a State hospital for the insane at Farmington. Physicians testified at Mrs. Gifford's trial that she was a paranoiac. For years she had been beloved by her neighbors for her Samaritanism, and then feared as a furtive poisoner. She was excited by suffering and had a passion for "sitting up" with the sick and laying out the dead.

Man Found Drunk a Victim.

Brinley, who did not support his family, had fallen drunk in Mrs. Gifford's yard and was taken in with her traditional desire to "aid" the unfortunate. Among suspected victims of her Messianic delusion were twin orphan boys, a crippled child, a baby born out of wedlock, a woman suffering from tuberculosis and another from cancer. Taxed with the murders, Mrs. Gifford tremulously protested: "But I wanted to help them. I wanted to do good."

The insanity defense did not impress the jury so deeply in the trial of Mrs. Edwards, who already is under two-year sentence for the theft of merchandise from the home of a neighbor, discovered after the community became suspicious of the sinister sequence of deaths in her family. The jury deliberated only 15 minutes.

It was a strange story that Edwards told on the stand—the story of the undoing of the once generally respected daughter of the late Sheriff John Souders, Poplar Bluff lumberman—while she listened in the courtroom, a large-boned woman with awkwardly rouged cheeks and assiduously curled hair.

Weds Odd-Job Man.

She had just inherited $5000 from the estate of her father when she married Fred Padgett, an odd-job man, two years younger than she. Padgett's bride, reared in a substantial family and a regular attendant of the Christian Church, had become flirtatious and excitable.

She and Padgett ran through the $5000. Padgett became ill of malaria in October, 1924. He apparently had mastered the fever when he became violently ill and died in convulsions within 10 minutes. While the physician considered the relapse extraordinary, he entered "malarial fever" on the death certificate and no autopsy was held.

His widow was reduced to working in a shoe factory to support her two daughters, Ethel May and Mildred. Ethel May was insured for $250. She became ill in 1927 with what the doctor described as influenza, multiple neuritis," and died within two days. Four days later her mother married A. X. Harris, 60, a butcher and a jovial widower.

Harris adopted Mildred, who was [illegible] years old, and had her name changed to Harris. He had $1000 insurance and obtained an additional $250 insurance soon after marriage. A few months later he became ill. Acute nausea passed into a severe physical decline resembling typhoid fever, the physician thought, but without fever. In a few days Harris died. The physician made out the certificate as acute heart disease.

Weds Man With 10 Children.

Within six months she was married to Edwards, a widower with 10 children. He is a carpenter, and she had employed him for some work at her home. She has said that she bought his wedding suit and a new dress for his 16-year-old daughter, Mary.

Edwards obtained $750 insurance and, at Mrs. Edwards' suggestion, Mary Edwards was insured for $450, Forrest Edwards for $495 and his brother, James Edwards, for $450. Less than a month after the wedding, Forrest Edwards became ill. He had abdominal pains and his hands and feet grew numb. He died within a week. Two physicians refused to sign a death certificate, but a third signed it, giving the cause as inflammation of the stomach and kidneys.

The boy's father sued a storekeeper from whom Forrest bought an ice cream cone which he had eaten before he became ill, but dropped the suit when physicians told him the cone had not caused the illness.

Slow Poison, Doctor Says.

Last September, two months after Forrest Edwards died, his father became ill. A physician expressed the opinion that he was suffering from a slow poison, and, Edwards testified, his wife plotted the death of the physician, Dr. J. L. Harwell. She went to Edwards, he related, and asked if he believed she had poisoned him.

He did not then, but a few weeks later her daughter, Mildred Padgett Harris, found a box of a powder labeled arsenic behind the piano. He heard of the incident and asked his wife to show him the box. She told him she had found it in the street and threw it in the stove. Mary Edwards later found a bottle of a similar powder in Mrs. Edwards' trunk, and Mrs. Edwards threw it into the fire. It burned with an odor like that of the other powder.

Edwards secretly had taken a sample from the bottle, and a physician told him it was poison. He lived in fear until his physician had him taken to St. Louis Baptist Hospital. No traces of poison were found in long tests, but physicians explained the effects might remain after the poison itself was eliminated.

Edwards, like three of those who died, suffered first of acute nausea. After periods of unconsciousness, he lost the use of hands and feet. Physicians explained that was due to nerve inflammation which might have been caused by the poisons of a disease or by poison criminally administered, but pointed out that there was no evidence of disease as the cause.

Figures in Poisoning Conviction at Poplar Bluft, Mo.

AT RIGHT, Mrs. Nora Edwards, 38 years old, found guilty of attempting to poison her husband. With her in the picture is her daughter, Mildred Harris, 6 years old, who found a box of arsenic behind the piano and aroused the suspicions of her stepfather, J. W. Edwards, 60, shown above, who was said to have been Mrs. Edwards' intended victim, but recovered after a severe illness. With Edwards is a daughter. Forrest Edwards, (below) his son, 15 years old, who died mysteriously, and is thought to have been poisoned by his stepmother, but the County Court declined to order his body exhumed because of the expense. Mrs. Edwards' first and second husbands and her 13-year-old daughter also died under unexplained circumstances.

TWO WOMEN FREED IN KILLING ON 'JOINT INSANITY' DEFENSE

Mrs. Clara Fischer and Daughter Acquitted of Murdering Her Husband, Sent to Asylum.

CHICAGO, May 10.—An unusual form of insanity, turned down by a defense in the Snyder-Gray murder trial in New York, saved a woman and her daughter yesterday in what officials say is the first case in which it has been accepted by a court in the United States.

"Fole a deux" ("folly of two") was the defense offered in behalf of Mrs. Clara Fischer, 57 years old, and her daughter, Ethel, 31, who strangled their father, Jacob, with his necktie while he was dressing, April 19.

Dr. Francis J. Gerty, superintendent of the Psychopathic Hospital, explained that the malady was, roughly, a "joint insanity." The mother had been afflicted all her life, he stated, and the daughter had developed it within recent years, until both had an identical complex. In their case, according to their testimony and that of Dr. Gerty, it caused them to believe the father was the head of a cult called the "Devil's Forceps."

Both were committed to an asylum.

BUFORD RETIRES FROM SENATE FOR REST OF SESSION

gave his word that if Buford returned to the Senate he would call him before the body and would present a resolution for his expulsion.

Buford Refuses to Resign.

The Democratic Senators were in secret caucus from 10:30 a. m. until 4 p. m. and from 8 to 10 p. m. Early in the proceedings a committee consisting of Senators McCawley, Kinney and Luther was appointed to visit Buford, he having been denied the right to sit in the conference, and inform him that he had the choice of resigning or being expelled. The committee returned with the information that he had agreed to sign a resignation from the Senate if one was prepared. The resignation and a resolution for introduction in the Senate accepting it were written, and the three Senators with Senators Donnelly and Painter took the resignation to Buford.

They argued with him for an hour, Buford one moment expressing a willingness to resign and the next insisting that he could not be forced to resign and would not do so.

The committee finally abandoned hope of obtaining his signature and returned with the report that he woud not sign.

Offers to Apologize.

In the meantime, Representative William P. Elmer of Dent County, which is in Buford's Senatorial District, appeared as his friend, urging leniency and expressing the opinion that Buford was willing to apologize and to agree to remain away from Jefferson City during the remainder of the session of the Legislature. There was objection from some of the Senators advocating expulsion on the ground that promises of Buford to cause no further trouble, made from time to time during the past four months, had not been kept, and they were fearful that he would return to the Senate and the entire matter would have to be taken up again.

The differences were ironed out satisfactorily, however, after the arrival of the Senator's son, Anthony, from St. Louis at 5 o'clock, and when the time came for approval of the action there was no dissent in the caucus.

The Democratic Senators were about evenly divided during most of the discussion on the question of expulsion after the caucus got down to serious consideration of the subject following Buford's decision to resign. Senators Dearmont of Cape Girardeau, Williams of Troy, Donnelly of Lebanon and Whitecotton of Paris were the leaders of the expulsion group, while Senators Casey of Kansas City, Kinney of St. Louis and McCawley of Carthage fought against drastic action.

When the caucus failed to act quickly after Buford's refusal to resign, it became apparent that it would follow the easiest course which has been that of the Senate throughout the session in regard to Buford. Notwithstanding his frequent outbursts on the floor and in committee meetings, the Senate has permitted him to have his own way, adjourning to avoid disgraceful scenes and permitting Buford to violate all the parliamentary rules of debate.

Buford Tries to Enter Caucus.

Buford shortly after noon convinced the group of reporters and others gathered outside the door of the caucus chamber that he would be the winner in the attempt to oust him from the Senate.

Returning to the caucus door some time after he had been ordered out of the room, he rapped loudly with a cane in an effort to obtain admission. The doorkeeper had discreetly disappeared when he saw Buford approaching, and none of those within the room would answer his knock. After a time Buford turned, and exclaimed:

"Those damned fellows got themselves into this mess, and they can get out of it the best way they can."

When it was all over it appeared Buford had properly anticipated the result of the caucus.

With Buford out of the Senate and his interference with orderly procedure no longer to be met, it is the expectation of Senate leaders that the body now will get down to work and that the Legislature will adjourn in about 10 days.

The greater part of the bills cannot be considered, and little of importance will have been accomplished. The appropriation bills will be passed next week and a number of bills will be taken up.

But the Senate cannot escape its record of non-accomplishment and time wasting.

NECK BROKEN, DIES AFTER CAR UPSETS ON ILLINOIS ROAD

Darwin D. Callison, 30, Succumbs on Way to Hospital; Woman Companion Cut and Bruised.

Darwin D. Callison, 30 years old, 1361 Pennsylvania avenue, East St. Louis, a cattle trader at the National Stock Yards, was fatally injured shortly after 3 o'clock this morning when his roadster upset after being forced off State Highway No. 3, a mile north of Dupo, by another automobile that did not stop. He died of a broken neck while being taken to St. Mary's Hospital in East St. Louis.

Callison, who lived with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Callison, had been to a theater in St. Louis with Miss Virginia Townes of East Carondelet, which is south of Dupo, and was escorting her home when the accident happened.

Miss Townes, who was thrown clear of the car and was only slightly injured, said a big car running at high speed from the south sideswiped their car, forcing it off the highway and causing it to turn over. She ran to a nearby farmhouse and a farmer extricated Callison, who was unconscious and pinioned under the car.

Besides his parents, Callison is survived by a brother and sister.

Two Little Girls Among Victims of Auto Accidents.

Betty Anne Hackman, 6-year-old daughter of Assistant City Counselor Alvin Hackman, who lives at 4086 Kingshighway Southwest, was seriously injured yesterday afternoon when she was struck by an automobile as she attempted to cross Alfred avenue in the 1900 block.

The driver, Otto Engel, a plumber, of 24 Marshall place, Webster Groves, took her to Missouri Pacific Hospital. She suffered an injury to her skull and a broken right ankle. Engel was arrested. He told police the girl ran into the path of his machine from behind a parked car.

Opal Moore, 7-year-old daughter of Robert C. Moore, 3941 Folsom avenue, suffered an injury to her skull today when she was struck by the automobile of Charles Schwarz, 5318 West avenue, in front of her home. She was taken to city hospital.

James O'Hearn, 11, 3922 Cottage avenue, suffered a broken arm and other injuries yesterday when struck by the automobile of Wallace B. Hunt, 2841 Abner place, in the 3800 block of Dodier street. He was taken to city hospital. Hunt was charged with careless driving.

Mrs. Fannie Grosby, 4559 McMillan avenue, was injured when struck by the machine of Thomas Howard of Dora, Mo., as Howard backed out of a parking position in the 1700 block of North Grand boulevard. He was arrested. Mrs. Grosby was taken to city hospital suffering from broken ribs.

Adelbert Taylor, 5, 3216A Magazine street, suffered a skull injury when struck in front of his home by a car driven by Fred McClintock of Farmnigton, Mo. The boy was taken to city hospital.

Stevens Chierek Jr., 6, 1825 North Twentieth street, suffered possible internal injuries when struck by the machine of Wickliffe Simon, 2008 Missouri avenue, as he attempted to cross North Market street at Twentieth street.

The Indian was sentenced to serve from three to five years inthe penitentiary.

Plans for the establishment of an "airport" for model airplanes will be discussed at a meeting at 1 p. m. tomorrow of representatives of public and private high schools of the city and county at the Grand Leader department store.

A High School Aviation Club will be formed. Several schools now have model airplane clubs and it is planned to consolidate these.

Coolidge Pays Tribute to Mother, Invalid, Who Died When He Was 12

Ex-President in Magazine Article Describes Scenes of Childhood and Tells of Grandparents.

Calvin Coolidge's tribute to his mother, who died when the future President was 12 years old, appears in the June installment of his autobiography, in Cosmopolitan Magazine. "The Scenes of My Childhood" is the title of this installment in a series of articles to continue through 1929. The "scenes" are those of the Green Mountains at Plymouth, Vt.

His mother, whose maiden name was Moor, "bore the name of two Empresses, Victoria Josephine," former President Coolidge writes. "She was of a very light and fair complexion, with a growth of brown hair that always had a glint of gold in it. Older people always told me how beautiful she was in her youth.

"She was practically an invalid ever after I could remember her, but used what strength she had in lavish care upon me and my sister, who was three years younger. There was a touch of mysticism and poetry in her nature which made her love to gaze at the purple sunsets and watch the evening stars.

"Whatever was grand and beautiful in form and color attracted her. It seemed as though the rich green tints of the foliage and the blossoms of the flowers came for her in the spring time, and in the autumn it was for her that the mountain sides were struck with crimson and with gold."

He describes the parting scene at his mother's bedside on the day of her death, which was her thirty-ninth birthday.

"It always seemed to me," he added, "that the boy I lost was her image." The reference is to Calvin Coolidge Jr., who died while the family lived in the White House.

Characters interestingly described are the former President's father, John C. Coolidge, conutry storekeeper; his grandfather, Calvin Galusha Coolidge, whose mother showed "a marked trace of Indian blood"; his grandmother Coolidge, a woman of piety and prayer, and the $1-a-day blacksmith who ran the blacksmith shop owned by John C. Coolidge. Grandfather Coolidge, it is related, used to wear a blue woolen frock, cut like an old-fashioned shirt, with flaps reaching to the knees. Calvin Coolidge used to wear this frock on his visits to the old place, until, after he had become a public character, he found that people thought it to be a "make-up costume." So he had to "forego the comfort of wearing it."

"In public life," he comments, "it is sometimes necessary, in order to appear really natural, to be actually artificial."

long and he will get the money of fire, so I wish you work."

On Parole to Uncle.

Probation Officer I. H. Howard of East St. Louis, to whom Sherman had been paroled originally, said Sherman had served as chauffeur for one of the Pontiac Reformatory officials when sent there as a robber. Sherman's parole was changed last January to place him in care of an uncle, William Becker of St. Louis. Sherman told Howard he was employed in a St. Louis grocery.

Perkins at first denied to police that he knew Sherman, but made a confession after Berghaus, the filling station attendant, had identified him as one of the hold-up men and the body of Sherman as that of the other robber. Perkins had $15. Besides last night's hold-ups, he admitted seven others in recent weeks.

Man Missing Since April 27.

William Fisher, 63 years old, 2340 Madison street, is being sought by police at the request of relatives, who said he left home April 27 to go to his work at the North St. Louis Planing Mill, Grand boulevard and Carter avenue, and has not been seen since.

FILES SUIT TO RECOVER $1,000,000 COAL LANDS

John Henderson Names Wife Suing Him for Divorce Among Defendants.

Suit to recover title to coal mining properties valued in excess of $1,000,000 was filed at Clayton yesterday by John Henderson of the Kings-Way Hotel, former president of the West Virginia Coal Co., with offices in Boatmen's Bank Building.

Defendants named are his wife, Mrs. Viola Henderson, 7006 Westmoreland avenue, University City, who sued him for divorce March 11, alleging indignities; her brother, Clarence J. Sandoe, and the coal company. The divorce suit is set for hearing tomorrow.

In his petition, Henderson recites that for 25 years he has been in the wholesale coal and mining development business, with extensive rights in Southern Illinois. He opened an office in St. Louis in 1908 and a year later married one of his employes.

In 1922, the petition continues, his wife persuaded him to transfer title to his coal mining properties and his home to her and her brother as trustees, for their mutual protection against his interests outside the coal business. Henderson mentions that he was director of a bank which failed in that year, and he had to pay certain obligations.

Recently when Henderson returned from a business trip out of town and his wife returned from a vacation trip to Florida, she confronted him at his offices with private detectives and ordered him forcibly ejected, his answer to her petitions says. To preserve peace, he left voluntarily, he says.

Henderson charges that his wife and her brother have refused to return title to his properties to him, that they have elected themselves officers of the West Virginia and affiliated companies and have voted him out of office, and that they are neglecting and mismanaging the business.

He asks that title to the properties be restored to him, that a temporary receiver be appointed, that an accounting be made by the defendants, and that the divorce suit be enjoined until the financial matters are settled. The defendants could not be reached.

WITNESS ASSAILS LOADING POLICY OF VESTRIS OWNERS

Ex-Officer of Vauban, Sister Ship, Admits Falsifying Log to Conceal True Draft of His Vessel.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

Copyright, 1929, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Cos. (the New York World and St. Louis Post-Dispatch.)

LONDON, May 10.—Consistent overloading of a ship operated by the Lamport & Holt line, owners of the ill-fated Vestris, and later falsification of the ship's log to conceal the overloading, was described in evidence given here yesterday before the Board of Trade by Stephen Chester Southam, until recently first officer of the steamer Vauban, sister ship of the Vestris.

The sinking of the latter vessel, with a consequent loss of more than 100 lives, is the subject of a Board of Trade inquiry.

Southam said that his testimony was given "in the interests of the whole merchant service."

His testimony was admitted "against the owners of the Vestris and against their service," in the words of E. A. Digby, appearing for the surviving Vestris officers and the families of the dead, who examined Southam on the stand. Digby said, "I am at a later stage bound to make suggestions that there was an attempt at the beginning to conceal the true draft of the Vestris."

Southam testified that when he left the Vauban he took with him scrap logs and brought them to England. He gave an instance of a voyage on the Vauban when he told the chief officer what he had entered in his log for the draft, and was told to remove it with a liquid ink eraser and write in another draft on top.

Asked why he took the scrap logs, Southam said:

"I thought it would be better to square up the matter once for all after the disaster to the Vestris. I knew I had no legal right to take them; but I thought I had a moral right."

An affidavit made by the witness was read, which contained the following: "It has been part of my duty to falsify log abstracts so that it was recorded that the ship (the Vauban) left in a properly loaded condition, when in fact she did not."

A sworn statement made by Emlyn Samuel Phillips, recently chief officer of the Vauban, also was read to the board.

"I have been concerned in my mind," it stated, "over the fact that my vessel has been in my opinion operated in a manner so at times to render her unseaworthy, so that the lives of persons have been likely to have been thereby endangered."

Under cross-examination the witness stated that he had never had any instructions from anyone with regard to falsifying drafts. He concluded his testimony by saying.

"We (Southam and myself) were struck by the attitude of American newspapers toward the captain and officers of the Vestris. We spoke about it among ourselves and when Southam told me he had started to make a statement I decided to back him up and tell the truth."

FOUR PATIENTS MAKE ESCAPE AT CITY SANITARIUM

William G. Kaufman, Known as Firebug and Former Policeman Among Missing Inmates.

Four patients at the city sanitarium, 5600 Arsenal street, one of them the city's most dangerous pyromaniac, escaped last night by using a duplicate key.

Those who escaped were William G. Kaufman, 24 years old, the "firebug;" Louis Hyneck, 36, a former policeman, who lived at 4239W San Francisco avenue; Thomas Broaddus, 36, 3964 Westminster place, and Frank Muth, 22, 2203 North Broadway.

All were clad in hospital overalls. In departing, they left behind a duplicate key with which they had unlocked the door. The key had been obtained at a Pine street shop, presumably by some outside accomplice. The patients were found missing at 12:40 a. m.

Kaufman, who confessed firing places for the thrill he received from the flames and the fire engines, was arrested in April, 1926, after damages estimated at $136,300 had been caused by fires at the Western Furniture Co., Blair and Palm streets; Sterling Hardwood Co., Second and Buchanan streets, and Nabor Furniture Co., Broadway and Farrar street.

Tried for arson, he was convicted and sentenced to five years in prison, but obtained a new trial, and on Aug. 23 of that year was found insane and sent to the sanitarium.

In September, 1924, Kaufman had been arrested, following a series of big fires at the Boeckeler Lumber Co., Mound City Storage Co., and Crescent Planing Mill. Convicted of arson Feb. 4, 1925, he was sentenced to two years in prison, but was discharged Dec. 26 of that year for good behavior.

MOVIE ACTRESSES QUESTIONED AFTER DEATH OF DANCER

Throw No Light on Case of Delphine Walsh Who Died After Illegal Operation.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., May 10.—Questioning of Natalie Joyce and Mildred Harris, motion picture actresses, failed to throw any light on incidents which led to the death recently of Delphine Walsh, Hollywood dancer, William A. Byrne, special agent of the State Board of Medical Examiners, announced here today. Miss Harris said she knew nothing of the dancer's associates. Miss Joyce said she had not seen Miss Walsh for a year. Miss Walsh died after an illegal operation. Dr. P. S. Traxler and Dr. R. S. Lanterman were arrested and charged with murder.

A trip to San Francisco to attend a wedding and a party later attended by Miss Walsh were made the subject of an investigation in the effort to throw some light on the dancer's recent life.

HELD FOR KIDNAPING WOMAN

Man Arrested at Request of Chicago Police Denies Charge.

Kenneth Kramer, 21 years old, was arrested at the request of Chicago police today as he alighted from a bus. He is wanted for kidnaping Mrs. Patsy Ruth Williams, 25 years old, of Chicago, police said.

Mrs. Williams was on the bus and was taken to police headquarters where she denied that she had been kidnaped, corroborating Kramer's story that they had met by chance on the bus. She stated that she had been married Wednesday for the second time and that she was on her way to Arizona to see her children by a former marriage, neglecting to tell her husband of her plans.

MISS SULA WAGNER OF LIBRARY STAFF DIES

For 25 Years She Had Been Head of Catalogue Department.

Miss Sula Wagner, head of the catalogue and order department of the St. Louis Public Library for the last 25 years, died of cancer last night at St. Luke's Hospital. She was 64 years old.

Miss Wagner had been seriously ill since last September when she returned to St. Louis after spending several months in Europe. She had been in the hospital since her return with the exception of two months, starting late in January.

Funeral services will be tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock in an undertaker's establishment at 4449 Olive street. The body will be cremated and the ashes taken to Shelbyville, Ill., her former home. No immediate relatives survive her.

Miss Wagner came to St. Louis from Shelbyville in 1884 after being graduated from a normal school at Normal, Ill. For six years she taught in the public schools.

During a vacation spent as a volunteer assistant in the library she became interested in the work and abandoned teaching to accept a permanent position there in 1890. She had worked in all departments of the library before being made chief of the catalogue and order department about 1904.

FOUND DEAD IN ARCADE OF DOWNTOWN BUILDING

John Heron, formerly of St. Louis, was found dead in the arcade of the Schmitz & Shroder Apparel Co., 722 Washington avenue, at 6:30 a. m. today. Beside him was an empty bottle that had contained a poison, purchased from a Chicago drug store.

L. H. Krallman of the L. H. Krallman Commission Co., 923 North Fourth street, upon being summoned to the morgue because of a letter from that firm found on the dead man's person, identified him as a former employe. He referred police to John V. Gazzolo, 3728 Connecticut street, a brother-in-law of Heron.

An admission receipt to the Miami Kennel Club and bus ticket stubs found in Heron's pockets indicated that he had been following the dog races at Miami, Macon, Atlanta and Chattanooga.

DRUNKEN DRIVERS MUST SERVE PART OF TERMS, JUDGE RULES

Immediate Paroles Do Not Curb Practice, Butler Says; Sentences Two to 30 Days.

Workhouse sentences with immediate parole do not curb drunken driving, remarked Judge Butler of the Court of Criminal Correction in sentencing two men today, and he announced that from now on those convicted in his court of driving when intoxicated would have to serve some actual time in the workhouse.

He gave Edward Menard of 1617 Carroll street and Henry Mittinger of 4143 McPherson avenue, six-month sentences and announced they would be released on two-year paroles in 30 days. Each had been fined $100 in Police Court and sentenced to 30 days in the workhouse.

EDITOR FLIES TO ST. LOUIS

After fueling at Lambert Field, a landing was made on the Mississippi River after passing over the downtown district. He was accompanied by Robert Wood, Tribune aviation editor, and Edward Johnson, photographer.

SOUTHERN BAPTISTS VOTE TO HEAR WOMAN SPEAKER

Centuries-Old Religious Dispute Concerning Right of Sex to Address Public Raised by Editor.

By the Associated Press.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 10.—The centuries-old religious dispute concerning woman's right to speak in public bobbed up yesterday at the opening session of the Southern Baptist convention but was settled quickly by citation of a precedent that women are "brethren" and enjoy the same privileges as men.

Dr. George W. Truett of Dallas, Tex., who was re-elected president for his third term, shunted the issue to a committee after Dr. J. W. Porter of Lexington, Ky., editor of the American Baptist, introduced a memorial from the General Association of Kentucky Baptists, protesting on scriptural grounds against the convention hearing Mrs. W. J. Cox of Memphis, president of the Women's Missionary Union. She has been asked to speak Saturday.

"We go right against the Scriptures if we allow a woman to speak before this convention," Dr. Porter said. "We break a precedent of 2000 years."

Dr. Truett then quoted a ruling which said the word "brethren" in the organization's constitution included both "brethren and sisters" and that "women are members of the convention with all rights and privileges of membership."

Farm Relief in Turkey.

KEMAL PASHA, Turkey, May 10.—A patriotic Turkish woman of this village, near Broussa, has dedicated her entire personal fortune, $40,000, for the irrigation of farms on the Broussa plain. The Turkish women of the old days always made their donations to mosques.

TEXTILE GIRL SAYS SHE HAD TO REPAY $8 OF $10-WAGES

Worker Testifies at Senate Hearing She Was Required to Pay Amount for Board, Laundry, Etc.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 10.—The story of one of the girl workers in the Elizabethton (Tenn.) rayon mills who walked out for an increase in her $10.08 a week wage concluded the hearing yesterday before the Senate Manufactures Committee on the Wheeler resolution calling for an inquiry of the textile troubles in Tennessee, North and South Carolina.

Margaret Bowen, secretary of the union organized at Elizabethton since the walkout, told how she and other girls in the mills left work after being denied an increase.

Telling how she and a group of others climbed over the mill fence and got inside the shops to open the door so that their fellow workers could join them, Miss Bowen laughed as she related that 17 inspectors, who refused to follow them, evaded them by riding up and down in an elevator.

"Would Have Beaten Them."

"I guess if we would have got hold of them we would have beaten them up," she said.

Miss Bowen denied the strikers had violated the law, but said they had been "agitated and aggravated almost to death."

"What have you left—nothing," the girl said as she recounted that of her $10.08 wage she was required to pay $5 for board and room, $1 for bus fare, $1 for laundry and $1 for insurance. She said that after she had been made one of the chiefs of the reinspection division her pay was increased one cent an hour which gave her $10.64 a week.

Thomas F. McMahon, president of the United Textile Workers of America, told the committee that wages in the Southern mills averaged from $7 to $11 a week, with skilled workers getting about $22 a week.

Denies Acts of Violence.

McMahon also denied any act of violence on the part of the workers at Elizabethton. He said the Governor had sent troops there "because of political pressure," and that "Crawford Alexander, the kidnaper, and a Republican," had urged the Democratic Governor to send the troops."

Chairman La Follette doubts whether he can get a committee vote on the resolution before the end of next week because of the absence of the Southern members who have asked that the vote be deferred until their return.

Senator Tyson (Dem.), Tennessee, reserved the right to have any of the mill owners appear before the committee if they desire.

For German-American College.

By the Associated Press.

HAMBURG, May 10.—A campaign for the establishment of a German-American college has been begun under the leadership of Dr. Albrecht Mendelssohn-Barthoidy. An initial contribution of $20,000 from America has been assured for the project, as well as an annual subsidy of $2500. The institution would be a European center for the study of the sociology, economics and laws of the United States. Both European and American students would be admitted.

TRAFFIC SIGNALS CUT ACCIDENTS 75 PCT.

Paint Markers and Buttons Also Eliminating Corner Cutting, Says City Engineer.

Automatic traffic signals which have been placed at busy intersections have reduced traffic accidents 75 per cent, according to Reyburn Hoffmann, City Traffic Engineer, in a statement issued today in which he told of the city's efforts to eliminate accidents.

"Records of the St. Louis Safety Council, where these statistics are compiled, show likewise that the paint markers indicating traffic lanes and the turning buttons that have been placed at the entrances of many busy intersections have helped very much in the elimination of the dangerous practice of corner cutting," Hoffmann said.

"This year we have begun the establishing of safety zones, bus stops and loading zones, and keeping the curb space clear by signs and by painting curbing with yellow lacquer. We have also begun to clear the curb on the approach side of all stop and go signals for a distance of 35 feet.

"St. Louis is spending $8,600,000 for the opening and widening of streets in order to develop a system of major streets or traffic arteries.

"During the past three years we have made traffic counts on every major street, and on every intersection in the downtown district between Third and Fourteenth, Spruce to Cass. We have made full daily counts at about 250 locations each year. The location of signals, the establishment of major stop streets, stop intersections and the drafting of special ordinances are based largely upon traffic counts and accident reports."

Oliver T. Remmers, past president of the St. Louis Safety Council, in a radio address last night, said that about 85,000 people were killed annually in the United States as a result of accidents, and of this number nearly 20,000 were children under 15 years of age. Remmers asked that the recommendations of the Safety Council toward accident prevention be adopted by the general public.

RASKOB CALLED BACK TO GENERAL MOTORS

Re-Elected to Finance Committee; Donaldson Brown Is Made Chairman.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 10.—John J. Raskob has been called back to membership in the General Motors Corporation's finance committee, as chairman of which he made his reputation as a financier.

Raskob, who retained his position as vice president and director of General Motors when he resigned his chairmanship of the finance committee to become chairman of the Democratic National Committee last summer, was elected a member of the finance committee at a meeting of the board of directors yesterday.

At the same time Donaldson Brown, vice president of General Motors, was elected his successor as chairman of the finance committee. No amplification of the announcement that Raskob was again a member of the finance committee was forthcoming at the offices of the corporation.

The directors declared an extra dividend of 30 cents a share on the common stock, in addition to the regular quarterly dividend of 75 cents. The usual payments on the senior stocks also were authorized.

With Raskob, C. S. Mott, a vice president of General Motors, also was elected to the finance committee, and John Thomas Smith, vice president, and William S. Knudson of Detroit, president and general manager of the Chevrolet company, were elected members of the executive committee.

The following were elected vice presidents of the corporation:

Albert Bradley of New York, general assistant treasurer of General Motors; A. R. Clancy, president and general manager of the Oakland Motor Car Co., Pontiac, Mich.; R. H. Grant, former vice president and sales manager of the Chevrolet company; I. J. Reuter, president and general manager of the Oldsmobile company, Lansing, Mich., and C. E. Wilson, assistant to the president of General Motors, formerly general manager of the Delco-Remy Corporation, Dayton, Ohio.

With the exception of Clancy and Reuter, the new vice presidents will be transferred from their former divisional duties and will be attached to the general staff in New York.

BOARDER SHOT IN ROW OVER HOME BREW DIES

Robert Deerr Succumbs at Hospital — Fred Baute Held in Jail.

Robert Deerr died at St. Mary's Hospital at 8:30 a. m. today from a bullet wound in the chest inflicted Sunday night by Fred H. Baute, a horseshoer, 7718 Harter avenue, Richmond Heights, in a quarrel over home-brew.

Baute is held in jail at Clayton. An inquest will be held tomorrow at Overland.

A boarder at the Baute home for eight years, Deerr, who was 39 years old, had been working for Mrs. Baute in her restaurant in the 2000 block of South Broadway. He and Baute had their own batches of home-brew in the basement of the Richmond Heights house, and each considered his superior.

They quarreled when Deerr accused Baute of giving some of his beer to a Negro. They struggled over a revolver, kept in a drawer, and Deerr threw the weapon into the back yard. Baute regained the revolver and shot Deerr. Although Baute said he fired only when Deerr advanced on him in a threatening manner and cursed him, Mrs. Baute, a witness, asserted Deerr was pleading: "Fred, you're not going to kill me, are you?"

It became known today that Deerr carried insurance payable to Mrs. Baute, who declined to disclose the amount. She and her husband denied the quarrel had been over her. Deerr was married but estranged from his wife. Baute is 51, his wife 39.

CAMPAIGN STARTS TO BRING AVIATION INDUSTRIES HERE

Industrial Club Begins National Advertising Based on Survey of Advantages Offered by St. Louis.

The position of St. Louis as a leading aviation center is set forth in an intensive national advertising program which has been started by the advertising committee of the Industrial Club of St. Louis, designed to attract aeronautical industries to this city.

The campaign follows an exhaustive study of the advantages offered by St. Louis to the aviation industry, which was made by the Industrial Bureau of the Industrial Club. Advertisements are scheduled to appear in 12 newspapers and magazines during May, June, July and August.

"St. Louis, the natural aviation center," reads the first of the series of advertisements, "offers the ideal location for aircraft manufacturers and allied industries. Aviation as an industry today offers great business possibilities. Many new companies are coming into the field. Those most likely to succeed will utilize to the fullest extent the basic advantages of strategic location.

St. Louis the Key City.

"Seventy-six of the 153 airplane manufacturers are located in the Central States. Here are now 50 per cent of all the airplane manufacturies; 42 per cent of the licensed pilots; 44 per cent of the registered aviation mechanics, and 51 per cent of all the planes in the United States. Within a 500-mile circle around St. Louis—key manufacturing city, with its massed resources—is most of this territory, within five hours as the plane flies.

"In air-minded St. Louis itself are four flying fields, five aviation schools, four airplane manufacturies, an engine manufacturer, and a great trans-continental airway headquarters Here are 99 foundries, 21 producers of aluminum castings, 11 forging plants, 200 machine shops, 34 pattern shops, 56 manufacturers of tools and dies, two piston ring plants and warehouse stocks of steel, brass and aluminum. Here are manufacturing sites directly on St. Louis' huge $2,000,000 airport and elsewhere within 20 minutes of downtown."

Those who are interested in St. Louis' position as an aviation center are asked to correspond with the Industrial Bureau. Under the direction of George C. Smith, director, the Industrial Bureau has prepared an 8-page booklet entitled "St. Louis as An Aviation Center." It is one of a series of booklets to be issued periodically by the Bureau. Maps, published in the booklet, indicate the predominance of the Central West in the aeronautical industries.

Survey Took Two Years.

The booklet summarizes the aviation survey on which the Bureau has devoted nearly two years. Copies have been sent to bankers, aeronautical manufacturers and others interested in aviation throughout the United States. It is the first comprehensive community survey on the aviation industry ever made in the United States. The advertising campaign is based on facts gathered during the survey.

Under the heading "Trained Labor for the Aviation Industry," the booklet points to the fact that the St. Louis industrial district now has five aviation schools training pilots and mechanics. Univerities and trade schools, which are offering courses in aviation, also are noted. The booklet cites the central location of St. Louis, stresses low labor costs and tells of air, rail and river transportation facilities radiating from St Louis.

"St. Louis enjoys an enviable position from the standpoint of its airports," continues the booklet. "There are four well-located fields which can be easily reached from the downtown business section. On the roofs of many large factories and office buildings are markers indicating the location of some nearby fields. Latest types of airport equipment are now being installed. Factory sites have been provided adjoining these airports. Air-minded St. Louis is keeping abreast of modern aviation in the development of its several ports."

The booklet delves into labor conditions, raw materials and supplies, climate, power and fuel, taxes, living conditions and other subjects of interest to prospective aeronautical industries.

One section is devoted to a report on available industrial sites.

SHOOTS WIFE FIVE TIMES AND THEN TAKES OWN LIFE

Claude Thomas, Sparta (Ill.) Railroad Dispatcher, Fires at Mate After Quarrel in Backyard.

Claude Thomas, a railroad dispatcher, quarreled with his wife, Mrs. Alma D. Thomas, in the rear yard of their home at Sparta, Ill., last night and shot her five times at close range with a .38-caliber revolver. Entering his home, where the family had just finished the evening meal, he went to a closet and killed himself with a bullet through his right temple.

Mrs. Thomas was brought to Barnes Hospital in St. Louis. She is in a serious condition and unable to make a statement. Bullets passed through her tongue and both cheeks, broke her jaw and her right arm, entered her chest, forehead and neck.

Henry Bradbury and John S. Carson, neighbors, who accompanied Mrs. Thomas to the hospital, said friends of the family thought Thomas was motivated to jealousy.

The shooting occurred shortly before 8 o'clock. Mrs. Thomas was not brought to the hospital until 10 o'clock last night.

She is 33 years old. The Thomases have two daughters.

AMERICAN ENGINEER FATALLY STABBED IN MEXICAN MINE

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, May 10.—Dispatches to El Universal from Guadalajara today said an American mining engineer, Thomas S. Decker, whose United States address was not known here, had been stabbed to death inside the shaft of Cinco Minas mine at Hostotipaquillo, Jalisco.

His slayers, two angry miners whom he had reprimanded because they were asleep on their jobs, escaped.

The body has been taken to Guadalajara for burial. He is survived by his wife and two daughters.

TREES TO GROW WITH BOYS

65 Plant 16 Acres on Fathers' Farms in Arkansas.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MOUNT PLEASANT, Ark. — About 65 boys, members of the Baxter County 4-H Club and sons of land owners, planted 16 acres in walnut trees recently. Each boy planted a part of the acreage on his father's farm and if the value of walnut logs are the same then as it is now, the timber value of each tree will be approximately $100 when the boys are 50 years old. The boys obtained the seed from native trees.

BOY 'PLAYING HOOKEY' FROM SCHOOL DROWNS

Marvin Wilkerson, 12, Loses Life in River des Peres—Chum a Witness.

Marvin Wilkerson, 12 years old, was drowned in the River des Peres a hundred yards east of Broadway about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon when he attempted to swim in the cold water. He and a companion, Lathal Bartley, 13, of 212 East Courtois street, had "played hookey" from school and were playing near the river when Marvin decided to go swimming. Bartley told him the water was too cold.

The boy had been swimming only a short time when he shouted for help and sank, apparently seized by a cramp. Bartley was unable to reach him.

He remained near the river for an hour before anyone else approached. To Sherman Hunt, of 7823 Water street, who passed about 4 o'clock he tearfully told of the drowning. Hunt notified authorities who summoned George Hechts, a diver, of 140 Florence avenue, St. Louis County. Hechts recovered the body about 5 o'clock.

The drowned boy lived with his father, George Wilkerson, at 219 Primm street. His mother, Mrs. Edna Wilkerson, lives at 1116 St. Ange street.

The body was removed to an undertaker's establishment where an inquest will be held.

WOMAN EX-LION-TAMER SAYS HUSBAND BEAT HER

Mrs. Woodside Quarreled With Him Over Her Trial for Assault on Teacher.

KANSAS CITY, Kan., May 10.—Mrs. Christine Woodside, former lion tamer, is in the Wyandotte County Jail today suffering from injuries she said were inflicted by her husband last night during a quarrel.

Mrs. Woodside was sent to jail in default of $3000 peace bond, after she failed to appear at an evening session of court.

The peace bond was requested by Miss Inez MacKinnon, school teacher, attacked by Mrs. Woodside on a downtown Kansas City (Mo.) street. The ex-lion tamer said she was angry at the teacher because Miss MacKinnon advised Mrs. Woodside's 16-year-old daughter, Lorene Jones, several months ago, when the girl swore to a court complaint after she had been whipped by her mother with a coat hanger. The prisoner said she quarreled with her husband because of testimony he gave yesterday at her hearing. She threatened to obtain a divorce as soon as she left the jail.

$6,000,000 DONOR IDENTIFIED

By the Associated Press.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., May 10.—The late Phillip Francis du Pont of Fairville, Pa., was revealed today as the creator of the trust of $6,000,000 for the benefit of the University of Virginia. Announcement of the trust was made nearly a year ago.

Dr. Edwin A. Alderman, president of the university, in idenitfying the donor, said that one-half of the income of the trust was desginated by Mr. du Pont as a fund to be used for the creation of scholarships and fellowships to help capable and needy youth and to attract gifted men and women to the student life of the university. The other half, he pointed out, was left to the discretion of the university authorities.

Mr. du Pont was a student of the university from 1897 to 1900.

MRS. BEARDSLEE GETS THREAT

By the Associated Press.

STAMFORD, Conn., May 10.—A demand that $10,000 be given to a woman carrying a lilac bloom, who was to be at the Stamford Railroad station the evening of May 8, was received by Mrs. Gladys Foster Beardslee, young widow of Oliver Beardslee of Stratford, who killed himself last month, the police announced today.

The station was surrounded by officers that night, but the woman carrying a lilac bloom did not appear. The demand was contained in a letter sent from New York and said: "You murdered your husband. You know you did. I have evidence to prove it and I will give it to the police unless you come to the Stamford Railroad station on May 8 at 8 p. m. with $10,000 in $100 and $50 bills. You will not see me. A woman with a lilac in her hand will be waiting. Give her the money and she will give you the evidence. Don't say anything." The letter was unsigned.

Disappears With Girl's Ring.

Miss Minnie Fellows, 2114 De Soto avenue, reported to police that a chance engagement made with an affable, elderly man at Madison Kennel Club Tuesday resulted last night in the loss of a ring valued at $40. While on their way to a restaurant after attending a theater last night, Miss Fellows related, her new friend slipped her ring on his finger to admire it. Upon reaching the restaurant he excused himself. When he did not return she notified police.

PLOWS FREE TWO TRAINS FROM SNOW IN MANITOBA

Tractor Takes 150 Men to Their Work; 14 Typhoid Patients Safe in Hospital.

THE PAS, Man., May 10.—As calm settled over the north country in the wake of a 10-day blizzard, two marooned trains on the Canadian National Railways line to Churchill proceeded today after slow moving snow plows. A party of 150 men held on one of the stranded trains left mile 455 today by snow tractor en route to their work at the bay port.

Although the weather is becoming mild, it is expected that three or four days will be required to clear the line.

Fourteen typhoid patients, who were being hurried to a hospital at mile 327 when their train was caught in the blizzard last week, are safe at the hospital.

FAMILY CHAUFFEUR SOUGHT IN DEATH OF HARVARD STUDENT

Detective Thinks Walter T. Huntington Shot Self; Medical Examiner Calls Case Murder.

By the Associated Press.

WINDSOR, Conn., May 10.—The circumstances of the death of Walter Treadway Huntington, Harvard college student, were as near a solution today as when his body was discovered two days ago in a swampy field several miles from his home, with a bullet wound through the head.

Officers are checking as a possible clew the disappearance of the chauffeur for the Huntington family. They advanced the theory that a woman seen in an automobile with a youth near the farm where the body was found might know something of the case, or that an abandoned machine stolen from a dealer might be connected with it. County Detective Edward J. Hickey is trying to find the weapon which he declared would confirm his belief that Huntington had killed himself. He based his view on the finding of an empty revolver case in the student's room at his home. Shells identical with one found near where the youth's body lay were also in the room.

Medical Examiner Henry N. Costello declared that lack of powder marks and the fact that the wound was on the left side of the head whereas Huntington was right-handed pointed to murder, which was his official verdict.

$70,000 FIRE AT NEWARK, ARK.

NEWARK, Ark., May 10.—Six buildings in the business district here were damaged by a fire which broke out Wednesday night, with a loss estimated at $70,000. The flames were under control of volunteer firemen at midnight.

The fire started in the second floor of the Newark Drug Store and spread to the First National Bank. Other buildings in the path of flames were the Walden-Hockelby grocery store, Moore Brothers dry goods store, the Reeze Mercantile Co. and the telephone exchange.

VICTOR IS ELIGIBLE FOR DERBY AT KENTUCKY

By the Associated Press.

PIMLICO, Md., May 10.—Before one of the largest gatherings in the history of the Maryland Jockey Club and in a setting that was ideal for Preakness Day, Dr. Freeland, a strapping colt by Light Brigade-Toddle, owned by Walter J. Salmon of New York, earned the main share of the $50,000 added purse that attracted 11 of the outstanding 3-year-olds of the season. To earn second part of the Preakness spoils came Minotaur, an unheralded member of the 3-year-old division and to take third honors before the others, came African, owned by Richard T. Wilson Jr.

The winner, one of the favorites for the big prize, was the third bearer of the Salmon silks to win this valuable classic since 1922. He earned just $52,325 for the coffers of the New York financier.

The Nut came in fourth for a share in the added money.

Minotaur is also a Derby candidate, as is The Nut, but African was not nominated for the Kentucky feature.

Dr. Freeland with L. Schaefer up, closed up on Minotaur which had gone into the lead at the furlong pole, and wore the leader down to win by a length. African circled the field and closed a big gap after a slow start. The Nut finished gamely after getting into trouble in the early running.

Minotaur, a Su Briar-Irish Lady colt, ridden by Halbert, is owned by Charles Graffagnini, New Orleans sportsman, who picked up his horse last fall for $2,0[illegible] in a claiming race at Havre de Grace. African, owned by R. T. Wilson Jr., a son of Clambal and Grace Foster, and was ridden by R. Leonard.

M'GOWAN SINGLES WITH BASES FILLED; OGDEN ON MOUND

By James M. Gould,
Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

SPORTSMAN'S PARK, May 10.—The Browns came up with a victory over the Boston Red Sox this afternoon, ending a losing streak which had reached four in a row.

The score was 4 to 3.

There was a slight switch in the Brownie batting order. O'Rourke and McGowan changed places, the former dropping to sixth and the latter moving up to second place.

It was ladies' day and 2500 of the fair fans attended. The total attendance was 3500.

McGowan, Connolly and Van Graflan were the umpires.

The game:

FIRST INNING — BOSTON — Rothrock walked. Reeves struck out. Todt forced Rothrock, Melillo to Kress. Todt was out stealing. Ferrell to Kress.

BROWNS—Blue walked. McGowan sent a long fly to Rothrock. Manush forced Blue, Gillis to Narleski. Rothrock took Schulte's drive after a hard run.

SECOND — BOSTON—Bigelow flied to Schulte. Taitt drove deep to Schulte. Gillis singled through Blue. Narleski flied to Manush.

Blue was safe when Ruffing dropped Todt's throw at first and the bases were filled. McGowan singled to left, scoring Ferrell and leaving the bases filled. Manush lost a hit in a queer way when his fly fell safe in short left and Ogden scored, but Blue, fearing a catch, held to second base, and when he ran for third was forced out, Taitt to Reeves. STRANGLER LEWIS WEDS COAST ART STUDENT

HAGEN WINS BRITISH OPEN GOLF TITLE FOR 4TH TIME

Johnny Farrell Is Second and Leo Diegel Third, Giving American Home-Breds Distinct Triumph.

By the Associated Press.

MUIRFIELD, Scotland, May 10.—Walter Hagen today won the open golf championship of Great Britain for the fourth time with a score of 292 for the 72 holes of championship play.

Johnny Farrell, open champion of the United States, finished with a sparkling round of 75 and, with a 72-hole score of 298, went into second place.

Leo Diegel returned a score of 77 for the last round and, with a total of 299, went into third place, behind Walter Hagen and Johnny Farrell and in front of Abe Mitchell and Percy Alliss, who were tied at 300.

Bobby Cruickshank, native Scot who lives in New York, finished sixth with a score of 301; Al Watrous, Detroit, seventh with 303, and Gene Sarazen, eighth, 304. Tommy Armour, another Scot who lives in the United States, was next with 305, followed by Arthur Havers, former champion, 306. Archie Compston, 307, and Jimmie Thompson of Knoxville, Tenn., 308.

The American Ryder Cup team captain put together four fine rounds in landing the title. He had 75 for his first 18; then came his 67, a new British open championship record, and he followed today with two rounds of 75 each. In the qualifying play, Hagen was not so good, in as much as he had 76 and 79 for his two rounds. This gave him a total of 447 strokes for the six rounds, an average of just a little over 4s.

As the champion reached the home hole with a score of 75 for the final round, his second 75 on a day of high scoring by his fellows, the crowd greeted him as the repeating champion.

Horton Smith, the Joplin (Mo.) pro, playing in his first British open, finished with a fine round of 76 after his 84 for the third 18 and had a total of 313.

For a time after the champion finished there was some confusion at his score, a question of doubt arising as to whether his total should be 292 or 293. It had been reported that his ball moved as he

BLUES' FIRST SACKER RATED GOOD PROSPECT

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, May 10. —They're already predicting that Joe Kuhel, first baseman for the Kansas City Blues, is playing his last season of minor league baseball.

So impressive was his work during pre-season exhibition games that it drew praise from many major league critics. His faultless fielding and improved hitting this year have made Kansas City fans forget Dud Branom, popular initial sacker of former years.

Begorra Wins Jamaica Stake; Coats Runs Out

By the Associated Press.

JAMAICA, N. Y., May 10.—W. R. Coe's Begorra, favorite in the betting, scored an impressive victory in the Montana Handicap, which featured a very ordinary program here today. R. L. Gerry's Prairie Fire was second and J. L. Holland's Chatford, third.

Coots, in the H. P. Whitney silks, ran wide on the stretch turn when he was several lengths in front. Coots jumped away to a long lead and appeared to have the race in hand when he suddenly ran out. Before Robertson could get him under control again he was last and at the end Coots just galloped along.

Begorra rushed to the front on the turn and won by four lengths He was the third straight favorite to win during the day.

Berlenbach, who weighed 182, conceded 13 pounds to his opponent, but had little trouble in pinning Bailey's shoulders to the mat in 12 minutes. A series of headlocks led to Bailey's downfall.

HAGEN, WITH 292 TOTAL, WINS BRITISH OPEN TITLE FOR FOURTH TIME

AMERICAN STAR PUTS TOGETHER ROUNDS OF 75, 67, 75 AND 75; FARRELL SECOND AND DIEGEL THIRD

Hagen Finished First Four Times, Second Once in 8 Tries at Title

WALTER HAGEN'S truly remarkable record in the British open tournaments of this and previous years shows that he has won four times and finished second on one other occasion, in eight attempts to lift the title.

Hagen won the crown first in 1922 and repeated in 1924. He won it again in 1928 and again today. Hagen finished second to the British player Havers, in 1923.

addressed it on the third hole of his last round and a penalty stroke was tentatively added. Later it was officially announced that the championship committee found no evidence that the ball had moved, so his final round was scored 75 for a grand total of 292, the same score by which he won the title last year at Sandwich.

Under pressure of bad weather conditions, scores were almost uniformly high in the third round this morning, but Hagen seemed little troubled by the heavy wind. He played fine golf going out, with a 37 that would have been a bit lower but for a couple of slips on the seventh, eighth and ninth holes. Home in 38, he had a three-round total of 217.

Hagen Starts Brilliantly.

Hagen, bundled in heavy sweaters, started out as though he was going to duplicate his 67 of yesterday but toward the end of the first nine he bogged down a bit. With the wind dead against him at the first, he got a birdie four by holing a long putt. At the third hole his putt stopped dead on the lip of the cup and the wind blew it in. He played the short fourth perfectly for a three but his diminutive caddy almost was blown off the high plateau green. As Hagen was about to putt the caddie lost his balance in the wind and almost fell, taking the flag with him. Hagen laughed, steadied himself again and laid the ball dead. After covering the first seven holes in one under fours, the "Haig" needed fives on the eighth and ninth.

At the eighth, Hagen was short with his second just over the bunker. He pitched and took two putts. At the ninth he drove into the rough on the left, pushed his brassie across the fairway to the right but a beautiful shot from the tall grass put him only 20 feet short of the pin. From here he barely missed his putt after studying the line and bracing himself in the wind for fully two minutes. His only bad mistake of the round was at the short seventh when he sent the ball into the bunker on the left and took four.

Hagen's golf was not quite so steady on his homeward journey. At the fourteenth he needed a six. He was short with his third, his fourth slithered across the green and his first putt was short five feet. His next one almost stopped dead on the edge of the cup but the wind caught it and the ball half-circled the hole and rolled in for a six.

He made amends for that at the fifteenth with a birdie three. At the short sixteenth he needed four, being short with his tee shot and took two putts.

At the seventeenth he was hole high with his drive and iron and his 15-foot putt just missed the cup. He finally got down in four, a birdie. At the home hole he was bunkered on his second shot. A mashie niblick from 60 yards sent the ball up so high it seemed it would go clear over the crowds into the clubhouse but Hagen had calculated the wind and the ball seemed to drop almost perpendicularly and with a backspin it stopped five feet from the pinn. The Haig needed two putts to get down.

Hagen scored four birdies and an eagle on the first nine holes of the last round. A brassie from the rough at the first hole enabled him to ram home a six-foot putt for a four. Another fine approach at the third left him an easy putt and, although he pulled his drive at the fifth, he made another startling recovery. At the sixth he played a drive and iron to the green and was left 40 feet from the cup. He narrowly missed holing the putt.

A point arose as to whether Hagen's card would show a four or three at the third hole where his ball was reported to have been moved by the wind while he was addressing it. The point will be taken up with the Championship Committee, but it seemed that there was only the barest possibility that this would affect his lead.

Hagen got his three at the eighth by driving over the short cut to the dog leg hole and placing a mashie pitch dead.

At the ninth a pulled brassie left him about a foot from a stone wall. He pulled a left-hand club from his bag and hit the ball out into the fairway. He was still short of the green and had to take two putts for a six.

Hagen made just enough mistakes coming home to show that after all he can make mistakes at golf. He took three putts at the eleventh and sliced a second shot at the twelfth. At the short thirteenth he was bunkered from the tee, pitched to within 12 feet of the cup and missed the putt.

As the title holder played his last holes practically all the crowds were following him but a flying squad of flagmen kept order in the moving mass.

After being well on the seventeenth with a drive and brassie he lost his three when his putt from 10 feet remained out. Hagen's brassie at the home hole was in a bunker but he thrilled the crowd with a typical Hagen recovery, a high flying niblick shot dropping less than 10 feet from the pin. He studied the putt carefully but was short about nine inches for the four and took five.

"It was tough out there in that wind this afternoon," said Hagen as he squeezed his way through the crowd between the green and clubhouse. "The wind was just as bad this afternoon as it was this morning, and I played each shot and each hole in exactly the same way morning and afternoon."

Hagen received the familiar cup, emblematic of the championship, on the spacious eighteenth green, with people jammed 10 rows deep around it. He was besieged by autograph hunters and crowds wishing to congratulate him, and when the time came for the ceremony he had to be rescued by burly Scots and taken to the enclosure where officials awaited.

He finally reached the green, arm in arm, with Jose Jurado, the diminutive pro from Argentina.

Hagen Has Long List of Major Golf Victories.

Walter Hagen's latest victory in the British open championship was the eleventh time he has achieved an American or international victory of major importance.

Hagen has won the United States open twice, the United States professional golf championship five times and the British open four times.

Back in 1914, Hagen, fresh from the caddy house at Rochester, N. Y., won his first American open championship at the Midlothian Club, Chicago. He was 22 years old. Five years later he repeated at Brae Burn. He was runner-up in 1921 and occupied third place in 1925, sixth in 1927 and fourth in 1928.

"The Haig" began his invasion of Europe in 1920 and won the French open after finishing fifty-fifth in his first try at the British championship. Back in England again, he was sixth in 1921 and beat the field for the first time in 1922. The next year he was runner-up, a stroke behind the only British winner of recent years, Arthur Havers, and won the title a second time in 1924. Hagen was third in 1926 and again came through to win last year, so that he has now been victorious four times in eight years.

Hagen's finish has become a byword in golf just as was Garrison's celebrated finish on the turf.

The swarthy, fastidious and carefree American star, now 37 years old, has always been one of the game's most colorful performers, more given to sensational outbursts of scoring than to any steady, day in-and-out consistency. Yet Hagen has always been a title contender in any big event within the last 15 years. The bigger the stakes, the better Hagen usually performed.

Among Hagen's more startling feats, outside of national championship competition, were his famous 18-hole round of 62 in the Florida West Coast open championship of 1923, regarded as a world's record for major tournament play; his two rounds of 67—65—132 in the Eastern open at Delaware Water Gap, Pa., in 1926, another world's record.

Canzoneri and Routis Meet in Non-Title Bout

CHICAGO, May 10.—Tony Canzoneri, sturdy Italian puncher from New York, gets a chance to gain revenge tonight when he tangles with the dashing Frenchman, Andre Routis, in the main 10-round event at the Chicago Stadium.

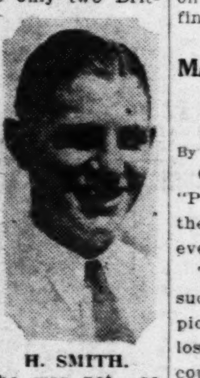
Ever since Routis took the featherweight crown from him by the decision route, Canzoneri has been seeking a return engagement. While the title will not be at stake tonight, Canzoneri hopes to prove his contention that he was weakened by weight making on the night of their championship affair and was not up to his usual standard.

Hagen Bunkered Only Twice In Setting British Record

By Horton Smith.

(Copyright, 1929.)

MUIRFIELD, SCOTLAND, May 9.—Muirfield saw some great golf yesterday, and at the end of the second round of the British open tournament, there were six Americans within the first eight.



H. SMITH.

Leo Diegel was leading with 140; Walter Hagen was two strokes behind at 142. The only two British golfers near the top were Abe Mitchell, with 144, and Percy Alliss, who shot a 69 the day before, dropped back today to 145.

Gene Sarazen, Bobby Cruickshank, Johnny Farrell and John Golden were tied at 147; while Tommy Armour, Bill Mehlhorn, who was not so wild this season, and Aubrey Boomer grouped at 148.

Diegel held the lead by virtue of a well-played 69, which was the second time this score had been made. But he would have been lower had he not taken three putts on two greens or missed a three-footer on the fifteenth.

"The Haig" shot a wonderful 67, nine under par, a record for this long and heavily bunkered course. It was the lowest score ever made in the British open. Bobby Jones once did a 66 at Sunningdale, but that is an inland course, and the score was made in the qualifying round.

Walter was only bunkered twice during the 18 holes, and five times he got down in one putt, never taking more than three. This made his sixth round of the British open, with six rounds of never more than a five at any hole.

Abe Mitchell, the most serious British challenger, played well but got nowhere on the greens. Alliss fell away and was weak with his irons, taking a 76.

Golden and Armour shot good 73s, but slipped up on a few putts, while Ed Dudley and Jim Barnes fell away badly for 80s. I myself got a birdie three on the second green, but slipped with three fives on the fast greens before the turn, finishing with a 76.

Clift Brady, managing and playing second base for Peoria in the Three-I League, has a batting average of .385.

MALONE WINS FIFTH GAME IN ROW; LAST YEAR LOST FIRST FIVE

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, May 10. — Perce "Pat" Malone, speed ball artist of the Cubs, believes the breaks are even in baseball after all.

The big Irishman, who aspires to succeed Dazzy Vance as the champion dazzler of the Heydler circuit, lost five straight games before he could make a victorious debut last season. Most of them were by one or two runs. This season, the breaks have been with him and the Cubs have hit solidly each time he took the mound and he has won five straight.

His fifth victory was added at the expense of Brooklyn yesterday, 11 to 2. Malone has allowed only

BEAUMONT-ROOSEVELT NINES TO PLAY TODAY

The City High School League baseball game between Roosevelt and Beaumont, which was twice postponed on account of rain, will be played this afternoon at the Public Schools Stadium. The result of the game will have no bearing upon the first round, since Central has been dropped from competition by four defeats.

It is expected that Otto Frazier, one of the best catchers in the league, will be available for duty this afternoon, giving Roosevelt its full strength. Uhl or Murrel will be the starting pitcher.

Beaumont's lineup will be unchanged except that Bob Kalbitz probably will pitch in place of Bill Slater, who will be moved to the outfield.

SOLDAN QUALIFIES 24 STARS FOR DISTRICT HIGH SCHOOL FINALS

DASH RECORDS ARE EXPECTED TO FALL IN MEET TOMORROW

By Harold Tuthill

The second day of the qualifying trials in the annual St. Louis District High School track and field meet yesterday was featured by the strong showing made by University City, which placed six men in the senior and five in the junior division. Soldan remained in the lead for the largest number by taking four places in the seniors and five in the juniors, which, with the previous day's score, gave it a total of 24 athletes to compete in the finals tomorrow at the Public School Stadium.

Webster again led the field in the senior division when six of its representatives placed, while Soldan gathered the honors in the junior with six positions.

University showed up well in the dashes as two men placed in the senior 120-yard high hurdles and the junior 120-yard low hurdles. McClure from the Delmar boulevard school took third in the first heat of the junior 220-yard dash. Joplin placed in the senior broad-jump and the pole vault.

The best race of the afternoon was that by Tierney of St. Louis University High who won the second heat in the senior 220-yard dash with the time of 22.8 seconds, which is one-tenth of a second faster than the Preparatory League record. With keener competition it is likely that Tierney will break the marks for the 100 and 220, both of which he won in the preliminaries.

Kern of Clayton outclassed the javelin throwers in the older division when he heaved the spear 157 feet 3 inches on his second attempt. Unless Kern betters this mark in the finals it will probably be the one to stand.

The eligibility of Max Librach, Soldan star junior, will be decided by Carl Burris, president of the local district. Librach's age is reckoned by the Hebrew calendar which would be over-age if estimated in the Christian manner of dating.

The schools and the number of qualifiers:

	Sr.	Jr.	Total
Soldan	10	14	24
University City	10	10	20

FICUELLO CAPTURES A. A. U. HEAVY TITLE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 10.—The National A. A. U. heavyweight boxing crown rests on the brow of Ralph Ficuello of New York.

Ficuello battered Charles Hanson, another New Yorker, into decisive defeat at an International boxing tournament at Madison Square Garden last night to win the title.

Ficuello and Hanson both had been beaten by Elmer (Buddy) Howard at the recent national championships in Boston but Howard was declared ineligible by the A. A. U. and deprived of the title. Ficuello and Hanson then were authorized to meet for the championship.

No True Bills in Detroit Inquiry.

DETROIT, May 10.—The Federal grand jury investigating the Belle Isle police liquor scandal reported today that it had not found sufficient evidence upon which to base indictments for violation of any Federal laws. The jury was called after the suspension of Capt. Joseph A. Burkheiser, as Harbor Master and head of the police detail on the island, on charges of having aided rum runners in the transportation of liquor across the Detroit River from Canada. Numerous police officers and members of the Detroit Yacht Club, on Belle Isle, were among those summoned before the grand jury.

A CERTAIN young pitcher
named Hubbell Trimmed the Pirates without any trouble;
He trimmed them so neat
With a no-bingle feat,
That he left not a trace of the

His team mates with Hubbell conniving,
The object at which he was striving,
Was as follows, to wit:
To allow them no hit,
If you gather at what we are driving.

Sign Him.

On the other hand, Eddie Henningsen, a high school boy of Iowa City, Ia., pitched two no-hit games in one week. How is that for high?

The subject of this little

Pitched two no-hit games
In one week and now aims

Good Hunting.

Walter Hagen, in breaking the British open record with a seven, shot five birdies and two eagles, putting, as one might say, quite a bunch of feathers in his cap.

We don't know what the legal bag is, but when more and rarer birds are shot, our Mr. Hagen will shoot 'em.

While Chicago's St. Valentine's day bumping-off party may not have been on so large a scale as France's St. Bartholomew day massacre it is still gathering momentum and may catch up with it in time.

A Bitter Pill.

Harry Sinclair who has been detailed to the drug department spent his first day in jail filling capsules.

Reporters have been barred at the jail during Sinclair's term. However, they could take a leaf from O. Henry's short story "The Cop and the Anthem," and break in.

O. Henry's hero it will be remembered tried everything from petty larceny to mayhem, but didn't succeed in getting into the clutches of the law until a cop pinched him for standing outside a church listening to the organ.

See where John McCormick is going in the talkies and singies. It'll be one of those puzzle pictures—guess when he's talking and when he is singing.

Jimmy Moran, away quickly, followed at the heels of Vacant, displaced the latter turning from the back stretch, went into a lead and was never endangered thereafter. Vacant, hard ridden, was placed to punishment but was not good enough. Icicle finished gamely and outlasted Regular Broom. Gold Cord, unprepared for the start, went into the air when the break came. Skirt was caught in a jam at the half mile mark and unseated her rider.

Lady Tryster	115	3	1	2^{nk}	5^{2}	6	G. Fields	8.90

Patroness, outrun for the first three furlongs, gained stoutly under pressure while saving ground, came between leaders at the final furlong pole and, finishing in bold fashion, was up right at end. St. Prisca, away well, lost ground on the turn, but continued with good courage and fought it out stubbornly. Lost Agnes broke sluggishly, possessed keen speed to take command, was inclined to bear out entering the home stretch, but was straightened out and held on grimly. Martis was never a factor. Lady Tryster tired. My Scoop raced greenly.

Two-dollar mutuels paid. Patroness, win $5.50, place $3.50, show $2.50; St. Prisca, place $5.90, show $3.20; Lost Agnes, show $2.30.

Euphrates, allowed to settle in his stride while trailing far back in the early running, moved up fast when called on, came to outside for final issue and finishing in faultless fashion managed to get up in the concluding strides. Drawing Board hurried to the front, was rated along while racing with Take Your Time, disposed of the latter and held on determinedly. Tiffin raced forwardly, was put to a drive, but was unable to menace the leaders. Take Your Time weakened the last quarter mile. Santo Rio had early speed. Mimic raced wide.

Dr. Freeland, away in good fashion and racing within striking distance of leaders, responded courageously for the final issue, was bothered during the final half mile, but luckily fought his way clear and closing stouting wore down Minotaur to win going away. Latter, outrun for seven furlongs, made up ground rapidly, moved into the lead at the furlong pole, but was not good enough to stall off the winner. African, a slow beginner, closed a big gap after circling his field. The Nut met with trouble in early running. He finished gamely on the inside. Beacon Hill, away slowly, was used to much trying to reach contention and weakened in the final drive. Folking raced well. Essare could not keep up. Leucite tired the last quarter mile, after setting a good pace. Soul of Honor quit. Hermitage stopped suddenly.

$2.00 mutuels paid: Dr. Freeland, win $9.70, place $5.60, show $6.10; Minotaur, place $11.40, show $8.30; African, show $6.10.

Thompson May Saddle His Third Derby Winner

By the Associated Press.

LOUISVILLE, May 10.—Kentucky Derby winners come and go, but each succeeding year sees the same old group of veteran trainers trek back to the scene of their triumphs of yesteryears with hopes of saddling another winner.

To Marse Henry Thompson, little master of Col. E. R. Bradley's Idle Hour stables, winning the classic of the American turf is nothing new. This year Marse Henry is going about conditioning Blue Larkspur, the winter book favorite, with the same enthusiasm that marked his early triumphs.

When the Idle Hour stables scored one-two in 1921 with Behave Yourself and Black Servant, the midget trainer saddled the Bradley entries. Again, in 1925, when Bubbling Over and Bagganbaggage took first and second places, it was Marse Henry who sent the three-year-olds away.

Always talking thoroughbreds, the czar of the Idle Hour stables has been more voluble than usual this year over Blue Larkspur, even claiming the colt went a mile in 1:42 in the mud.

Sam Hildreth, the gray-thatched trainer of Harry Sinclair Rancocas Stables, also tasted victory when Zev showed the way to the wire in 1923. Sam will be back this season with Simba and Mel Foo—probably not as highly rated as other entries—but somehow Hildreth has a way of putting dangerous runners on the field.

BEARS DEFEAT AGGIES TO WIN VALLEY HONORS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

STILLWATER, Okla., May 10.—By virtue of a 4 to 3 victory over the Oklahoma Aggies here yesterday, Washington University of St. Louis gained the baseball championship of the Missouri Valley conference.

Washington and the Oklahoma Aggies are the only schools in the conference which have baseball nines and as the game here was the only one between the teams this season, the Bears have an undisputed right to the flag. Because of wet grounds only one of the two games scheduled was played.

The Washington team will be in Fayetteville today and tomorrow where they play the University of Arkansas in a two-game series before returning home.

It was the hurling of Leyhe which gave the Bears their victory over the Aggies. He allowed five hits, two in the eighth and three in the ninth. The Aggies were in the midst of desperate rally in the last half of the ninth when Tompkins was sent into finish the game. He did this on two pitched balls.

Leyhe pitched a good steady, though not brilliant game. He struck out but two batters and issued as many passes and was guilty of one wild pitch. His teammates gave him sensational support.

Hornsby was the hitting star of the game getting two doubles out of four times to bat, being the only Washington man to get more than one hit.

Charley Courtright, the losing pitcher, was the hero of the game. He struck out eight Washington hitters getting Hornsby, hitting in the cleanup position, and Captain Beckman twice each. He got two of the Aggies five hits, one of them being a double.

PAUL BUESSE, WITH A 77, LEADS QUALIFIERS IN PARK TOURNAMENT

TEAM SELECTED TO REPRESENT PUBLIC LINKS IN DISTRICT EVENT

By W. J. McGoogan

Paul Buesse, with a 77, led the qualifying round of the Forest Park Golf Club over the 18-hole Municipal course yesterday in the tryouts for the 12 places in the St. Louis District Golf tournament, which are allotted to the club. A field of 32 competed.

The other low scorers who will make up the team of the Forest Park Club are Dr. I. R. Davis and Luther Schambach, 79; Fred McCoy and Bobby Held, 82; John Griffin and Michael Friedlin, 83; Joe Foley and Dr. A. P. Briggs, 84; Joe Fedor, 85; Joe Murray, 86; L. G. Montague and W. H. Billings 88.

If all those above them are able to compete in the district, Montague and Billings will have to play off their tie for the twelfth place.

There were several who shot 90 who will be eligible to play should vacancies in the first 12 occur. Among them are McCall and Byrne.

The scores were higher than usual. This was due to the fact that the course has not been open this spring because of bad weather and the Forest Park golfers have not had much opportunity to practice. The course was very soft in spots yesterday.

In the morning Mayor Miller and his cabinet played a few holes to formally open the links for the season.

Switzer Is Coming Star.

Among the coming junior players of the district is Joe Switzer of Sunset Hill who, with Ray Schwartz, won the first doubles prize in the district handicap tournament at North Hills recently. Joe has been shooting the Sunset course in par, or nearly par, getting ready for the district and for the junior district tournaments. He is a husky youngster, 18 years old, and golf is the only game he can play due to an injury suffered in a football game. He is a student at Chaminade.

Jim Manion, who will defend his district title in the coming tournament, is beginning to play his game. He had a 71 at Glen Echo yesterday while playing in a foursome with Bill Mertz, who had a 74; Tom Hogan, who shot a 99, and Lambe, who took a 96. Par at Glen Echo is 72.

Clarke Morse, assistant to Fred Duwe in the pro shop at Forest Park, has returned to duty following an operation for appendicitis. It is not likely, however, that Clarke will be able to play much golf for a while.

GOLF
by
W. J. McGOOGAN

John Nangle, president of the St. Louis District Golf Association is doomed to disappointment in one of his cherished plans for this spring for neither Washington University nor St. Louis U. has a golf team. It was Nangle's ambition to bring the two universities together in a match.

Arthur Eilers of the Washington U. Athletic Department said that the Missouri Valley Conference had dropped golf as a sport and that Washington would not take it up until the valley resumed. He said Washington had not had a golf team for the last three or four years, when Eddie Held, then one of the leading amateur players of the district, was a student there.

Eilers also said that he did not think his school would resume golf independently, at least not this year.

Anderson to Post Notice.

At St. Louis U., Heartley Anderson, athletic director, is a golf follower and would like to see St. Louis U. have a team.

"However, I don't know whether we have any good golfers at St. Louis," Anderson said, "but I'll put up a notice in the gym as soon as we receive the letter from the District Association.

"We might find ourselves up against it for a place to play, however, and it would cost money to bring teams from other colleges here to play. I would like to see a team here and let the boys enter local tournaments representing St. Louis U."

Anderson shoots between 85 and 95. According to his own admission it is the putting angle of golf which bothers him. He can sock 'em off the team and hits a wicked iron occasionally, but Hunk finds trouble dropping the little ball into the little cup.

How Harvard Does It.

In a recent issue of the Harvard University athletic publication it was stated that two greens had been built in Soldier's Field and that Harvard golfers were able to get in some practice on them. The weather had been so bad at Cambridge that the golfers were not able to play often but the practice greens help them get in trim for the good weather.

Harvard maintains eight transferable memberships in a country club near the university which permit 24 young men to play the course every day in the week except Saturday and Sunday when only eight are able to play.

Among the scores of the Crimson golfers are listed some 72s and 73s.

District Meeting Tonight.

The monthly meeting of the St. Louis District Golf Association is to be held at the Normandie Club tonight at 7 o'clock.

Bears' Athletes Compete in Meet At Lebanon Today

Sixteen Washington University athletes accompanied by Coach Johnny Davis will go to Lebanon, Ill., this afternoon where they will engage in a three-cornered track and field meet with the McKendree College and Shurtleff College teams. In a dual meet earlier in the season, the Bears easily defeated McKendree, 94-37.

Today's meet will in all probability be the last for the Red and Green athletes until the Missouri Valley meet, which will be held at Stillwater May 24 and 25. A tentative meet with Creighton had been scheduled for May 18, but the canceling of this event was announced yesterday by Coach Davis. The Blue Jays and the Bears are favorites to fight it out for the Valley title.

The athletes who will compete in today's meet are Captain Carl Bickel, Charles Glazer and Paul Paris, weights; Bill Ohle, Thies Lohrding and John Gilmore, middle distances and mile run; Paul Miller, Joe Marston and Hoot Loomis, pole vault; Ed Lopata, mile run; Milton Freund and Ray Falzone, dashes; Everett Brodhage and Robert Poos, dashes and broad jump; Bill Timberlake, high jump and broad jump; Carl Weber, high jump and hurdles, and Tom Campbell, two-mile run.

EAST ST. LOUIS HIGH PLAYS COLLINSVILLE IN CONFERENCE GAME

East St. Louis High School's basketball team faces one of its most dangerous tests in its quest for the Southwestern Conference diamond honors, this afternoon, when the Orange and Blue entry travels to Collinsville for one of the trio of games carded in the circuit. Belleville goes to Granite City and Woodriver is at Alton for the other duels.

At the present time the East St. Louisans are leading with two straight victories, Alton having lost two while the other four have won one and lost one. Only five games, or one complete round of play, are scheduled this season.

Next Monday the games postponed from last week will be played.

Bresnahan Named Athletic Director By Iowa Officials

By the Associated Press.

IOWA CITY, Ia., May 10.—Extent of the shakeup which has rocked the University of Iowa athletic department since Tuesday night widened yesterday, when two appointments and as many resignations left the administration of physical education and intercollegiate athletics in new hands.

Alumni who for more than two years have demanded a drastic change in the handling of Hawkeye athletics were confronted tonight with the folowing results:

Resignation of Director Paul E. Belting, not only from his position as head of the department, but from all conection with the University.

Appointment of Edward H. Lauer, head of the University's extension division, to succeed Belting.

Appointment George T. Bresnahan, head track of Cross Country coach, as director of intercollegiate athletics.

Resignation of Orville Simmons, Belting's assistant for the last two years.

Possibility that Rollie Williams, assistant basketball coach and leading candidate for the head coach position, may resign to become basketball coach at Marquette University, Milwaukee.

Two hours after the appointments of Lauer and Breshnahan had been announced, Belting declined the position of director of physical education in Lauer's department, which it had previously been announced he would accept, following his resignation from the directorship.

Lauer will succeed Belting as head of the division of physical education and athletics July 1. Neither Simmons nor Belting has definite plans for the future, it was said.

A.B.C. ATHLETES TO COMPETE IN TRACK CARNIVAL

By Davison Obear

The first annual track and field meet of the A B C League, composed of Western Military Academy, Country Day School, John Burroughs School and Principia Academy, will be held at Taylor Field, Lackland road and Creve Coeur car tracks, tomorrow afternoon starting at 1:30 o'clock. There will be 14 events.

Officials for the meet are Robert L. Fisher, referee; R. P. Hughes, judge of track events; George W. Kilburn, judge of field events; J. C. Cummings, scorer. Lee McCandless, secretary of the league, will act as starter.

The facilities at Taylor Field are ideal for a track and field meet. In addition a circular track, one-quarter mile in length, there is a straighaway of 220 yards. There are three pits for the high jump, pole vault and broad jump, so that these three events may be held at the same time. There also are two rings for the shotput and discus throw.

Judging from previous meets this year the Country Day School team appears strong and is favored to win. Coach Hecker's team was second in the quadrangular meet with University City, the winner; Principia Academy, third, and Clayton, fourth. Western Military Academy will send a complete squad for the meet and may furnish stiff competition.

The Principia Academy team was close to Country Day in the quadrangular meet and will figure in the running. John Burroughs has not competed in any dual meets this year but has a number of individuals who should figure strongly in the point score. Country Day has a splendid man in Boettler, who is entered in the dash events and the broad jump and Husch, who won the high jump in a recent meet. Martin and Hunkins of Principia are two athletes expected to count some points for their team tomorrow.

The order of events follows:

Track Events.

1:30 p. m.—Finals, 120-yard high hurdles.

1:40 p. m.—Preliminary heats, 100-yard dash.

1:50 p. m.—One-mile run.

2 p. m.—Finals, 100-yard dash.

2:10 p. m.—440-yard dash.

2:20 p. m.—Finals, 220-yard low hurdles.

2:30 p. m.—Preliminary heats, 220-yard dash.

2:40 p. m.—880-yard run.

2:50 p. m.—Finals, 220-yard dash.

(The 880-yard relay will be run at the conclusion of all field events.)

Field Events.

1:30 p. m.—Shotput, pole vault, broad jump.

2:30 p. m.—Discus, high jump, javelin.

Port Harlem, Derby Entry, Won Three Stakes in 1928; Quoted at 100-1 for Classic

No. 20—Derby Candidates.

The sensation of last year's spring racing in the West was Port Harlem, the sprightly daughter of The Porter and Harlem Lass owned by Martin Finn. The filly was the gift of Finn's employer, Edward Beale McLean. Port Harlem was taken to New Orleans for winter racing by Trainer J. F. Schorr and if he had known just how good the filly would turn out to be, it is doubtful if he would have used her for a winter campaign.

She won her second start in easy fashion and ran second in her third effort, after which Schorr took it easy with Port Harlem and saved her for the spring meeting at Churchill Downs. She was dropped into a claiming race and won in a canter.

On that effort she was considered good enough to run in the Debutante Stakes and again she ran off and left her field. Asked to meet colts in her next effort, she was pulled up the winner by five lengths, with Eatonden, Herrick, Roy, Double Heart, Princeton and Upset Lad following her around.

Moving to Latonia, Port Harlem beat Current a length in the Clipsetta Stakes. She was transferred to Fairmount Park to defeat That's It in the Illinois Stakes.

Beaten in Joliet Stakes.

Belle of America defeated Port Harlem in the Joliet Stakes at Lincoln Fields after the latter had won five in a row, the winner being afforded a great opportunity when the field went wide on the last turn, allowing her to slip through.

Her most pretentious chance at turf fame came in her next start, which was in the Hawthorne Juvenile Handicap. She was racing right with the leaders in the stretch with a good chance of winning when she was caught in a jam and fell. She saw no more racing after that.

She may not be able to compete with the many good colts in the Derby, but she does loom as a serious contender in the Oaks. Port Harlem looks like one that can be gotten ready early and for that reason she may be found among the Derby starters.

Martin Finn's filly is bred for speed and there is nothing in her lines to indicate a dispositon to stop.

Prep League Lead At Stake, Today

The three teams which at present are fighting it out for the lead of the Prep League will get into action this afternoon when the C. C. B. and McBride nines, which are tied for first place, battle at Sherman Park, while St. Louis U. High, which is third, takes on Country Day at the latter's grounds. Both games start at 3:30 p. m.

A victory for either McBride or C. B. C. will enable the winner to tighten its hold on the top rung, while the loser will probably drop into third place, as St. Louis U. High, which is half a game behind the pace-setters, is favored to defeat Country Day. A win for the Junior Billikens will advance them to second place.

The greatest interest will attach to the contest between the two leaders, the outcome of which is a tossup. C. B. C. won an early season game, but lost to St. Louis U. High, a team which was defeated by McBride. Veterans will be on the mound for both squads, as Duvic will handle the hurling duties for the Brothers and V. Durbin will draw the pitching assignment for the Colonnaders.

The tennis squads of the four schools will also meet.

Sonnenberg Is Victor

NEW ORLEANS, La., May 10.—Gus Sonnenberg, world's heavyweight wrestling champion, defeated Fred Meyers, of New York, in two straight falls here last night, using a flying tackle to get the first fall, while in the second he used a crotch and body. The first fall was in 26 minutes and the second in seven minutes. Leland Burke of the Illinois Athletic Club was the referee.

"Another par for Jim—and last year he couldn't break 100"

"WHETHER you are trying to break 100 or par, a set of Matched Clubs will help you . . . Mismated clubs and the necessity for making allowances for those that are out of balance cost players of every class many strokes. Thousands are improving their game with Kroydon Matched Clubs."

Kroydon Clubs, Perfectly Matched

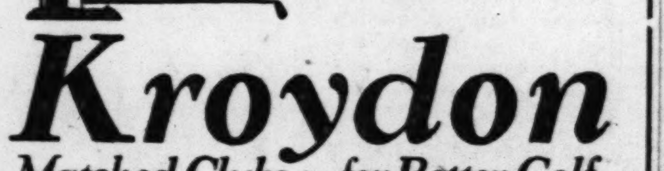
Every club in a Kroydon Matched Set feels alike and swings alike. They are perfectly matched, and the balance of each club is individually measured.

The only Irons that STAY MATCHED

Ordinary irons dent and nick after a few rounds. Filing removes dents, by cutting away metal, but this gradually alters weight and destroys balance. Kroydon irons of hardened steel are dent-proof. They need no filing, and they are the only matched irons that remain in perfect balance.

Twelve piece Super-Matched Set $153.00. Other sets: Irons $48.00 to $108.00, Woods $25.50 to $45.00. Single clubs $4.50 to $15.00.

Sold by Pros and at the best stores. Write to The Kroydon Co., Maplewood, N. J., for "Billy Kroydon's Golf Hints"—it contains practical suggestions for playing every club.



This device measures a club's weight in proportion to its length.

The greatest tire of them all!

ONCE you use Kelly REGISTERED Balloons you'll never be satisfied with any other tires. Size for size they are even larger and sturdier than the regular Kelly line. The tread is much thicker and is carried further down the sidewalls so that the possibility of puncture is negligible. There is more rubber between the plies, and the seven-inch size has two extra plies of cord. Furthermore, for your protection, each is individually REGISTERED by the Kelly-Springfield Tire Co. At the present time we have a full stock of these tires, but they are going faster than the manufacturers can replace them, and we may not have your size long. Come in and let us quote you an allowance for the unused mileage in your present tires. You may find that after deducting this allowance from the price of a set of REGISTERED Balloons the cost is even less than you expected to pay for regular balloons.

The stewards in session all morning granted licenses to the following: Trainers—Harry Butler, Milton P. Rink, James Maguire, J. J. Malley, Walter Fenwick, R. C. Romanelli. Jockeys—L. Pichon, F. Maguire, H. Philpot, J. Metcalfe.

Pyle's Runners Traveling Faster Than a Year Ago

By Alan J. Gould.
Associated Press Sports Editor.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 10.—Well, the celebrated Bunion Derby has covered some 1800 miles, more than half the trek from New York to Los Angeles. The answer to this may be to yawn and inquire: What of it? On the other hand, it may also be worth noting that Mr. C. C. Pyle, in his second trans-continental journey, seems about to get a "break."

The race may not be bigger and better in all the respects that Mr. Pyle expected. He has had his troubles and attachments, but the 1929 grind is faster and closer than last year's contest. What is more important from the promoter's viewpoint, it gives promise of profit, where a year ago the enterprising gentleman from Wheaton, Ill., found himself something like $100,000 "in the red" when he reached New York.

From Mr. Pyle, at Sherman, Tex., comes this word by request:

Westerners Like the Stuff.

"Financially, I am $75,000 better off now than I was at this stage last year and if things continue as they have since we crossed the Mississippi River, I can expect to make a reasonable profit on the venture."

Evidently the eastern half of the country takes its bunion derbies as they come and without much enthusiasm, by comparison with the wide open spaces. But is Promoter Pyle discouraged? Not while he still can breathe this defiance:

"I am still convinced that transcontinental footracing has a great future and I intend to make the bunion derby an annual event, despite all the writs of attachment that were ever issued."

What of the race itself, which, when stripped of all its circus stuff, nevertheless takes on the aspect of one of the most remarkable of athletic contests?

"Everything considered, this year's race is far greater and more interesting than last year's," advises Mr. Pyle. "At the end of 1800 miles just two hours separate the leaders. The pace has averaged a quarter of a mile an hour faster than last year and all survivors are real runners.

Pyle Picks Gavuzzi.

"It is my impression it will be the closest contest for such a long-distance race in the history of footracing. Right now the winner can be any one of three men—Pete Gavuzzi, John Salo or Giusto Umek, but a bad break can eliminate any one or all and give the tail-enders a chance."

It is worth noting here that before the cross-country caravan left Columbus Circle, New York, on March 30, Mr. Pyle personally picked Gavuzzi, the bearded Anglo-Italian, as the probable winner. So far this prediction has been justified by the way Gavuzzi has maintained a close, but nevertheles useful lead over the Passaic policeman, John Salo.

Women Owners Again Try for Kentucky Derby

By the Associated Press.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 10.—The fair sex rarely gets a break in the Kentucky Derby. Women owners have known success on other tracks; women trainers have brought great colts along; slim fillies have gone on to mighty conquests—but not at Churchill Downs.

Only three women owners ever have had their entries paraded before the clamoring thousands; never a woman trainer has seen her hopes fulfilled. And only one filly came down the stretch victorious. The Derby is a man's race for colts.

But the ladies never give up. This year the fair sex has flung down the gage of battle again. Nine feminine owners have eligibles for the classic and most of these are expected to go to the post.

These colts and fillies hope to breeze home with their owners' hopes as Black Gold came home in 1924 for Mrs. R. M. Hoots; as Reigh Count carried Mrs. John Hertz's colors to the fore in 1928, and Mrs. Laska Darnell had her hopes justified in 1904 with Elwood.

But there are no fillies listed which horsemen appear willing to back to repeat the great race run by Regret in 1915 when the daughter of famous old Broomstick romped home from 16 starters.

Chicatie, owned by Mrs. Graham Fair Vanderbilt, tops the list of women-owned eligibles in the minds of those who sit on rails and make prognostications. This bay son of Chicle had little chance to show his stuff as a 2-year-olds, but has looked well this year.

Protect your top from blistering sun

HOT summer sun blisters the thin water-proof coating of your top. The blisters crack. Drenching rain wets the top material. That is why the cracks grow bigger; why, later on, your top material rots and tears.

But dress your top frequently with Whiz Top Dressing and the sun won't blister it. Whiz Top Dressing makes your top look like new too. Covers up old scratches and cracks; and prevents new ones from forming. Ask your dealer about many other Whiz Products for your car.

Lighter, Larger Golf Balls to Be Used Next Year

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 10.—A new golf ball, lighter and larger and described by the United States Golf Association as being much easier to hit, will go into country-wide use on Jan. 1, 1931.

Five years of experimenting have resulted in the development of an "improved" ball, 1.68 inches in diameter and 1.55 ounces in weight, the association announces. The present standard ball is 1.62 inches in diameter and weighs 1.62 ounces.

The advantages of the new ball, as the association sees them, are that it provides for the average golfer an easier ball for play in all departments of the game.

"Actual play with the new ball," said Prescott S. Bush, secretary of the U. S. G. A., "has demonstrated that its increased size makes it easy to hit and that it lies better under all conditions. For the extremely long hitters there is a slight reduction in yardage, while the approaching and putting qualities are proved to be far superior to that of the ball now in use."

Adoption of the new ball may involve difficulties in international play. The Royal and Ancient Golf Club of St. Andrews, ruling power of British golf, recently declined to tamper with the ball as it now is made. With different balls in use here and abroad it will be necessary for the two golf ruling bodies to decide which shall be used in international play.

In reaching its decision to change the size and weight of the pellet, the U. S. G. A. announced it had the backing of the leading players and the manufacturers.

Herbert Jacques, chairman of the U. S. G. A.'s implements and ball committee, said tests had proved that drives of 240 to 250 yards would be reduced about six yards by use of the new ball. Two yards of that loss will be on the carry and the other four on the roll. This loss, however, is more than made up by increased efficiency with irons and putters, Jacques maintained. He summed up its advantages by saying that it is easier to hit, rides higher out of the rough, is better controlled, "sticks" to the greens and is a "beautiful" putting ball.

ST. LOUIS BOYS IN THE MINORS

Irvin Wimer, who played the first two games of the season at shortstop for Denver in the Western League, has been released because of a sore arm, and has returned home.

Ernie Koob, the former Brownie pitcher, now with Mobile of the Southern Association is having a tough time breaking into the win column. Working in two games he lost both, Atlanta defeating him 8 to 0 and Birmingham taking him next, 3 to 2.

Oscar "Lefty" Fuhr, twirling for New Orleans of the Southern League, added two victories to his record when he defeated Birmingham 4 to 2 in his first out, and came back to win from Atlanta, 9 to 5.

Recently Owner Rell Spiller of the Atlanta (Southern Association) team offered to trade Frank Zoeller and Maurice Archdeacon, his two outfielders to Nashville for Bunny Brief. No response from Clarence Rowland, manager of Nashville.

GREAT GOLF BALL DRIVING CONTEST Inaugurates HOL-HI WEEK

MAY 11th to 18th INCLUSIVE

MEN, here's a trophy! You don't have to be a scratch golfer to hit a golf ball the proverbial mile. But here's a trophy that brings the longest drive of Hol-Hi Week—May 11th to 18th inclusive—into more fame than an open champion could expect in a dozen title rounds.

It is no secret that many of us ten-handicap fellows can outdrive the club champion.

And scratch wallops, deadly approaches, long iron shots from the man who rules the roost, won't help one bit in winning this contest!

It's a long lane that has no turning! Oh Boy, what a chance to get square with the club champ or the local star on his own ground! So gather round, you golfers with the mighty wallop!

There's more fun, pleasure and publicity to be gleaned for yourself and club in Hol-Hi Week than you ever heard of since your good wife became a golf widow.

The De Havilland Moth with slotted wings,—illustrated above, is famed as the world's safest aeroplane. Hit the ball hard enough during this week and you win this beautiful De Havilland Moth whether you want it or not. If the winning golfer can't fly, complete course of flying instructions at recognized flying school will be added to trophy, if winner desires.

Whether you win this marvelous trophy and join aviation's great fraternity of premier sportsmen as an individual, or whether you become the club "sugar daddy" and make it a proud combination of golf and aero-club, this unique event for the highest-flying trophy ever offered John J. Golfer will be the most interesting, most widely discussed and most enjoyable competition you ever entered. And—, yep, it's free! Open to all. Not even a nickel entry fee.

Rules of contest may now be procured from your club professional or any sporting goods dealer. This contest is open to any amateur in good standing on any course in America—no fees, nothing to buy to enter it. In case of ties, duplicate awards will be made to contestants tying.

Don't wait a minute. Ask your club professional, or sporting goods dealer, for the Hol-Hi Week contest slip. It is free.

RUSSIA CONSIDERS EXPANSION OF ITS ECONOMIC POLICY

Soviet Said to Be Ready to Grant Citizens Trade Concessions if They Invest in Foreign Currency

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

Copyright, 1929, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Cos. (the New York World and St. Louis Post-Dispatch.)

MOSCOW, May 10. — Private trading soon may be allowed in Russia under a new economic policy being discussed in government circles, adoption of which probably will soon be proclaimed, according to information obtained by the correspondent here.

The extent of the innovation, it is understood, will be the granting of trade concessions to Russia citizens, if such citizens will agree in advance to invest their capital in foreign currency.

It is believed that there are in Russia many residents who still possess funds sufficient to start large industrial enterprises notwithstanding the fact that capitalism has apparently ceased to exist in this country.

By allowing concessions to such residents the Soviet Government would gain not only in that hidden capital would be brought out for industrial projects, but also in that the profits of the concessionaires would not go abroad as is the case with those made by German and American concessionaires now working in Russia. By remaining in the country such capital would support Russian exchange.

Because of existing agreements with foreign concessionaires which permit them to take out part of their profits from Russia in American dollars, the more profits a foreign firm makes in this country the more dollars go out of Russia.

This outflow of dollars has an adverse effect upon the value abroad of the Russian ruble, which is based, to a considerable extent, on the American currency circulating the Soviet republics. In weakening the value of Russian money abroad, it also leads toward financial entanglements in Russia.

One result is that the Soviet Government must limit the granting of concessions to foreign firms, even against its will and industrial interests, because the more foreign concessions are granted the more foreign money will go out of Russia and the more the value of Russian currency will drop.

It is because this is so that the Soviet Government is now considering its own citizens to enter Russian industry as concessionaires.

The new project does not mean exactly a repetition of the so-called "Nep" policy which allowed private trading to everybody in the country and gave rise to the assertion that the Soviet Government had abandoned the cardinal principle of Communism. It means, however, that the Government is inclined to allow private trading on certain conditions; firstly, that the big capital be invested; secondly, that concessions granted be under government control similar to that exercised over foreign concessionaires, and, thirdly, that no wealth be transferred abroad, since the concessionaires would remain Russian subjects.

BILL OFFERED TO ELIMINATE SMALL TAXICAB OPERATORS

Provides for Minimum City Tax of $300 a Year; Introduced at Instance of Cab Company.

A bill slightly increasing rates and intended to eliminate the individual operator or owner of a few taxicabs, was introduced in the Board of Aldermen today by Alderman Riefling at the instance of Marvin Boisseau, president of the Red Top Cab Co.

At present the taxicab companies and individual owners pay only a state and city automobile license tax. The proposed ordinance provides that companies operating up to 100 cabs shall pay a minimum tax to the city of $300 a year; a minimum of $400 a year for more than 100 and not more than 200, and $500 a year for more than 200 cabs.

It is also provided that all applicants for permission to operate taxicabs shall apply to the Board of Public Service for a certificate of convenience and necessity and must show at a hearing before the Board a need for more cabs. Another provision is an increase in the waiting time rate of 10 cents for each three minutes instead of four minutes, as at present.

Alderman Riefling quoted Boisseau as saying this ordinance would eliminate the occasional or irresponsible operator of a few cabs and at the same time provide tax revenue from this business.

timent of the Senate on this not been tested, as neither passed by the House and nding in the Senate, nor the ate Senate bill, which is on enate calendar for engross- has been put to a vote in the but an undercurrent of op- exists.

ermit bill was passed by the only after it was amended o apply only to St. Louis, instead of being State-wide in effect. Representatives from the rest of the State were outspoken in opposing such radical changes from the present franchise system for utilities in their cities and districts, but readily acquiesced in its passage after the bill was converted into a local bill, for St. Louis only. House members rarely oppose local bills, when sponsored by a member from the city or county affected.

Senator Casey of Kansas City, in a hearing before the Senate Municipal Corporations Committee, said he could not see where a municipality would gain any advantage through the bill, and might lose some of its present powers over utilities by consenting to such a permit.

Senator Morgan of Unionville, a member of the committee, declared the permits in practice would become perpetual franchises, because of the difficulty the city would have in purchasing its common carriers, at a reasonable price, if it desired to do so, and because of endless litigation that would result from attempts to enforce any of the other grounds in the bill for revocation of such a permit.

All Transit Bills Passed House.

Four bills were introduced in both Houses of the Legislature on behalf of the St. Louis Transportation Survey Commission, in connection with plans for rapid transit in St. Louis. They were the rapid transit enabling act, the terminable permit bill, and two proposed constitutional amendments giving cities greater condemnation powers for public improvements, and authorizing issuance of municipal public utility bonds for 50 years instead of 20 years. All of the bills have passed the House and are pending in the Senate.

The bills were drafted by City Counselor J. T. Muench of St. Louis, in consultation with R. F. Kelker Jr. of Chicago, engineer for the Survey Commission. They were introduced in the House by Representatives Claude B. Ricketts, and O. J. Papke, both of St. Louis, and in the Senate by Senator Kinney of St. Louis, at the instance of the Commission. Ricketts is a member of the Commission.

Persons appearing in support of the terminable permit bill, as well as the other measure, in hearings before House and Senate Committees, were E. J. Russell, chairman of the Transportation Survey Commission; Kelker, engineer for the Commission; City Counselor J. T. Muench, Stanley Clarke, president of the St. Louis Public Service Co., Ricketts and Papke.

Would Facilitate Financing.

The principal argument offered for the bill by its proponents, is that utilities with such permits or franchises could be financed more easily and could sell their bonds and notes on more favorable terms, than if operating under a franchise with a fixed expiration date.

City Counselor Muench told the legislative committees the permit bill had been included in the transit program at the suggestion of Kelker, the Survey Commission's engineer, as offering the best method for financing utility companies. Muench said the city would receive uninterrupted service because a common carrier operating under such a permit would not have the difficulty in borrowing money that now arises when franchises are near expiration.

Muench said the right of the city to purchase the property, as a condition of consent to a terminable permit, would be an advantage and declared the various provisions in the bill for determining the purchase price would protect the city. Muench said, upon an inquiry, that he did not know whether any city in other states having terminable

Helen Wills, With Seven Other American Women, Presented to Queen Mary

Tennis Star Wears Sleeveless Gown Despite Intimation That British Royalty Prefers Upper Arm Be Covered.

By ARTHUR E. MANN,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

Copyright, 1929, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Cos. (the New York World and St. Louis Post-Dispatch.)

LONDON, May 10.—Helen Wills, star of the tennis courts of two continents, made her British social debut at the royal court at Buckingham Palace here last night and curtsied to Queen Mary along with six other American debutantes in the charge of the 800 who attended the first court of the London season.

She and the other American girls, with Mrs. Albert Halstead, wife of the Consul-General here, who formed the "general circle" or American contingent, were presented by the American Charge d'Affaires, Ray Atherton, and Frau Frederich Sthamer, wife of the German Ambassador to the Court of St. James.

The unusual, if not unprecedented circumstance of Americans being presented by the wife of a foreign diplomat, was due to the fact that Mrs. Atherton was indisposed.

The other Americans presented to the court were Miss Elizabeth Behn, New York; Miss Alice Coonley, Illinois; Miss Lillian Emerson, North Carolina; Miss Jocelyn Pierson, Maryland; Miss Virginia Willys, New York, and Miss Wills' fellow Californian, Miss Harriet Walker.

Miss Wills Wears Ivory Satin.

Miss Wills wore a rich heavy satin court dress in a mellow tone of ivory. The material, specially woven in one of the old French silk mills for Patou, is known as "wedding gown satin" because it is so often chosen by English brides. The gown was cut on classical lines and relied on the richness of the material and the soft drapery at the folds for its effect, being devoid of trimming. The corsage, moulded to the figure, had a slight V both back and front; the skirt eased into the natural waist line, falling in rather full folds but not at all bouffant.

The dress was longer than the style worn by most of the English debutantes, but that was more or less dictated by its classical style. It reached half way between knee and ankle, the hem line being slightly raised in front. The gown was sleeveless. The court train attached at the back by points to either shoulder was cut into a deep V in the center and fell in straight lines to the ground where it stretched the regulation 18 inches along the floor.

Her ivory satin shoes of court shape matched the dress. Three regulation Prince of Wales feathers were fastened to her shingled hair by a small, flat clasp and a court veil of very soft ivory silk net made up on a satin bandeau. She carried a bouquet of white flowers.

The tennis star was one of the relatively few women attending the court who ignored the intimation annually put out here at the Queen's behest that a gown with short sleeves covering a bit of the upper arm is preferred to one ending at the shoulders.

An English woman present at the court said Miss Wills looked a little nervous and very serious as the Lord Chamberlain called her name and she advanced to curtsy to the Queen, but when the Queen bowed acknowledgment, she smiled faintly as though she was relieved at the thought that her ordeal was over.

The Rolls-Royce limousine bearing Miss Wills and her California companion, Miss Walker, was among the earliest automobiles to drive through the Admiralty Arch and down the Mall toward the Palace in the close-packed line of cars which began to assemble at 6:15 o'clock and soon stretched back for more than a mile from the entrance to the Palace courtyard by the Queen Victoria Memorial.

The footway along the line of waiting motor cars was packed with people, most of them girls and women, who pressed close to the automobiles and made audible comments on the dress and general appearance of the brilliantly dressed women inside. There was a continual large, ever-shifting crowd around Miss Wills' car which received frequent amused, good-natured smiles from the American girl.

Miss Wills "Thrilled."

Miss Wills, departed for the Hague today "very much thrilled."

"It was perfectly beautiful," she said as she hurriedly packed her court gown and tennis frocks to catch an early morning train. "I was not a bit nervous. Everything was managed so well that one felt always at ease. It was really beautiful, the whole scene was so colorful. Never as long as I live shall I forget it."

The curiosity of throngs of spectators fighting their way through the crowds on the Mall last night shouting "we want Helen," did not disturb the champion.

Queen Presides Alone.

Standing alone, with members of the royal circle around her, the Queen dominated the great ballroom. It was the first time in 29 years that a Queen had presided over a court from which the King was absent. She made a bright figure in a shaded dress which seemed to change color with every movement of its wearer. Her gown was of changeable tissue with an embroidered over-dress in soft pastel shades and a train of Indian brocade lined with pale gold and pastel chiffon tissue. A pearl and diamond diadem gleamed in her hair and she wore ropes of diamonds and pearls looped around her neck and falling in graceful festoons almost to the waist.

The Prince of Wales, who acted as her escort, was in the full dress uniform of the Welsh Guards.

The presentation ceremony was in progress for nearly three hours.

GIANT DIRIGIBLE PLANNED FOR U. S.-TO-HAWAII SERVICE

Goodyear Officer Puts Proposal, Involving $10,000,000 Cost Before President Hoover.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 10.—If approved by Congress at its next session, work will be begun in California on a hangar for the building of a giant commercial airship embodying helicopter features for mail and passenger service to Hawaii and the Orient. Paul W. Litchfield, president of the Goodyear-Zeppelin Corporation of Akron, O., told today of the plans he put before President Hoover in Washington yesterday.

The company is not asking for Government subsidy, but it does want the guaranteed income of mail contracts before starting a project that requires an estimated outlay of $10,000,000.

If these contracts are awarded the program will be as follows: A hangar will be built in Southern California or in one of two places now under consideration in the San Francisco bay district, similar to the one now under construction at Akron for the building of two airships for the Navy, each one twice as big as the dirigible Los Angeles and half again as big as the Graf Zeppelin.

The navy ships and the proposed commercial dirigible will have eight engines, instead of five as the Los Angeles and the Graf Zeppelin, housed inside the frame instead of being attached to the outside of the hull, and the propellors will be on swivels. This swivel arrangement will permit the propellors to be so turned as to drive the ship straight up or pull it straight down. The commercial dirigible will carry a crew of about 50, will have accommodations for about 100 passengers, and room for 10 tons of mail. It will have a speed of 90 miles.

BILL GIVING DEMOCRATS SEATS IN ALDERMANIC BOARD FAILS

Missouri House Defeats Measure, 80 to 37, Introduced by Senator Kinney.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, May 10.—An attempt to pass Senator Kinney's resolution for a constitutional amendment to permit minority representation in the Board of Aldermen in St. Louis failed in the House yesterday afternoon.

When first called up, the resolution was placed on the informal calendar when Republicans learned the nature of the measure. Later it was taken from the informal calendar by Democratic members and an unsuccessful attempt was made to pass it. The proponents of the resolution headed off a motion to indefinitely postpone it and succeeded in getting a roll call, but the resolution was defeated 80 to 37. The vote was on party lines, Republicans in the House voting against it solidly.

CITY ACCEPTS 300-ACRE PARK SITE ON ALLENTON ROAD

Citizens' Bond Issue Committee Approves Ordinance to Appropriate $15,000 for Improving Tract.

An ordinance accepting the gift of a 300-acre park site on Allenton road, north of Allenton, St. Louis County, and about 30 miles west of St. Louis, was approved by the Citizens' Bond Issue Supervisory Committee by a vote of six to five yesterday, after protracted delay. Some of the objectors thought the park was too far from the city or would not be worth the $15,000 appropriated by the ordinance for improving it.

The site was offered the city free several years ago by H. C. Evans, a retired school teacher, on condition that it be improved. It is in a rugged, picturesque district, heavily wooded, and with fine views of the Ozark foothills. For years the city and civic workers have sought to obtain outer parks like this and the movement is still under way. The Park Department does not plan to change the character of the place, but to build roads and picnic facilities.

The ordinance now goes to the Board of Aldermen.

WICKERSHAM LIKELY TO HEAD LAW ENFORCEMENT GROUP

Hoover Said to Have Decided on Attorney-General in Taft's Administration.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 10.—George W. Wickersham of New York, Attorney-General in the Taft administration, is regarded as the most likely choice of President Hoover as chairman of the proposed National Law Enforcement Commission.

Having abandoned hope of obtaining the services of Associate Justice Harlan Fiske Stone of the Supreme Court as head of the commission, the President as said in high official circles to have turned to Wickersham as his next choice.

Wickersham is here attending a meeting of the American Law Institute, of which he is president. In his opening address to that body he praised the President's pronouncement on law enforcement in his recent New York address and called on the legal profession of the country to support the executive in his program.

DEFENDS STOCK LOANS AS VITAL TO PROSPERITY

Head of New York Exchange Says Curtailment of Funds for Borrowing Checks Busness.

REPLIES TO CRITICS ON SPECULATION

Declares Federal Reserve Should Follow Hands-Off Policy Toward Security Investments.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, May 10.—E. H. H. Simmons, president of the New York Stock Exchange, last night defended stock market loans as necessary and vital to American prosperity and progress.

Addressing members of the Chicago Stock Exchange at their annual dinner, Simmons declared, "Any arbitrary curtailment of funds for stock market loans inevitably acts as a curb on progress and prosperity since it hinders business companies from readily obtaining capital which their continual development necessitates."

Acknowledging that stock market loans frequently subserve speculation, he denied that speculation even approached gambling and hurled the counter charge, that criticism of the loans was "based on unjustified assumptions, partial knowledge and inadequate perspectives."

In advocating a policy of hands off, so far as the Federal Reserve system and other regulatory elements are concerned, he declared the stock market itself would be able to correct its own mistakes.

Distributing Securities.

"The speedy distribution of American securities, aided by stock market loans, should be cause for national enthusiasm rather than national apprehension," he said. "It is absurd to rejoice in our present day national industrial prosperity and at the same time to bewail the size of the very stock market loans which have played such a vital part in that prosperity."

Call loans were termed by Simmons the safest form of investment in America. It is possible to reduce the loans, in his opinion, only by bringing widespread business depression.

Asking the rhetorical question, "Where would the money go, if stock market loans were restricted?" He answered it with the declaration that the United States now has more available capital than it knew what to do with.

He also declared that call loans played a vital part in maintaining the liquidity of commercial banks throughout the country and suggested that, if more commercial banks had invested more heavily in call loans there could not have been the huge number of banking insolvencies during the last five years.

Way to Reduce Loans.

A practical way to reduce stock market loans, according to Simmons, would be to induce the owners of capital invested in them to buy outright the collateral securities employed at present to secure their loans.

"But, you cannot get the owner of capital in the form of a call loan to prefer an investment of his funds in securities outright as long as disturbing threats continually produce uncertainty and uneasiness," he continued. "What we need in our security market is understanding. To the same end it is equally necessary that the interest rate on call loans be reduced, so as not to offer to the owner of capital the present preferential income return over that offered by securities themselves.

"A lower level of interest rates should also serve to revive the American bond market, to permit more easily the normal continuance of bond financing, and perhaps to enable our commercial banks to liquidate more easily some of the $14,500,000,000 which they at present hold in bond investments."

Bar on Rediscounting.

The Federal Reserve System's difficulties in regard to stock market loans arose from the prohibition against rediscounting them, Simmons said.

He continued: "The Federal Reserve System faces in the future a situation where extensive rediscounting may prove very difficult because of a lack of rediscounting loans. Obviously, under such circumstances, the value of the Federal Reserve System to American business would decline in proportion.

"Inevitably the time is coming, therefore, when if only for the good of the Federal Reserve System itself, the rediscounting of security collateral loans should be undertaken.

"Many fear that such a step would involve the extensive use of Federal Reserve credit in the stock market. But there probably is much Federal Reserve credit in stock market loans, and under the present system the Federal Reserve cannot prevent it."

Simmons recommended full publicity on Federal Reserve policies; a free, as well as able, management for the Federal Reserve System; removal of minute legal restrictions on Federal Reserve policies and better pay for Federal Reserve officials.

Pointing out that call loans represent capital as well as manufactured bank credit, he said: "A money market technic devised for the control of credit does not and cannot apply with equal force to loans which represent capital savings."

He concluded with the observation that "our financial policies and practices, especially in our commercial banking system, must adapt themselves to the changes which are occurring so rapidly throughout American business."

"Floating Cathedrals."

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 10.—"Floating cathedrals" for the celebration of Roman Catholic services on the high seas have become part of the equipment of the bigger ocean liners. They carry permanent or portable altars and some even have special chapels. Probably the most noteworthy of the "floating cathedrals" is on the Ile de France, the flagship of the French Line. It has a chapel 29 feet long with a vaulted nave and rose-colored windows on each side of the altar.

Germany to Raise $125,000,000.

BERLIN, May 10.—The Reichsrath today approved a plan proposed by the Minister of Finance for the raising of an internal loan of 500,000,000 marks ($125,000,000) to cover expenditures of the extraordinary budget. The Reichsrath also authorized the Minister of Finance to part with certain German railway shares.

NEW TARIFF BILL IS TOO SWEEPING TO SUIT HOOVER

President Also Reported to Disapprove of Some of Changes Favored by G. O. P. Committeemen.

MORE THAN THIRD OF RATES AFFECTED

Apparently Chief Executive Must Look to Senate for Support of "Limited" Revision Idea.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 10.—President Hoover's legislative program has had rather rough going in the preliminary stages of its development on Capitol Hill, but administration officers assert they are far from discouraged by the outlook.

As the situation stands, it would appear that the Chief Executive must turn to the House for the undoing of Senate action in approving the export debenture proposal as a measure of farm relief, and that he must look to the Senate for support of his idea of a "limited" tariff revision.

While the President has refrained from any public statement regarding the tariff bill, he has let some of his friends know that he has quite different ideas as to what constitutes a "limited" revision of the Fordney-McCumber act.

There also is gossip in official circles that a number of the revisions proposed by the Ways and Means Committee Republicans fail to find favor with him, just as they do in some Congressional circles, Republican as well as Democratic.

Few Changes Expected in House.

Since the Republican leadership in the House is fairly well committed to the committee measure, administration officials expect comparatively few broad changes in that chamber. They also appreciate that the majority leaders in attempting any general rewriting might find themselves facing a situation in the House that easily could get beyond their control.

Pending final House action, Senate leaders are unprepared to predict their course on the tariff measure, but some of them, including the majority floor leader, Watson of Indiana, express regret that the House committee brought out a substitute for the present law as that throws the whole tariff question open to debate and action.

Unless the Senate Finance Committee rewrites the House measure and reports merely an amendment to the existing law, as President Hoover expected would be done by the House committee, some

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

As to Propaganda.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

ONE of our eminent lady politicians who has undertaken the moral redemption of America, delivered a speech in this city at the mouth of the Kaw, Wednesday, on "Current Wet Propaganda." When one considers the mountain of propaganda, mostly misleading, disseminated by the W. C. T. U., for which Mrs. Nelle G. Burger functions as the Missouri State president, one is tempted to smile. Her unconscious humor is quite intriguing.

Years ago we heard much propaganda about the "purification" of wicked masculine politics that would ensue through granting woman the suffrage. Yet a conclusive refutation of this prediction is today afforded by the penumbra of Middle Age savagery that is darkening our land under feminine domination. A few examples are afforded by the revival of the whipping-post, justification of murder as a means of Jones law enforcement, birth-control, companionate marriage and promiscuous sexual relations such as prevail in Russia. And it is safe to affirm, with ex-Senator Reed, that without the patronage of wealthy clubwomen "drys," the bootlegger would not have graduated into the social aristocracy of America within the past decade.

In the late political campaign, which was rashly supposed to have disposed of prohibition as an issue, Mrs. John E. Sherman, former national president of the Federation of Women's Clubs, was paid $600 a month by the national electric light monopoly to spread propaganda against public ownership of utilities, while prating about the horrors of the saloon and the need of "decency" in government. Verily, when it comes to this delicate question of propaganda (such as the heresy that citizens have no choice concerning the laws which they should obey) we might paraphrase what the convivial Governor of North Carolina once said to the Governor of South Carolina about a certain wicked beverage, and remark, "there is propaganda and propaganda!"

The Detroit News' Literary Sin.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

RECENTLY you reprinted the following paragraph from the Detroit News:

> Some of us were in hopes the diplomatic corps would handle the Gann seating problem as was done in "Alice in Wonderland," by merely passing the plates around until everyone had a clean one.

Surely you will not let your great contemporary commit a literary sin like this and go unrebuked! Any lover of the immortal Alice must be pained at such inaccuracy, at such utter misunderstanding of the unique domestic arrangements of the Mad Hatter, the Dormouse and the March Hare. The Hatter had had a quarrel with Time, he explained to Alice, and so it was always 6 o'clock, always tea time, with no time to wash up the things between whiles. That was why they had so many tea things put out, and why they kept moving round. It wasn't Alice's idea at all; in fact it was she who asked what happened when they came to the beginning again. In that nonchalant way the Wonderland creatures had, the March Hare suggested changing the subject. And then when the Hatter did make them all move on one place, he was the only one who got any advantage of the change and Alice didn't profit at all, for the March Hare had just upset the milk-jug into his plate.

"Passing the plates," indeed! How could the Detroit News? Off with its head.

Pluggers Are Dead From the Feet Up.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

SOMETIME since there was a meeting of the Manufacturers' Association in St. Louis and at that meeting vote was taken as to which was th better employe, a "plugger" or a "genius." I believe the result of the vote was almost four to one in favor of the plugger.

Perhaps the man who wants some one to do his work and make him some money prefers a plugger.

I don't like to associate with pluggers. They are dead from the feet up. No life. I like live people—not dead ones—and I have found that the average plugger is either ignorant or a coward at heart. He is afraid to get out of his rut. Long live the genius, regardless of the vote.

STRAWBERRY SHORT CAKE.

CANADA AND THE TARIFF.

We hardly think Mr. Hoover and Congress care to invite economic war with Canada, but upward revision of the tariff in so far as it affects Canadian products is likely to produce that result. Our northern neighbor, still smarting from the damage done by the Fordney-McCumber bill, is watching events on this side of the line with much apprehension.

Only a few days ago, in Washington, C. H. Cahan, Canadian Parliament member, warned the members of the United States Chamber of Commerce that Canada is likely to institute reprisals against our tariff policy, and he has ample support for this view from the Canadian press. It is the opinion of the Montreal Gazette that "the United States, in trade, is treating Canada as if she were a penal colony." Under the caption, "A United States-Canada Tariff War Looms," the Vancouver Sun says:

> If Canada is to have trade with the United States that trade must be upon a reciprocal basis. If the United States is to continue waging a tariff war against Canada, that issue must be reciprocated by Canada.

Equally forthright is the Action Catholique of Quebec, which, seeing a tariff war imminent, suggests "it would not be a bad idea if we started right now organizing ourselves for the fray."

Nor are these warnings confined to Canadian sources. So careful a student of international affairs as Frank H. Simonds says in Review of Reviews:

> Canada's exports to us are precisely those which would be most affected by any tariff made to please the Western farmer. It is Canadian livestock, in particular, which is to be aimed at in all schemes so far proposed. But any blow aimed at Canada will lead to immediate and far-reaching reprisals. * * *

Writing in the Nation, Drew Pearson gives a concrete illustration of the livestock problem. Canada sends lean steers from its Middle Western and Rocky Mountain ranges across the border to be fattened by the American farmer. The latter makes a cent or two a pound on them before they are shipped to the packing house. Despite this profit and the fact that Canadian steers present no serious competition to our capital industry (last year, of a total of 14,000,000 head slaughtered, 250,000 were Canadian steers), the cattlemen are demanding a duty of 100 per cent against Canadian cattle.

The Fordney-McCumber tariff act placed a duty of 42 cents on Canadian wheat, although a certain amount of Canadian wheat must be imported to mix with American wheat. To this degree the duty on wheat is a hardship both to the Canadian and the American wheat industry. The story of discrimination against Canadian products could be extended to flaxseed, milk and cream, alfalfa seed and many others. In every case we have overlooked the fact that Canadian prosperity contributes to our own. While we were purchasing $15,000,000 worth of Canadian cattle, for instance, Canadian farmers spent $39,000,000 on agricultural machinery, increasing their demand by 100 per cent.

Canada is our best customer. We carry on with Canada a trade more extensive than is carried on by any other two nations in the world. In 1927 Canada bought $836,000,000 worth of goods in this country, while we spent $475,000,000 there. Note how heavily the balance of trade is in our favor. Note, furthermore, that this balance is distinctly emphasized by the fact that the goods we buy from Canada are largely raw materials, while the bulk of what we sell to Canada is manufactured products. In many cases what we buy from Canada is sold back in manufactured form—and we have a net profit on the whole transaction.

For 120,000,000 Americans to consume only about one-half as much Canadian goods as 10,000,000 Canadians do American goods is excellent business for us. Are we going to forfeit it at the behest of a few high-tariff advocates who are so blinded by their immediate concerns as to be unable to see the picture as a whole? That would be a stupid thing to do, particularly for a nation noted for its business genius.

IN DEFENSE OF A SCOFFLAW.

If our vaunted American inventiveness had contrived a non-leakable trunk Congressman Michaelson of Illinois would not be facing a probable lame-duck future.

But granting one of the returning stateman's trunks leaked, and accepting the testimony of the Florida Sheriff that two of the law-maker's six trunks contained liquor, we still believe that a fairly persuasive defense can be made for the prisoner at the bar. On the count of leakage it can be mathematically demonstrated that, since only one of the six trunks oozed, the other five were presumably innocent, leaving the accused with a dry rating of 83 1-3, which, we venture, is a rattling good rating. Again, on the count of espionage, or snooping, which claims to have discovered liquor in two of the half dozen trunks, our hero has a score of 66 2-3 per cent—at which score comparatively few of our scofflaws would dare to throw the first stone.

Thus it is that this alleged violation of the law, when examined in the clear cold light of arithmetic, reveals the alleged offender, whom a jury has acquitted, an exceptionally law-abiding citizen. With this quod erat demonstrandum the defense rests.

GOODFELLOW AVENUE.

Goodfellow avenue and its corollaries promise the only highway entirely around the west side of the city from Baden to Carondelet. The singular shape of St. Louis is revealed in the fact that between these extremities via Broadway is 19 miles, while to swing around between the same extremes via Goodfellow would be 19 1-4 miles.

The city plans to open this western highway between the north and south ends and make it an important crosstown thoroughfare. It would, in truth, be the Goodfellow-Hodiamont-Skinker-McCausland road, since it would traverse all those streets. On North Goodfellow, in the industrial region, where some of the principal industries of St. Louis are located, property owners are apprehensive that to establish such a highway would damage their property. The homes on that part of Goodfellow are on a 15-foot building line. The street, with two 12-foot sidewalk strips, is in all 70 feet. The city has suggested reducing these sidewalks to seven feet and leaving a 56-foot pavement for traffic. Thus the highway could go through without trespass upon private property.

There is at present only one continuous highway from Baden to Carondelet. This is Broadway. Traffic congestion upon Broadway in the downtown business section necessitates development of an all-the-way western highway between the north and south ends. The problem is like many others arising from a rapidly increasing traffic, a condition faced by all American municipalities. In St. Louis it presents peculiar difficulties because of the unusual shape of the city, as well as from the French origin of St. Louis and its narrow streets. It would take a profound student of geometry to say what the shape of St. Louis is. It is probably one side of a parallelepiped.

GASOLINE TAX DODGERS.

Oklahoma is having difficulty with its gasoline tax. Dealers are charged in some instances with evading the levy by refusing to report sales, in others by mixing kerosene with gasoline, thereby cheating both the State and the customer. The indictment is not returned against the industry as a whole. The majority of the dealers, it is acknowledged, comply fully with the law.

The figures reported by the Federal Bureau of Public Roads exonerates the majority of Oklahoma's dealers. In 1928 Oklahoma's gasoline tax yielded $8,147,901, on the sale of 180,000,000 gallons, to use round numbers. Missourians for the same period paid $6,948,229, on a consumption of 347,000,000 gallons.

In Oklahoma the gasoline tax is 3 cents a gallon. A number of states have a higher tax. Arkansas' levy is 5 cents. Whether Arkansas is troubled with gasoline tax dodgers we do not know. It would not be surprising if she is. Excessive taxation always has promoted tax-dodging and, with the sanction of a considerable public opinion, has justified it.

The 2-cent tax in Missouri has been found satisfactory, as a source of growing revenue for highway construction and maintenance. Further, the stipulation forbidding any increase in this tax for 10 years was one of the strong talking points in the successful campaign last year for the $75,000,000 bond issue.

It is not our province to tell other states what gasoline tax they shall levy, but Oklahoma's experience warrants us in pointing out the historical truth that Governments are disposed to abuse the taxing power and that excessive taxes, like many other objectionable laws, defeat their own ends and, in effect, nullify themselves.

DOUGLAS BUSSIE AND TOM PARR.

Judge Henry Horner of Chicago refused the request of Douglas Bussie's three children that he be restrained from "squandering his fortune in the courtship of a young woman." Bussie is 84 years old. It was alleged that, in the last five years, Bussie has sacrificed $150,000 at the altar of Venus. Judge Horner ruled that simply because an old man chooses to pursue a love affair is no sign that he is mentally incompetent. Mirabile dictu! Yea, admirable dictu!

No doubt the Judge had in mind the famous English centenarian, Tom Parr, whose life and exploits are recorded in John Taylor's book, "The Olde, Olde, Very Olde Man," published in 1635. Tom was born in 1483 and died in 1635, a span of 152 years. It is related of him that he married at the age of 83; that 22 years later, at the age of 105, "he did penance in the Church of Allerbury for incontinence"; and that at the age of 122 he took his second blushing bride to the altar.

At Bussie's age, Tom Parr was a bridegroom of one year, with most of his love life before him. With Solomonic wisdom, Judge Horner refused to end what might prove to be a brilliant amatory career.

THE TERMINABLE PERMIT FALLACY.

The argument for the "terminable permits" bill rests upon the fallacy that the Legislature can enlarge the city's powers to contract with a street railway company as to compensation for the use of public property and method of arriving at the price the city shall pay for the company's private property, if it ever desires to purchase the same. The State Constitution does not permit the Legislature to increase or take away from the city's powers in this field.

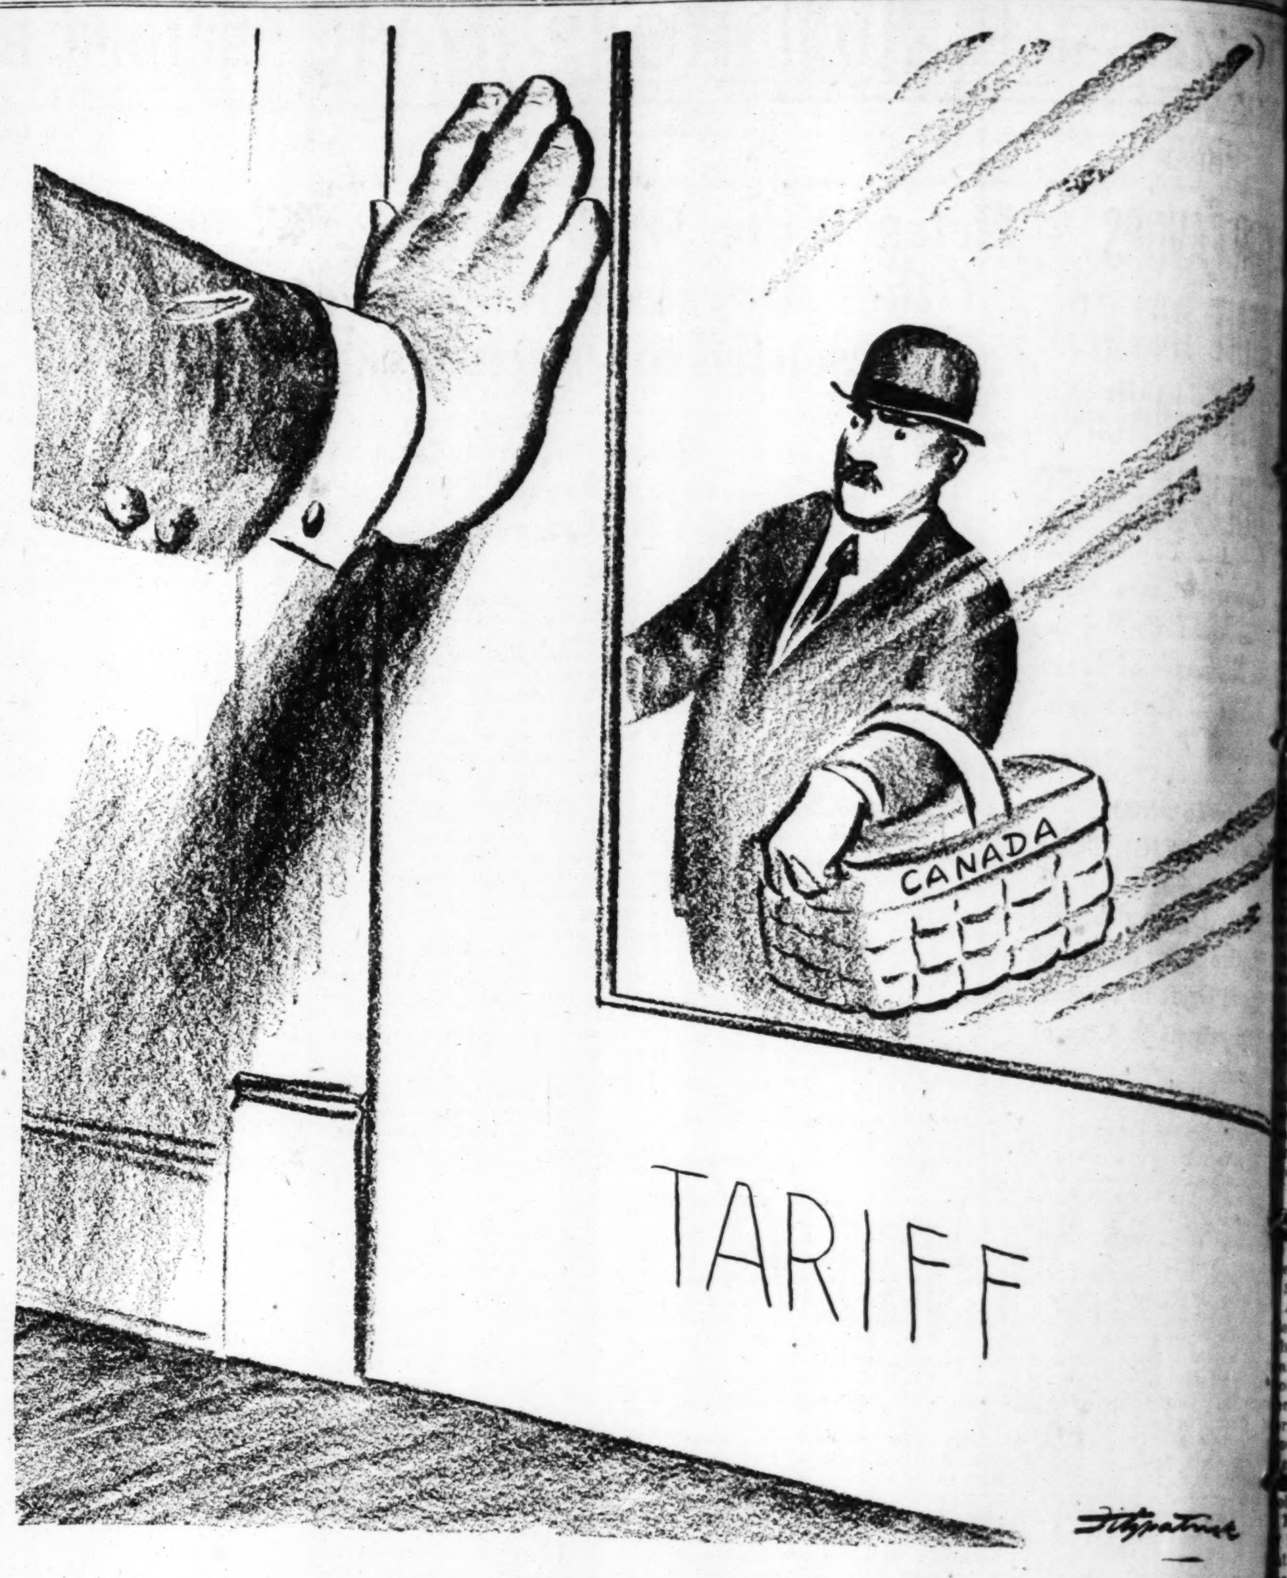
The essence of the permits bill is found in the clause which authorizes the State Public Service Commission to grant "terminable permits" to public carriers under which the city "may enter into a contract * * * providing for compensation * * * or the proportion of the receipts * * * to be paid by the carrier for its right to operate," and "may also agree with the carrier upon the capital value of its property and the method of accounting under which additions * * * and deductions for property retired from service affecting such capital account may be certified to * * * such capital value shall, with such adjustments and deductions, represent the price at which such city shall have the right to buy the whole or part of the property of the carrier."

The city now has full power to make such a contract as here provided for without interposition by the State Public Service Commission or any other authority. It make no difference what the paper on which this agreement is recorded be called, whether terminable or interminable permit, contract, franchise, grant, or whatnot. In the event that the city chose to exercise the right of purchase, under a franchise granted by itself, and there was disagreement with the company over the price to be paid, the question would have to be referred to the courts. In the case of the permits bill before the Legislature, the State Public Service Commission, instead of the city, would grant the permit and any dispute as to price to be paid in the event of purchase by the city would be referred to the commission instead of the courts. But since the commission's decisions are all subject to judicial review, any dispute between company and city would have to go to the courts as at present for final settlement.

One feature alone is enough to condemn the bill from the standpoint of public interest.

That is the provision that "the commission * * * shall determine the severance damages" to be paid by the city to the company. There is no definition of this ambiguous expression, no cue to what it might mean to the city. In Wisconsin, cities wishing to purchase public utilities operating under terminable permits have found that it meant a prohibitive price.

We have shown what the "terminable permits" bill cannot do for the city. But what it will do, if it becomes law, and what the city should realize, is to pave the way for what would amount to a permanent franchise for the St. Louis Public Service Co., a possibility which public opinion would hardly countenance if advanced in its true name. It would continue in force unless revoked for violation of its terms by the company, which is true of any franchise, or purchase of the property by the city; and the difficulties attending the exercise of this right have been abundantly shown in Wisconsin.



HOW WE TREAT OUR BEST CUSTOMER.

The New Tariff Bill

Any pretense that American producers should be subjected to competition from beyond our frontiers is abandoned by the Hawley-Smoot bill, which has been drawn up in the interest of only one class—the domestic producer; the bill offers an opportunity for courageous and statesmanlike opposition by the Democrats, who are probably too much concerned with personal politics to seize it.

From the New York World.

IN presenting the new tariff bill, Chairman Hawley has stated plainly the point of view of his Republican colleagues. They are interested only in those who produce goods inside the United States for sale in the American market. They are not interested in the consumer. They are not interested in the cost of living. They are not interested in the importer. They are not interested in the exporter. They are not interested in the position of the United States as creditor or as world Power. Their sole objective has been to make prices high and business profitable for domestic producers. No doubt they honestly believe, in so far as they consider the matter at all, that if they can monopolize the American market for American producers all classes of Americans will somehow share the benefits.

All pretense that American producers should be subjected to any sort of competition from outside our frontiers is abandoned. "It can safely be stated," says Mr. Hawley, "that under the protective system domestic competition more than foreign imports is the most important factor in regulating prices which consumers in this country pay for the products they consume."

Where there is no effective domestic competition the consumer is invited to look out for himself by jacking up the price of whatever it is that he in his turn happens to sell. The underlying theory, in short, is that each of us is to meet the high cost of living by adding as much as he can to the cost of living. In essence the Republican party says that Government should regard every person only as a seller of labor or goods. It has no interest in him as a purchaser of labor or goods.

The reasons for this position are obvious. They have nothing to do with any consideration of the national interest as an organic whole. Nobody engaged in writing this bill has tried to think out, or was capable of thinking out, the effects of these increases upon the prosperity of the nation or the general standard of living. The reason why the domestic seller alone was considered was that the domestic seller alone is efficiently organized to bring political pressure upon individual Congressmen. There are no associations of consumers. There are associations of producers. The man of the family is considered in respect to what he has to sell. But no consideration whatever goes to him, or to his wife, in respect to what they buy from the grocer, butcher or dry goods store. They are invited to meet the increase in their bills by charging their customers or employers so much more.

In the framing of such a bill Congress ceases to be a national legislature. The individual Representatives and Senators cease to be national lawmakers. Congress becomes a political market in which each member acts as business agent for the most powerful groups of producers in his district. These business agents feel they have done their whole duty when they have by pressure and log-rolling got the highest possible tax for their clients in their districts. The effect of these taxes on the general business of the country is no concern of theirs.

Amidst this dissolution of national consciousness at Washington there remains only the President as the representative of all the interests which the Congressman, turned business agent, forgets. He is above the scramble for separate favors. He alone retains some sense of obligation to care about the invisible and forgotten aspects of this intricate distribution of privileges. It is idle, therefore, for the President to take the attitude that tariff legislation is the business of Congress alone. There is virtually no one in Congress who will pay any attention to the tariff bill as a whole. Few members of Congress will even read the whole bill and few could understand if they did. The individual Congressman will read only those schedules which concern their districts and their votes on all other schedules are on the block for trading purposes.

This, as the leader of the Democratic party pointed out in the campaign, is the inherent and inevitable vice of general tariff revision. The Democratic party as represented in Washington would, if it had any courage and statesmanship, fight this bill on this line. They would bring home to the country the absurdity of such distributions of favors, the sordidness and indignity of this reciprocal back-scratching. If they were an opposition worthy of the name they would raise a standard around which could rally the multitudes whom this bill contemptuously ignores, and they would insist that this whole procedure is an imposition. They would insist that, instead of such wholesale legislating, each proposed change should be debated in Congress only after a report from a reorganized and respectable Tariff Commission.

But, being human and being politicians interested in re-election, the Democrats will no doubt snatch at favors and let statesmanship go hang.

WHAT IS OBSCENE?

From the New York Herald Tribune.

TODAY it is illegal to mail Mrs. Dennett's pamphlet on "The Sex Side of Life," but it is still legal to ship it by express or to sell it over a counter. In Canada the booklet is fit for the mails, and perhaps when the Circuit Court of Appeals has passed upon it it will resume its purity in the United States. Theodore Dreiser's "An American Tragedy," prescribed reading in Harvard courses in American literature, is officially indecent and unsalable in Boston. But Boston, despit its long and famous list of banned books, never barred "The Well of Loneliness," which for several months was officially indecent in New York.

Such are the vagaries of the law; but they are also the vagaries of taste and judgment. Contradictions may, after all, be healthy. JOHN G. NEIHARDT

Gallipoli

THE PATH OF GLORY. By George Blake. (Harpers.)

GEORGE BLAKE, now editor of John O'London's Weekly, fought with a Scotch regiment at Gallipoli, and it is the story of that tragic fiasco that he tells in "The Path of Glory." The book is classified as a novel, since it is through the medium of a fictitious character that the author's experiences are presented. But it isn't as fiction that the book matters, the best of it being simply excellent reporting.

Col Macaulay, a Scotch piper with a quite rudimentary mentality, joins the band of a Highland regiment. During the training period he marries a slatternly creature, much to the amusement of her numerous unofficial spouses. This episode is without significance in the story save as it serves in the end (as will be noted) to intensify the ghastly farce that Col's life becomes in spite of the poor simpleton's loyalty and heroism.

The regiment is shipped to Gallipoli and upon arriving plunges immediately into a worse hell than the most pious hater of his fellow men ever imagined. There's only enough story from this point on to make a good excuse for description, but few readers are likely to close the book until the end is reached. George Blake was there; he saw and felt it all, and he can write. There is no attempt to appear a whale of an author. The style is fairly simple, but often the effect is great, and the mood one carries away from the book is not easily shaken off.

Col Macaulay, believing that his old pal, John Macleod, is lying wounded somewhere out in no man's land, sets forth to find him and is mortally wounded. The story ends thus:

"He struggled to move, to sit up and call for help, but the effort sickened him, so that he was fain to fall back and let the black mist sweep over him again.

So he died.

And it didn't matter very much. He was only one of the millions who died so. The British Army was one rifle the less. An old woman in Benbecula went on wondering if her son would ever return. Kirsty (his wife) got a line from the Records Office and drew a gratifying sum in cash from the onal funds. The memory of Col does not trouble her at all.

Even John Macleod had none of his luck. John had not died in battle. John lived to fight through e years until, at Cambrai a month before the armistice, a bullet blinded him, so that now he plays the pipes for pennies in the streets of Glasgow."

William Plomer, the young South African novelist who is now living in Japan, has written a remarkable series of Japanese sketches and stories soon to be published under the title, "Paper Houses." Readers of the book will scarcely find the Japan of romantic writers. Plomer's Japan is one of electric lights, tram cars, suburban trains, and auto buses. In his preface Mr. Plomer says: "Certain polite Japanese have been good enough to express on several occasions the hope that the author might become 'a second Lafcadio Hearn.' He has hastened to assure them that such a name wouldn't suit or please him at all, for he would prefer, however great his faults, to be the first Plomer. He doesn't hesitate to assert after considerable reading, study and inquiry, that to be put on a step below Lafcadio Hearn might conceivably be considered a doubtful honor."

In a brilliant essay on Pascal, which appears in the initial number of "The Realist," Aldous Huxley has the following to say about History:

"History is a function, mathematically speaking, of the degree of ignorance and of the personal prejudices of historians. The history of an epoch which has left very few documents is at the mercy of archeological research; a happy discovery may necessitate its radical revision from one day to the next. In cases where circumstances seem to have condemned us to a definitive and permanent ignorance, we might expect historical opinions to be at least as settled as the historian's lack of knowledge. But this occurs only when the events in question are indifferent. So long as past events continue to possess a certain actuality their history will vary from age to age, and the same documents will be reinterpreted, the same definitive ignorance will be made the basis of ever new opinions. . . . The nearest approach to Historical Truth is the fixed opinion entertained by successive historians about past events in which they take no vital interest."

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, May 10.

THOUGHTS while strolling: Onion-soup-for-breakfast places. Like Paris. Gilbert Gabriel, the critic, and his pipe. Sign: "Waffles & Things." Charles King, the actor, still looks the collegiate. Have the atheists ever built a charity hospital? What a song—that "Lover, Come Back to Me!"

Karl K. Kitchen, a Cleveland O., boy, who made good in the city. The shy, silent manner of acrobats. A museum has a Rothstein in wax. Larrek Glynn, a movie actor, so named by Elinor Glynn. That casual and half-chafing love making on the bus tops. B. A. Rolfe, the orchestra leader.

Smart gown shops showing simple gingham dresses Henry Raleigh, the illustrator. They say he can bend a quarter with his thumb and forefinger. The sawmill hum of an airplane overhead. Girls who try to look like Helen Morgan—but can't make it.

Little shavers with soiled yesterday newspapers who cry you out of spare change. A window spaghetti cook who breaks into song. Mustached window peepers. Vampish maidens in sandals and socks. Walk up tailor sign: "Own your dress suit outright." Sheepish looking men who sneak into morning movies.

Those porcine Broadway gentlemen who would look all right with red apples in their mouths. Wonder how many colored laundresses there are in New York named Bessie? What became of mission furniture? Those lads with soft Southern drawls at the soda fountains. And a new drink called "Show Boat."

Huskies who toss newspaper bundles to sidewalk corners. And ride off whistling. Dr. Wagner, Ziegfeld's personal physician and a chronic first nighter. Shirts "marked down" to $3. And not many years ago the $1.50 shirt was only for Sunday. That mouse colored donkey in "Fioretta."

Bert Savoy's old partner Jay Brennan. Now going it alone. Who remembers the village wit who always inquired: "What time is it by your watch and chain?" Jimmie Gillespie, Paul Whiteman's manager. Chinese restaurants still pack them in. Blurry gas house districts—like a thick green scum on life.

A NEW YORKER whose love for the theater is profound cannot attend comical shows. He has a boisterous laugh that sounds exactly like a Mexican jack-ass braying for cactus. When he laughs, the show stops and the audience rolls in the aisle. On one occasion a regretful management had to ask him to leave. He struggled along after that to keep his merriment corked but it would burst with a volcanic roar. What is worse, he has the dignity of a Dunhill clerk.

IN a hotel elevator at 9 o'clock in the morning, I saw a young man and girl, neither more than 20, stagger onto an elevator, begin an alcoholic game of tag, rush through the lobby and into the street hitting at each other drunkenly. They were children of illustrious families.

MANY hotels have removed room service charges for breakfast. There are to many tempting and reasonably priced restaurants in the neighborhood, it seems.

THE party crasher may no longer boast of exploits. Any one can crash a party these days. All that is necessary is to wait a couple of hours after festivities start and nobody recognizes anyone else anyway.

ONE of the morning bridle path addicts in Central Park was flung from his horse the other day, sailed through a clump of bushes, landed on his neck on a hillside and rolled 15 feet down a rocky precipice. As he was staggering to his feet, a mounted cop rode up and inquired: "Are you hurt?"

"Hurt?" was the withering response. "Even my hair is sore to the touch."

MY single experience on the same bridle path was on a rather spirited mount. I managed to stay on for a short turn, but it seemed every time I touched the saddle it was quite a spell before I landed again. The colored groom who trailed me remarked at the dismounting block: "Boss you sorta hover over a horse!"

NEW YORK, observes a visiting Englishman, is the sort of place where you can eat a Charlotte Russe along the street and nobody cares. You can do that in London, too, without anybody growing exactly hysterical.

"THE GOOD HOPE" GETS FIRST SHOWING HERE

Heijerman's Dutch Drama, Translated by St. Louisans, Presented at Wednesday Club.

THE GOOD HOPE, a drama in three acts by Herman Heijermans. Presented at the Wednesday Club with the following cast:

Clementine	Melville Gordon
Cobus	Herbert Snell
Daantje	Roy H. James
Jelle	Max Gottschalk
Barend	David Hailman
Kniertje	Mrs. Everett W. Pattison
Jo	Nancy Lewis Saunders
Clemens Bos	G. Lester Gruner
Geert	Frederick Houwink
Marietje	Helen Green
Simon	John Gebbauer
Saart	Leona Sheelbrink
Mees	Barclay Hudson
Truus	Margaret Pyle
Kaps	Paul Hatfield
Mathilde	Ethel Beck

FRANKLY a drama of propaganda a preachment against conditions which existed in the merchant marine of Holland a good many years ago, when the piece was written, "The Good Hope," which was presented last night at the Wednesday Club auditorium, is, nevertheless, an interesting and, at times, forcible play for audiences of today. It was Herman Heijermans, the prolific Dutch dramatist, who put upon the stage this offering, which brought about drastic changes in the shipping laws of his country and made the author a hero among the lowly seafaring folk of Holland. His sister, Mrs. Caroline Heijermans Houwink, widow of the former Dutch Consul in St. Louis, made a translation of the play some years ago with Mrs. William F. Saunders and although the drama has been presented many times in New York by Eva Le Galliene it had never been seen in St. Louis until last night's performance.

The local production, which will be continued tonight and Saturday and Sunday nights, was sponsored by Mrs. Houwink and Mrs. Saunders and William Van Dresser, the artist, and the staging was under the direction of Roy H. James. The company, made up of local amateurs and several persons with professional stage experience, gave an excellent account of itself in the presentation and in a between-the-acts speech William Flewellyn Saunders intimated that it might be held together for the production of other worth-while dramas next season.

The story of "The Good Hope"—that is the name of a Dutch fishing ship—is a tragic recital of sailors who were forced to put to sea in rotten hulks to lose their lives and bring suffering to their women folk ashore. As said before, it was the exposition of these conditions in the Heijerman drama which brought about a revolution in the shipping interests of Holland.

The production was one of the best by amateurs St. Louis has seen since the days ofthe old McCullough Club many years ago. Outstanding performances were given by Lester Gruner as the shipowner who thought only of his profits; by Nancy Lewis Saunders as a girl of the people and by Frederik Houwink as Geert, a communist sailor who fights against the shipping barons, but who goes to his death in the deep, as his father and grandfather had done before him.

Mr. Houwink a son of the translator of the play and a nephew of the Dutch author, gave a partcularly impressive performance. The rest of the cast was uniformly good.

St. Joseph Student Meets Death in Collision, 5 Others Hurt.

By the Associated Press.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., May 10. — Clarence Searcy, 17-year-old high school senior, was killed and five other pupils injured, two critically, when an auto in which they were riding collided with a motor truck here today.

The boys were on their way to a track meet at Cameron, Mo. The truck was driven by Walter Scott of Hamilton, Mo., who was uninjured. Edith Morton, riding with Scott, was hurt. Orville Sharp and Roy Bunten, two of the students, were said by physicians to have slight chances to recover.

Says He Shot at Prowler.

Investigating six shots heard while patrolling his beat near Kennerly and Belleglade avenues at 8:15 o'clock last night, a policeman entered a house at 2615 Belleglade and found Louris Johnson, a Negro, with an empty revolver in his hand. Johnson explained he seized the revolver when he heard a crash of glass and fired at a man who climbed from a window at 2613 Belleglade carrying a bundle and fled across the lawn. The Rev. Herman Gore, who lives at No. 2613, is said to be out of town.

EX-CONVICT NOMINEE FOR MAYOR OF GARY

—International Photo.

ROSWELL O. JOHNSON.

RECENTLY pardoned from Federal prison where he had been sent as the head of a Gary bootlegleg ring, and restored to citizenship, Johnson won the Republican nomination for Mayor of Gary, Ind. The Republican nomination is tantamount to election. During his campaign he told the voters he opposed the prohibition law in principle. Johnson, during a term of Mayor, went to the penitentiary in 1925, to serve a year and a day. He served seven months before he was pardoned.

DICE TO DECIDE HEIR TO RING

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, May 10.—Two Chicago girls are directed to throw dice for the possession of a $2400 diamond ring, by their uncle's will, filed for probate yesterday in Redwood City, Cal.

The girls, Iris MacPherson and Hazel Stirling, are cousins. They are nieces of Thomas A. Kelly, who died a month ago in Pescadero, Cal. The will gives no rules or directions for the contest other than that ownership of the ring is to depend on the dice.

PERTS IGNORE ALLIES' DIVISION OF REPARATIONS

the Associated Press.

PARIS, May 10.—The heads of e expert delegations on reparaions resumed their labors today in calm that contrasted strongly ith news of nervousness in Lonon caused by announcement that reat Britain had been asked again o reduce the share of reparations ayments she would receive.

The question of the partition of e sums to be received from Gerany has dropped into the background. It was felt here that the eclaration of Winston Churchill, Chancellor of the Exchequer, in the House of Commons, simply eant that only a partial agreeent could be reached b which the reparations relations between Germany and the allied governments as a whole could be worked out, leaving the question of a division of the reparations to the allied powers themselves.

This morning was spent mostly in conversations tending to help the Germans put in writing their conditions to their acceptance of the proposals submitted by Owen D. Young.

German Demands Not Written.

Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, head of the German delegation, explained at length to Sir Josiah Stamp the difficulties encountered in framing the German written conditions to acceptance of the Young proposals. There was an inclination in some quarters to surmise that those conditions never would be presented in writing before they appeared in the final report of the committee.

The creditor experts, on learning that the text of the conditions was not forthcoming, decided to meet later in the day to receive explanations as to the delay. Dr. Schacht, it is understood, also discussed with Sir Josiah objections by the German delegation to the Paris report as it now stands. He left a memorandum of the German views on the paragraphs which are unacceptable to the Germans as they now stand.

There was an expectation in some quarters that whatever the final decision on contested questions, the report would be so framed that it would not register a rupture or failure but would present to the Reparations Commission and the governments just what the committee did, what it could recommend unanimously and what conditions and reservations required the attention of the governments concerned.

YOUNG'S PROPOSAL IS MADE PUBLIC

By ARNO DOSCH FLEUROT,
Paris Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

Copyright, 1929, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Cos. (the New York World and St. Louis Post-Dispatch.)

PARIS, May 10.—The contention made in England that Great Britain alone is asked to make sacrifices to bring Germany's reparations annuities down to a figure acceptable to the Germans does not appear justified by documents of the conference, the contents of which were made known last night.

According to these, Owen D. Young, chairman of the experts committee, did not ask the British delegates to cut the percentage of Germany's payments fixed under the Spa agreement, from 23 to 19 per cent, which is the contention in London. The documents disclose that the British delegation itself accepted a reduction of the British share from 23 to 20.5 per cent in order to permit an increase in Italy's percentage from 10 to 12 per cent. Young's figures further cut the British share by only one per cent.

These figures do not, however, make it easier to reach an agreement over the division of the annuities, because the cut in the Spa percentages covered arrears in war debt payments already made to the United States in comparison with reparations paid by Germany to Great Britain, whereas the one per cent Young sliced off reduces to nothing Great Britain's payments to the Dominions, which is a delicate matter for Great Britain.

U. S. Share Left Untouched.

It is a more delicate one, the British intimate, than it would be for the United States to make a cut in its 2¼ per cent of Spa percentages, which alone stands untouched in Young's figures.

Young's proposal, it is now shown, provided for a cut for France as well as for England under which the French total receipts would be reduced from $4,875,000,000 to $4,582,000,000, these figures show that Young suggested as large a cut in France's portion as in Great Britain's.

But as Great Britain's cut was a rock bottom one, England emerges with nothing beyond having its war debts to the United States paid, whereas France still gets $1,657,000,000, to be made immediately available through the new bank for international settlements, permitting retirement of this amount from the French national debt. France figured on retiring $1,350,000,000 of its national debt however.

The difficulty with the British reduction is that it leaves Great Britain to settle with the Dominions, having earlier disposed of them out of its 23 per cent. The position has points of comparison with that of the United States Congress having already appropriated future payments from Germany for army of occupation costs and mixed claims.

The settlement with the Allies after acceptance of the Dawes plan, when the United States received 2¼ per cent of the Spa percentages at the Finance Ministers' conference in Paris in January, 1925, was by executive order, however, it is pointed out.

U. S. to Stand Pat.

Consequently, if President Hoover were disposed now to make a gesture of reducing the American claims along with the others juridically he would be, it is indicated, in a better position than the British Government toward its Dominions. There is no indication, however, that President Hoover has any intention of yielding to moral pressure and Young remains in the position of asking Germany's creditors to accept cuts when he cannot recommend one for the American claims.

MARINE FLYER COMMENDED

Sergt. M. T. Shepard Has Flown 971 Hours Without Mishap.

WASHINGTON, May 10.—Sergt. Millard T. Shepard, marine flyer who carried more than 1000 passengers in Nicaragua without once having a forced landing, has been cited for reflecting credit on the naval and marine service. On the recommendaion of Rear Admiral Moffett, chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics of the Navy, Major-General Neville, commandant of the Marine Corps, has written a letter commending Shepard, and this has been placed in his record. Moffett said Shepard was in the air a total of 971 hours and 10 minutes. His plane was the same Fokker which he helped pilot from the naval station at Anacostia, to Managua, Nicaragua.

MAYOR FOR PERMIT BILL AS AID IN FINANCING UTILITIES

Perpetual Franchise Possible.

Kelker told the committees a terminable permit could become a perpetual franchise, unless every safeguard were placed in the bill. He declared the bill offered to the Legislature was specific and safeguarded the city.

Clarke, told a House Committee the Survey Commission had obtained an opinion from Ben Charles, St. Louis attorney, that an amendment limiting the bill to St. Louis only, might be unconstitutional, and that a court ruling would be necessary to determine whether this limitation was valid.

Clarke made no direct statetment that the St. Louis Public Service Co. desired the passage of this particular bill. Sam Greenland, general manager of the company, has been here this week in connection with the bill.

The House amendment, limiting the bill to St. Louis, was offered by Representative W. P. Elmer of Dent County, who said cities and towns had lost many of their former powers over their utilities, under the Public Service Commission law, and that the permit bill would further weaken their control. He said such permits, once obtained, could be revoked only with great difficulty.

Representative Heege of St. Louis County obtained adoption of another amednment, specifically exempting St. Louis County, from the provisions of the bill. He said this was done because otherwise some of the general provisions of the bill might be construed to be effective beyond the boundaries of the city, in connection with carriers serving both the city and St. Louis County.

FLORIDA FRUIT QUARANTINE RESTRICTIONS ARE CHANGED

Complete Embargo on Bulk Vegetable Shipments; Other Regulations Lightened.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 10.—Slight revisions of the quarantine on Florida fruits to prevent the spread of the Mediterranean fruit fly were announced yesterday by Secretary Hyde. Most of them make possible a freer movement of shipments from the State.

The quarantine was made stricter in one instance—the placing of a complete embargo on most vegetables moving out of the State in bulk in trucks, by mail or other means. All bulk movement of citrus fruits previously had been stopped.

Other changes allow for the holding or citrus fruits in approved cold storage plants after June 15; for the shopment of limes from Monroe and Dade counties, subsequent to June 15; for the use of packing houses in the lightly infested zones for packing fruit coming from surrounding protective zones and for interstate movement of fruits and vegetables in dining cars.

NEW YORK, May 10.—Mrs. Josephine R. Washington, former actress and granddaughter of Joseph Jefferson, the actor, has obtained a divorce in Reno, Nev., from Henry James Lamar Washington, wealthy New Yorker and ranch owner, friends learned today.

Mrs. Washington charged cruelty and indifference and declared her husband had urged her on several occasions to get a divorce. They were married in Greenwich, Conn., in 1922, and have a son, 6 years of age.

Washington, who is a descendant of John Washington, brother of George Washington, has lived in Reno for the last four years. Mrs. Washington made her first appearance on the stage at the age of two, in her grandfather's arms. She is 28 years old, her ex-husband, 40.

DRIVER IS FINED $500 IN KILLING OF BOY, 11

Frank A. Smercina Jr. Is Found Guilty of Manslaughter; Seeks New Trial.

Frank A. Smercina Jr., 20 years old, 1366 North Union boulevard, was found guilty of manslaughter by a jury in Circuit Judge Rutledge's court yesterday and fined $500.

Smercina was convicted of being responsible for the death of Robert Kelly, 11 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Kelly, 5088 Minerva avenue, who, on July 1 last, was fatally injured when struck by the automobile of Carl Koch, 19, 5055 Ridge avenue following a collision between cars driven by Smercina and Koch at the intersection of Enright and Academy avenues.

Evidence was presented to show that Smercina's car, going west in Enright avenue, was driven at a high rate of speed. The car driven by Koch was proceeding slowly, according to testimony. In the collision the Koch car was forced over the curb and hit the Kelly boy, standing on the sidewalk. Both drivers were held for criminal carelessness by a Coroner's jury, but Smercina alone was indicted. He has filed application for a new trial.

TOY BALLOONS TO BE USED FOR SAFE LANDING OF PLANE

Inflated Bags to Be Released to Determine Height of "Ceiling" Over Airports.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 10.—Toy balloons are now being used to aid in the safety of aviators. They are employed, the Department of Commerce has announced, to determine the "ceiling" of airports, to insure safe landing.

"The chief concern of pilots," the announcement said, "is sufficient ceiling height at the terminal field to assure a safe landing." (The ceiling height is the height of the clouds above the surface of the landing field).

The toy balloon is inflated with hydrogen and then is released. It will rise five and one-half feet a second. A stop watch registers the time between the release of the balloon and its disappearance in the clouds. After that it is a simple problem to multiply the number of seconds by five and one-half and ascertain the ceiling height.

$869 TAKEN IN STORE HOLDUP

The Hostess Cake Co., 2901 Hebert street, was robbed of $869 today by two armed men who forced Milton Baird, chief clerk, to open the safe while compelling five other employes to face the wall. The loss was insured.

AVERS BUDGET WAS BEATEN BY "FENCE FIXERS"

Conrad Mann, New President of Associated Industries Declares Fight Must Be Kept Up.

The Associated Industries of Missouri will continue the campaign for economy in expenditures of the State government, according to an announcement of policy made by the newly elected president, Conrad Mann of Kansas City, at the annual dinner at Hotel Jefferson last night.

Mann spoke of the work done by the Associated Industries in advocating a State budget system and other parts of a State economy program, and of the failure of these measures in the present session of the Legislature.

"That type of politician more concerned with his own fence fixing than with saving the money of the taxpayer," he remarked, had opposed the budget plan, which he described as an effort to introduce the essential economy measures of private business into state business. He said that the effort should continue, and would require large funds for education of the voters.

He advocated establishment of a bureau to obtain facts on farm marketing and management, soils and crop methods, and urged that aircraft schools and factories be encouraged to locate in Missouri and that the establishment of airports be fostered.

New Officers.

Mann, who is president of the Kansas City Chamber of Commerce, succeeds Harry Scullin, who has been president of the State organization for four years. Other officers elected are: Vice presidents, Arch McGregor of Springfield and Frank Dillman of Caruthersville; secretary-manager, Elmer Donnell; treasurer, R. H. Switzler of St. Louis; executive committee, Robert R. Clark, St. Joseph; Dr. J. E. Cannaday, Sedalia; Harry Scullin, St. Louis; C. E. Williams, St. Louis; R. E. Blake, St. Louis; E. J. Miller, St. Louis, and Bruce Forrester, Kansas City.

Women's Election.

The Missouri Committee of Women in Industry, an affiliated organization, met at the Jefferson yesterday and elected as president Miss Kathryn Ray of the Wagner Electric Corporation. She succeeds Miss Violet Thomson of Kansas City. Other officers chosen are: Vice presidents, Miss Ruth Hicks Wyeth of St. Joseph and Miss Gertrule Potter of Kansas City; secretary, Mrs. Ella Craddock Koso of Kansas City; members Executive Committee, Miss Lucy Crane of Warrensburg and Mrs. Mabel Briggs of Joplin. The women were addressed by T. E. Spencer, director of vocational schools for the St. Louis Board of Education.

HOUSE OK'S BILL TO REQUIRE INSURANCE ON SERVICE CARS

Compsulsory Liability Policies Provided in Measure for Taxicabs and Busses Also.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, May 10.—All owners of taxicabs, service cars, motor busses and other motor vehicles operated for transportation of passengers for hire in Missouri, who are not now subject to the State motor bus law and supervision of the Missouri Public Service Commission, would be required to carry liability insurance on their vehicles, under a bill passed today by the House. The bill now goes to the Senate.

The bill is State-wide in its effect. If finally passed, it would settle a controversy arising over attempts to require service car operators in St. Louis to carry liability insurance policies.

Operators of vehicles covered by the bill would be required to obtain a certificate from the Secretary of State, showing they had obtained the required insurance policy, before they could operate legally. The bill requires the type of insurance policy providing insurance up to $5000 for property damage or death of one person through negligence of the operator of the car, and up to $10,000 for the death of two or more persons.

The bill requires the policy to be payable to the State, for payment of any judgment arising against the insured.

NAVY FLYER'S 39,140-FOOT ALTITUDE MARK RECOGNIZED

National Aeronautical Association Announces Lieut. Apollo Soucek Set Record.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 10. — The National Aeronautical Association announced today that Lieut. Apollo Soucek of the navy had established a new world altitude record in his flight two days ago. The announcement said he had piloted his plane to a height of 39,140 feet.

The former record of 38,418 feet was held by Lieut. C. C. Champion. Soucek bettered Champion's mark by 722 feet. The National Aeronautical Association said Soucek's mark was recognized as a world's record in the United States, but in order for it to be an official record it must be recognized by the International Aeronautical Association in Paris. It was said that Soucek's mark would be forwarded at once to Paris.

OAKLAND, CAL., BANKER ADMITS EMBEZZLEMENT OF $62,000

Thefts Include $35,000 From Divinity School; Says "Conscience Was Overburdened."

OAKLAND, Cal., May 10.—Roy B. Baker, assistant vice president of the Oakland Bank, was in jail here today following a confession, police said, to embezzlement of $62,000 in the last three years.

Baker made the confession to W. W. Garthwaite, president of the bank, because of "an overburdened conscience," police stated.

The admitted thefts included $27,000 from the bank and $35,000 from the Berkeley Divinity School of which Baker is president. According to officers, Baker said he took the money to cover losses in a Chicago radio firm in which he had invested heavily. He had paid the interest on the money, police asserted.

Baker had been in the employ of the bank 23 years.

LINDBERGH-MORROW WEDDING REPORTED SET FOR JUNE 15

Ambassador to Leave Mexico for the United States Within Two Weeks.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, May 10.—Coupled with the announcement yesterday that Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow will leave Mexico within the next two weeks for the United States, probably to go to his home in Englewood, N. J., were reports that the wedding of his daughter, Anne, and Col. Charles A. Lindbergh had been definitely set for June 15, which also is the wedding anniversary of Anne's parents.

It is believed in diplomatic circles that Ambassador Morrow is returning before the end of the month, as had been previously announced, because of change of date of the wedding. It is understood he is to remain here two months and will join his family at North Haven, Me.

NEW TARIFF BILL IS TOO SWEEPING TO SUIT HOOVER

leaders in the Senate foresee a session running well into October if not into November.

A pronounced division in Republican ranks over the tariff bill, with a large block of members from the agricultural West and some from the industrial East rallying around an opposition banner, has Republican leaders of the House in a quandary.

G. O. P. Meeting Called.

A conference of the entire Republican membership was called to meet this afternoon in an attempt to smooth out some of the difficulties. Indications were, however, that further meetings would have to be held before a decision could be reached regarding the procedure under which the measure will be taken up for amendment.

A group of Republicans along with many Democrats from oil-producing States decided to band together in an effort to obtain a duty on oil imports, while Republican members from Indiana decided to ask for an increase in rates on mint and onions and a lowering of the schedule on certain types of woot.

Representative Timberlake of Colorado, chairman of the subcommittee which framed the new sugar udties, was interrupted in a discussio nof that section today by Representative Hudspeth (Dem.), who asked why a duty on hides had not been granted. Timberlake said he was in the minority in the Committee on that question and promised to lend his efforts to have the House make hides dutiable.

Explains Rate on Sugar.

Speaking for the proposed increase to 2.4 cents a pound on Cuban raw sugar, Timberlake said the price of sugar was the lowest in many years and he did not believe the people of the United States would object to paying one cent a pound more for sugar if the life of one of its important industries was at stake. He declared the United States should show consideration for the Philippines but held the island's free imports should be limited.

Representative La Guardia (Rep.), New York, said many beet sugar companies were making huge profits and asked why an increase in the sugar rate was proposed. Representative Colton (Rep.), Utah, declared only one beet sugar company, the Great Western of Colorado, had made any money and that its profits were not exorbitant.

Although dissatisfied with a few phases of the bill, the Pennsylvania House Republican delegation decided at a conference today to support the tariff measure as a whole.

Walsh Questions Smoot on Sugar.

A premature flurry over tariff arose in the Senate today. Senator Walsh (Dem.), Massachusetts, asserted the Tariff Commission had recommended to President Coolidge in 1924 a reduction in the rate on sugar from Cuba from 1.76 to 1.23 cents a pound. Walsh asked Chairman Smoot of the Senate Finance Committee, whether he had not seen this recommendation, which, if made, has never been made public. Senator Smoot denied ever having seen it.

Senator Copeland (Dem.), New York, attacked the new bill which, he said, "would increase the rate of sugar 3 cents a pound." He called the tariff bill "a robbery."

ARDENT HUSBAND TO HOSPITAL

Chicago Broker, Whose Wife Is Seeking Divorce, to Psychopathic Ward.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, May 10.—J. Clark Dean Jr., young broker and son of one of the city's financiers, whose futile attempts to see his wife have kept him much in the limelight recently, was ordered to the Pyschopathic Hospital today.

His wife is suing him for divorce. To keep Dean away until the case is settled, she recently obtained an injunction. He showered her with flowers and candy at her hotel, each contribution being rejected and left in the lobby. The romantic young husband was arrested and charged with creating a disturbance. Judge Joseph L. McCarthy suspended a trial for disorderly conduct pending the result of the psychopathic examination.

TAX SUPERVISION BILL KILLED IN SENATE

Three Democrats Help Republicans Defeat Measure to Increase Collections.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, May 10.—With the assistance of three Democrats, Senators Gunn, Searcy and Wammack, the Republican Senators today killed the Cave-Casey tax supervision bill, thereby saving two Republican State officials a few clerkships. The measure, which it was estimated would increase income and inheritance tax collections in the State many thousands of dollars, possibly more than $100,000 a year, went to the scrap heap because it would have transferred the appointive power over a few clerks from State Auditor Thompson and State Treasurer Brunk to the proposed new department of budget and revenue.

The Republicans made no fight on the measure other than a patronage fight, not questioning the claim of the Democrats that it would work for greater efficiency and the detection of tax dodgers.

When Cave called the bill up, Senator Morgan of Putnam County offered an amendment which would postpone the time it should become effective until 1933, when the terms of Thompson and Brunk will expire. This amendment failed of adoption, but when the vote was taken on engrossment there were 15 for it and 17 against it, Gunn, Searcy and Wammack voting with the Republicans.

Would Transfer Supervision.

It was sought through the act to transfer to the proposed new department the supervision of the collection of the income tax from Thompson's office and the supervision of the inheritance tax collections from Brunk's office.

The theory was that under an appointive board not directly responsible to the voters, and charged with the specific duty of checking up tax returns, that collections would be increased materially. At present the tax supervision duties are mere adjuncts of the Auditor's and Treasurer's offices.

The provisions in the bill killed today were first included in the budget bill creating the new department, but were stricken out by vote of the Republicans and two or three Democratic Senators. At first Cave planned to let the budget bill die on the ground that if the Republicans were willing to sacrifice the merits of the bill to patronage consideration, it was hardly worth while to pass it.

Opposed on Patronage Ground.

However, he changed his mind and is endeavoring to get it through the Legislature, introducing the transfer provisions in the new bill. At the time the budget bill was under consideration the argument of Morgan and other Republicans was that these sections had nothing to do with a budget system, and should be in a separate consolidation bill. When that change was made they opposed it on patronage grounds.

Sixteen employes are required in the treasurers' and auditor's offices to handle the income and inheritance tax matters. Under the bill defeated provisions was made for only 12.

BROOKHART DEMANDS INQUIRY, ALLEGING REALTY FRAUDS

Declares One New York Concern Lost $5,000,000 in Washington by Misrepresentation.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 10.—Investigation of real estate and finance corporations of the District of Columbia alleged to have misrepresented bonds sold on apartment house in Pittsburg, Philadelphia, Buffalo and Washington was asked in a resolution today by Senator Brookhart (Rep.) Iowa.

Declaring that "millions of dollars of real estate mortgage notes and bonds have been sold throughout the United States through alluring advertisements in magazines and newspapers," the resolution called attention to charges that the Commonwealth Finance Corporation of New York had been "defrauded of more than $5,000,000 of its assets by reason of fraudulent misrepresentations as to real estate values in the District of Columbia."

The resolution also alleged that some financial operators of the district, "particularly the F. H. Smith Co. and its subsidiaries," had been debarred from selling bonds in Pennsylvania and Ohio "because of irregular practices."

The investigation would determine the facts concerning sales of mortgage bonds, first and refunding mortgage bonds and general mortgage bonds upon property in the district and elsewhere.

The oil man, a devotee of the turf, is the owner of the Rancocas Stable, which has entered Leucite in the race. The order barring reporters from the jail was lifted today by the Director of Welfare.

OPPOSES LOBBYING BY CHURCH

Rector of Trinity in New York Speaks at 93d Anniversary.

NEW YORK, May 10.—The Rev. Dr. Caleb R. Stetson, rector of Trinity Protestant Episcopal Church, is opposed to lobbying by churches and the clergy. Speaking at a service in celebration of the Ascension and also of the ninety-third anniversary of the consecration of the present building on Broadway at the head of Wall street, Dr. Stetson said:

"Let the church as a church keep out of politics. The place of the clergy is not in the lobbies of Congress nor is it their business to stir up party strife or to further party interests. We believe in a free church, in a free state, not in a state coerced and governed by the church."

REFUSES WARRANT FOR WOMAN AND MAN ARRESTED IN RAID

Prosecutor Declines to Act on Husband's Charges Against Mrs. Joseph Morris and Jack Parker.

Warrants charging statutory offenses against Mrs. Rose Marie Morris, 21-year-old model, and Jack Parker, 30 years old, a salesman of 5560 Pershing avenue, were refused yesterday by the Prosecuting Attorney's office. Police, led by the woman's husband, Joseph Morris, of 4214 Westminster place, found the pair in Parker's apartment at the Huntington Arms at 1:15 a. m. Wednesday.

Morris had told police that after his wife left him last Saturday he investigated and learned she was with Parker. He exhibited a marriage license showing he was married at Marion, Ill., Nov. 7, 1927. Bonds of $1000 each against Parker and Mrs. Morris will be discharged when called.

TO PROSECUTE WOMAN FOR BUYING LIQUOR

Illinois State's Attorney Who Figured in De King Case Sets Precedent.

By the Associated Press.

ELGIN, Ill., May 10.—A gallon of "moonshine," found in the bed of the 12-year-old daughter of Mrs. Helen Ambrose today constituted the evidence on which State's Attorney George D. Carbary expected to set a precedent for prohibition enforcement in Illinois courts by prosecuting on a charge of purchasing liquor.

Carbary, who conducted the recent investigation into the killing of Mrs. Lillian De King during a dry raid in her Aurora home, said Mrs. Ambrose would plead guilty Monday to a charge of buying liquor and would be fined in Kane County Court at Geneva.

"Mrs. Ambrose called on me and wanted to know what her punishment would be if she pleaded guilty. I told her she would be fined $100 and $25 for costs," Carbary said. "She will plead guilty and pay her fine. I am satisfied the purchase of liquor on the woman's part was a commercialized proposition."

The woman and her husband, John, operate a hotel here. A raid was made on the hotel. Under the covers in the bed with the woman's daughter, the State's Attorney's agents found a gallon bottle of liquor. John Ambrose was fined $200 and costs several months ago for selling liquor.

"I believe the Ambrose case will set a precedent for the nation as well as the State," said Carbary. "Most people are of the opinion that the man who buys liquor is immune. They are mistaken. Let theim read section 7, chapter 43, of the revised State statutes."

That section reads as follows: "No one shall manufacture, sell, purchase, transport or prescribe any liquor unless for some purpose expressly permitted by this act, and in every such case a permit must first be obtained," etc.

Dartmouth "Rich Man's College."

By the Associated Press.

HANOVER, N. H., May 10.—The Daily Dartmouth, undergraduate publication, believes that Dartmouth College is rapidly becoming a school that only sons of the rich may hope to attend. In an editorial protest upon the recently announced increase in room rentals The Dartmouth says: "Dartmouth is on the road toward becoming a rich man's college. The tuition has been going up; it's even rumored that another raise is imminent; eating costs and other college expenses have made prodigious leaps in the past 20 years."

RACE TIPSTER ADMITS KILLING REMUS' FRIEND

Counsel for Harry Hall Says Client Shot August Bruck in Self Defense.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CINCINNATI, May 10.—Joseph Plunkett and Edward A. (Harry) Hall, charged with the murder of August Bruck, Newport, Ky., gambler, in the Hotel Gibson last week, were engaged in sending out "tips" on the races over long-distance telephone, according to Nicholas Klein, counsel for the men. According to Klein, who says he has been in constant communication with Plunkett and Hall, the latter said he fired the fatal shots. Klein asserts that Hall told him he shot in self-defense after Bruck had gone to the room in the Hotel Gibson "looking for trouble."

According to Klein, the events leading up to the killing, as recounted by Plunkett and Hall over the telephone, are:

Plunkett and Hall were sending out "tips" on horses. Bruck, a friend of George Remus, was friendly with the two men, and accordingly received the "tips" in a friendly way. Bruck bet large amounts of money on these "tips," and when he lost he accused Plunkett and Hall of being "in" with the bookmakers. Bruck accused Plunkett and Hall of "double-crossing" him.

On the night of the fatal shooting, Plunkett and Hall, together with two other men and several women, were in their room at the Hotel Gibson. Shortly after the women left, there was a knock at the door. It was Bruck. He appeared to be in a "fighting mood," Klein says he was told. Plunkett, Hall and their companions were "mixing a few drinks" when Bruck came into the room.

"I want to see you guys," he said, motioning to Plunkett and Hall. Bruck, according to the information given to Klein, insisted that Hall go with him into the bathroom to talk things over. He accused Hall of "causing him (Bruck) to lose money." Hall endeavored to talk with him in the room, but Bruck forced him to go into the bathroom.

In the argument which followed in the bathroom, Bruck drew his revolver. Hall grabbed his wrist and attempted to take the weapon away. They continued to scuffle into the next room. In the meantime one of the men in the room had gone.

As the scuffle continued, Hall shouted to his companions: "Look out, fellows, he's got a gun." Unable to take the weapon away from Bruck, Hall fired, the attorney says he was told.

Klein stated that the plea of Hall would be self-defense. He said further that Plunkett and Hall were in Cincinnati arranging to raise money for their bonds, and would surrender to Detective Chief Kirgan within the next few days.

$10,000.00 SLOGAN CONTEST

THE winners in the BOND $10,000 "Flashlight-Feature" Slogan Contest have at last been decided. Over 250,000 people from every section of the country took time to study the six outstanding features of BOND Flashlights and Batteries and to send us their slogan suggestions.

While thousands selected the Candle-light feature as the most important one on which to submit slogans, other contestants chose the Shock-absorbers, the Safety Seal, Fibre Case or the 3-way Safety Switch. However, by far the greatest number of slogans were written about the remarkable "Recuperation" feature of BOND Batteries.

At the left is the name of one of the cash prize winners who lives right here in this city. Below this are listed some of the other successful contestants.

Difficult to pick the 1183 winners

Competition was keen! . . . Selecting the winners from such a vast avalanche of entries has been a long and difficult task. A large staff was kept busy for more than three months arranging and classifying the slogans. The task of judging, alone, took over four weeks! There were literally thousands of good slogans. Some of the best, however, had to be discarded because they were too general—because they did not apply directly to any one particular feature of BOND Flashlights or Mono-Cells, as the rules specified.

Complete list of winners at your dealers

To all who submitted slogans, the Bond Electric Corporation extends its acknowledgments and thanks. We have sent the complete list of the 1,183 prize winners to your authorized BOND Dealer. Go to his store today and ask to see it. Or, if you wish, we will send you the list direct, upon request. If you entered the contest, perhaps your name is among the lucky ones.

THE FIRST THIRTEEN PRIZE WINNERS:

1st Prize—$2,000: E. E. Upton, 701 S. Valentine Street, Little Rock, Ark., "Rest Renews the Current You Use." 2nd Prize—$1,000: Arthur Hoyt, 25 Ivory Street, W. Roxbury, Mass., "A Beam of Light or a Candle Bright." 3rd Prize—$500: Elizabeth Toland, Rayland, Ohio, "More Light Yield—It's Safety Sealed." 10 Prizes of $100 Each: Thos. B. Clark, Pittsburgh, Pa., "A Simple Revamp from a Flash to a Lamp." Ann Jana, San Francisco, Cal., "Has a Way of Renewing Its Life." A. B. DOCTOR GETS 6-MONTH TERM FOR CONTEMPT

Marion (Ill.) Physician Also Fined $500 for Alleged Jury Tampering.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MARION, Ill., May 10.—Dr. J. P. Huff, 45 years old, Carterville physician, was sentenced today to serve six months in the Williamson County Jail and to pay a $500 fine for contempt of court, following an investigation into a complaint that he had tampered with a county grand jury.

Sentence was passed by City Judge J. H. Clayton of Johnston City, presiding in Circuit Court, who denounced the physician and ordered that he be held in jail at the expiration of the six-months sentence until the fine was paid.

Dr. Huff, against whom a murder charge in connection with an alleged illegal operation is pending, was arrested last Wednesday after State's Attorney Roy Browning had filed a complaint that the physician had tampered with and threatened the grand jury, which is investigating charges of criminal assault filed against Dr. Huff and several other citizens of Carterville.

Dr. Huff refused to plead either guilty or not guilty to the contempt charge, but admitted having talked to grand jurors to acquaint them with what he said was a conspiracy against him. He denied having made threats.

Last night Dr. Huff was married at Carterville to Mrs. Mettie McNeil, 43, a widow, to whom he said good-by today as he was taken to jail.

WINS CLAIM ON CROKER ESTATE

Former Servant of Late Tammany Chief Gets $25,000 Award.

By the Associated Press.

DUBLIN, May 10.—Mrs. Fanny Harmon Cremin, former servant of the late Richard Croker, once Tammany chief in New York, won her case in High Court today, in which she claimed £5000 (about $25,000) under a codicil to Croker's last will. The jury found that the codicil had not been revoked in the testator's lifetime. The Judge decreed probate of the codicil, but postponed execution until the next sitting of the Court.

Mrs. Cremin, who nursed Croker in his last illness and was with him at the time of his death, had sued Mrs. Bula Croker, widow of the Tammany leader, for this amount, which she asserted Croker bequeathed to her. It was said that lawyers had hoped that grounds would be discovered during trial of Mrs. Cremin's suit for asking the courts to reopen the will contest by Croker's children against his widow.

New York Sugar.

NEW YORK, May 10.—Raw sugar was quiet early today and as no sales were reported prices were unchanged at 3.58 with both Cuban and duty frees available at this level in nearby positions.

Continued liberal offerings in the spot market and the failure of demand for refined to improve was responsible for a renewal of selling pressure in futures. All deliveries broke into new low ground for the season. The market opened irregular at 1 point advance to 1 point decline with near positions relatively steady on covering promoted by the issuance of 127 notices. The demand was soon supplied, however, and after the call the whole list weakened under tired long liquidation and selling by producing interests. Prices at midday were 1 to 3 points net lower.

BOND MARKET TONE IS FIRMEST IN MONTHS

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 10.—After declining for a week under pressure of high money rates, the bond market steadied up today with a drop in call money rates. Convertibles quickly turned upward in response to lower demand rates. The general investment issues, however, were unable to make any marked progress in face of tight time money.

The fast-trading semi-speculative convertibles quieted down in the afternoon after their early strength and activity. The early bulges attracted realizng by traders who reasoned the ease in demand money rates was only temporary. Near gains for the day, however, were liberally scattered through the list in contrast to the predominance of minus signs the last week.

E FLAVOR OF MINT SPURS THE APPETITE

Sprig of This Pungent Plant Provides an Appetite Appeal.

There are many uses for mint—ther than the sauce always reerred to—to which a bunch of mint can be put. The clean, sharp flavor of the mint arouses one's appetite and for this reason, if for no other, it should have a place in the spring menus, for it is this time of year that appetites generally need coaxing a bit.

To go back for a minute to the mint sauce—this is the way to make it really good. Wash the mint, pull off enough leaves to make one-half cup, then chop them fine with a shopping knife. Add to them two teaspoons of powdered sugar and one-third cup of mild vinegar. Cover the bowl and stand it in a warm place for at least 20 minutes. Stir to be sure the sugar is dissolved before using.

Not many people know the trick of boiling a few sprigs of mint with lamb or mutton bones to make a clear broth. The same may be said of boiling mint with fresh peas—really delectable dish!

Shell the fresh peas, barely cover with boiling water, add a large sprig of mint and one-half teaspoon of sugar. Boil for 20 minutes, add a tablespoon of butter, salt and pepper to season, and cook about 10 minuets longer or until tender. Do not drain, as there should be just enough juice left by the time they are cooked to moisten the peas. Lift out the sprig of mint before serving.

Next time you want a particularly appetizing luncheon salad, make it of chilled, sliced oranges sprinkled with chopped mint and served with a dressing made by mixing together equal proportions of orange and lemon juice with a bit of sugar and oil in the same amounts used for French dressing.

Another heartier but equally delicious salad makes use of a regular potato salad recipe, adding a tablespoon of chopped mint for flavoring and tiny slivers of pink boiled ham for garnish.

The iced drink season is approaching, and it is well to remember that mint is a delicious addition to iced tea, or to any fruit beverage. It may also be added to many of the gelatine relishes that are served with cold meats.

ROAST BEEF IS AN IDEAL SUNDAY DINNER MAIN DISH

The most fastidious epicure will rejoice when he hears roast beef and Yorkshire pudding are scheduled on the Sunday dinner menu.

Roast beef when properly cooked appeals to almost everyone.

If these drections are followed the finished article will be tender and appetizing:

Sear meat in a hot oven for 35 to 40 minutes or until golden color all over. Reduce heat, allowing 20 minutes for each pound of meat; that is, a five-pound roast would require 1 hour and 40 minutes after the searing has been done.

Baste the last 30 minutes with two cups of hot water and one and one-half teaspoons salt. Serve with Yorkshire pudding.

Yorkshire pudding is made with one cup flour, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one cup milk and two eggs.

Mix flour and salt; add milk gradually to form a smooth paste; then add eggs, beaten until very light. Cover bottom of hot pan with some beef fat tried out from roast; pour mixture in pan one-half inch deep.

Bake 20 minutes in a hot oven, basting after well risen with some of the fat from pan in which meat is roasting. Cut in squares for serving. Bake, if preferred, in greased, hissing hot iron gem pans.

Hominy and Prunes.

Cook hominy in boiling salted water in the usual way. Ten minutes before serving add prunes steamed, stoned and quartered; also lemon extract. Serve with top milk and powdered sugar.

BREAKFAST TREATS EASY TO CONCOCT

Coffee Cake Is One of the Delicacies Everybody Appreciates.

Do you like coffee cake? Most people do, especially of the good home-made variety, though many look upon it as difficult to make and hesitate to attempt it.

Here are some simple recipes that can be followed without taking up a great deal of time or money, and that will give excellent results.

Coffee cakes, like other hot breads, are divided into two classes, according as they are made with yeast or baking powder. Each has its advocates. The cakes made with yeast require a longer time in preparation and have a different flavor from those made with baking powder. The latter may be made very quickly, require less skill, and are light.

The plain coffee cake with a crumb top is made with yeast as follows: Mix together one-third cup of sugar, one-third cup of fat, one-half teaspoon of salt, and one cup of scalded milk. Cool this until it is lukewarm. Mix one yeast cake with one-fourth cup of lukewarm water and add it to the cooled milk. Stir in two beaten eggs and about three cups of sifted flour, or enough to make a stiff batter. Beat this vigorously until smooth. Cover the bowl and let the mixture rise for about two hours, or until doubled in bulk. Then cut down with a knife (that is, draw a knife several times through the mixture to break some of the bubbles and let out some of the air), beat slightly and spread evenly in two well greased layer cake pans.

Brush with melted fat and sprinkle with a crumb mixture made of one-fourth cup each of flour and shortening, one-half cup of soft breadcrumbs, one-half teaspoon of cinnamon, and three-fourths cup of confectioner's sugar. Work these together with the fingers until thoroughly blended and crumbly.

Let the coffee cakes rise to the tops of the pans and bake 40 minutes in a moderately hot oven.

Here is a similar coffee cake made with baking powder: Mix and sift two cups of flour, four teaspoons of baking powder, one-half teaspoon of salt, one-fourth cup of sugar. Rub in six tablespoons of shortening until the mixture is well blended, and then add one egg well beaten and mixed with three-fourths cup of milk. This should make a thick batter. Spread in a well-greased, rather shallow pan, brush with milk, and then spread with the same crumb mixture used for the other. Bake in a hot oven about 25 minutes.

Strawberry Sauce.

Cream two tablespoons of butter with one cup of honey. Add slowly two-thirds cups of crushed strawberries. Stir until thoroughly blended.

CHEESE IS NICE TO SERVE WITH THE SALAD COURSE

This Custom Is Becoming Generally Observed in This Country.

Cheese is one of the best accompaniments to salad because of its dietary value. It is rich in the elements salads lack and therefore when the two foods are served together they make an almost complete meal.

Rather sharp, tasty cheeses are the most suitable, Roquefort heading the list in popularity. American is well liked, especially when grated, highly seasoned, and made into cheese balls to serve on the side of the salad plate. Or it may be sprinkled over crackers to be browned in a hot oven.

Cheese should be passed to each person after the salad is served except when it is made into balls and placed on the individual salad plates. As crackers usually accompany cheese a special serving plate, which has a place for both crackers and cheese, is frequently used.

Add Punch to the Party

Cheer and refresh them with Welch's grape punch—color, taste and fragrance of luscious Concords—glorious refreshment indeed!

So simple—so easy to make—so brimful of jollity and zest! Here's the recipe: a pint of Welch's, 2 pints water, juice of 2 lemons, an orange and a cup of sugar. It makes enough for 20 punch cups.

MAKE ICE-BOX CAKE WITH STRAWBERRIES

Read How to Make This Delicacy and Other Strawberry Combinations.

Strawberries will continue for several weeks to come, as the dominating fresh fruit.

The family never tires of strawberry dishes and housewives may offer a new dish every day as the field of strawberry cookery seems to be limitless.

For instance, there is strawberry ice-box cake. Have you ever made it? If not try this recipe.

For the filling take three eggs, one-fourth cup sugar, one tablespoon cornstarch, one-fourth cup milk, one-half tablespoon gelatine, two tablespoons cold water, one cup mashed strawberries, one-half pound sweet butter, one cup confectioners sugar and lady fingers.

Separate eggs; beat yolks well and place in top of a double boiler. Add sugar and cornstarch, which have been mixed together, and milk; cook slowly, stirring constantly, until quite thick and smooth. Remove from fire and add gelatine, which has been soaked in two tablespoons cold water. Stir until dissolved; then add mashed berries and let cool. Cream sweet butter, add confectioners sugar gradually, cream thoroughly; then add to first mixture. Lastly, fold in stiffly-beaten egg whites.

Line spring form pan with lady fingers, which have been divided into halves. Pour in filling and set in ice-box for at least 12 hours to harden. Serve with whipped cream.

Strawberry cup is a delicious and refreshing cold drink for afternoon teas and entertainment of all kinds where a fruity beverage may be served.

The recipe for strawberry cup calls for one quart strawberries, juice of one lemon, two oranges, two cups sugar, five cups water, and one-half can of crushed pineapple. Some whole berries and several slices of pineapple cut in cubes are required for garnishing.

Mash berries; add fruit juices and shredded pineapple; then add sugar and water, which has been cooked five minutes. Place on ice for two hours or more. Strain, add chopped ice and garnish with whole fruit or berries.

A temping salad is made with strawberries and oranges. Slice one cup of large firm strawberries. Peel three oranges and dice them. Toss the fruits lightly together and serve on a bed of lettuce with a whipped cream fruit salad dressing or with mayonnaise thinned with cream. Honey and lemon dressing is also nice to serve with this salad.

PLANNING MENUS FOR THE COMING WEEK

Thought Should Be Given to Arranging Wholesome and Palatable Meals.

In planning food for the household, there are certain times in the year when it seems that more thought has to be used in stimulating interest in eating. We all get tired of eating the same foods prepared in the same ways, and often some members of the family will develop positive dislikes towards foods they have hitherto eaten without objection.

At the same time the person who is responsible for preparing the meals suffers from the same feelings at the daily round of cooking, and finds it more and more difficult to have any appetite for the meal she has cooked.

Sometimes just a little different way of serving food will make it more attractive, but more often it pays to look up new recipes, and to completely revise the list of foods in use so as to include as many new ones as possible and exclude some of the ones that have more than served their term.

Green foods are particularly appealing to the appetite just now, perhaps because of their refreshing color and also because they are so representative of the spring. Green is a color that lends itself very well to the making of menus.

The pale green and yellow of alligator pears that are sliced and served on crisp lettuce or romaine, sprinkled thickly with chopped chives, garnished with small segments of tomato and served with a French dressing made very tart with lemon juice is another almost sure appetite provoker.

Eggs are inexpensive just now and may be used in a variety of ways as the main part of the meal, or as a garnish for other foods. Plain or puffy omelets, the piquantly flavored Spanish omelet, the appetizing cheese omelet, creamy scrambled eggs served on toast that has been lightly spread with anchovy paste; hard-boiled eggs cut in half, with the yolks removed and then mashed with a little minced salmon or tuna fish, well-seasoned and stuffed back into the whites and served with a hot cream sauce—all these offer variations in the ordinary ways of serving eggs, and may be used for luncheon or dinner alike.

The menus that have been planned for this week make use of a number of different ways of serving seasonable foods. If there are any that are unfamiliar to you, and for which you would like directions, write me enclosing a stamp for reply.

NEW IDEAS FOR CHILDREN'S BREAD AND MILK MEALS

Some Small Boys and Girls Have to Be Coaxed to Take Milk.

Nothing is more wholesome than a supper of warm bread and milk, and there are few children who will refuse it if prepared in this way. Cut two slices of bread about one-quarter inch thick, trim away the crusts and cut the bread into dice. Heat the milk in the double boiler, until a slight skin forms over the top. To one cupful add a teaspoonful of sugar and one-half teaspoonful of vanilla extract. Pour over the bread cubes and serve with a tiny pitcher of cream and a sprinkling of powdered sugar.

Hot Milk for Breakfast.

Heat the milk in double boiler almost to the scalding point. To each cupful add a teaspoonful of sugar and a few drops of vanilla Extract. Serve in a small pitcher and let the little four to eight year old pour it into his own cup.

A Wholesome Porch Luncheon.

Break two large soda crackers in pieces and place in bowl. To a cup of rich milk add a teaspoonful of sugar and one-half teaspoonful of vanilla, pour over the crackers, let stand a few moments and serve with a little cream and powdered sugar. Sliced bananas or ripe berries make a pretty garnish for this nice dish.

STRING BEAN SALAD

Clever Housewives Are Beginning to Feature These Beans.

One pint cooked string beans, left full length, one-half cupful finely minced celery, two tablespoonfuls minced pimentoes or green pepper, one-third cupful French dressing, any desired salad green.

Add the celery and peppers to the French dressing. Pour over the beans and chill for 20 minutes. Then arrange the beans in an orderly pile on a salad plate and garnish with the salad green. Cream cheese balls are often used as a garnish to this salad.

BACON AND SAUERKRAUT

Spread one-quarter of a pound of fat in the bottom of a casserole, then put in a pound of sauerkraut and two pounds of bacon in one piece. On top of all that, put another pound of sauerkraut and a quarter of a pound of goose grease. Add three carrots, one onion and a garnished bouquet, a pint of white wine and a pint of bouillon. Cover it with buttered paper and the casserole cover. Put on stove and bring to a boil, then place it in oven for two hours. Serve the sauerkraut with the bacon, sliced, and the carrots.

Prune Juice.

Strain the juice from stewed sweetened prunes and add a few drops of vanilla extract. Serve in small glasses. Or add the vanilla to the prunes after they have been cooked in the usual manner.

RECIPES FOR DISHES IN WEEK'S MENUS

Several Nice Ways of Serving Some Seasonable Meats and Vegetables.

Occasionally it is well to include a recipe for hot biscuits. Very nice ones may be made by following this recipe. Take two cups flour, two tablespoons shortening, four teaspoons baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt and milk or water to mix, about three-fourths of a cup.

Sift well together the flour, salt and baking powder; rub in the shortening as lightly as possible with the fingers, just working it until the fat is well blended with the flour. Then mix to a very soft dough with the milk, or milk and water, having this always as cold as possible. Mix with a flexible knife in preference to either a spoon or the hand.

Turn the dough onto a well-floured board, and roll or pat it with the hand until about three-quarters of an inch thick. Cut into biscuit and lay them, not touching each other, on a baking pan. Bake in a quick oven 12 or 14 minutes.

Mixed Green Salad.

A spring salad made of lettuce, watercress, cucumbers and escarole or chicory, with perhaps a few sliced radishes to give a note of contrast, and a finely chopped hard-boiled egg for garnish, is almost sure to tempt the most lackadaisical appetite.

Broiled Tomatoes.

Cut whole tomatoes in half crosswise and season with salt and pepper. Arrange in a baking dish. Sprinkle the top with buttered crumbs. Place under broiler for about 10 minutes.

Breaded Veal Cutlet.

Dust the veal lightly with salt and pepper and roll it in slightly beaten egg, which has been diluted with a fourth cupful of water to an egg, and then dust it thoroughly with very fine dry bread crumbs. Place in a frying-pan, in which sufficient lard has been melted to keep the meat from sticking, and brown it quickly on both sides. Then cover it and let it simmer in its own juices for about 25 minutes. Serve with a gravy made from the drippings in the pan, or with tomato sauce.

Toasted Cheese Sandwiches.

Cut slices of bread very thin and toast on both sides. Place lettuce leaves, and thin slices of cheese on toast, and sprinkle with chopped nuts, add salad dressing, and cover with remaining slices of toast. Crusts should be cut from bread before toasting.

VITAMINS ARE MYSTERIOUS BUT EXTREMELY IMPORTANT

Foods Should Be Selected on Account of the Vitamins They Contain.

Although very little is known of the actual make-up of the mysterious vitamins that are so important to good nutrition, science has been able to tell us in what foods we may find them, and to give us a fairly accurate picture of the physical consequences we may expect if the food we select does not contain these necessary food elements.

It is difficult to say that one vitamin is more important than the other, but lack of vitamin D in the diet of children is sure to lead to rickets or a rachitic condition.

Vitamin D seems to be the agent which enables the system to use phosphorus and calcium in the building of strong bones. The correct ration of each is necessary—lack of, or an insufficient quantity of, any of them will result in harm.

Vitamin D is sometimes called the sunshine vitamin, as it is developed so plentifully in the direct rays of the sun. Egg yolk, cod-liver oil, liver and kidneys are foods that are good sources of this important element, but nothing can take the place of plenty of sunshine. Keep the children outdoors in the sun as much as possible, and also plan to get as much benefit yourself from the sun as you can.

TRY THESE FRUIT TARTS

Almost Any Kind of Fruit May Be Appropriately Used.

Mix and sift two cups of flour, one-half teaspoon of salt, three teaspoons of baking powder, and two teaspoons of sugar. Rub in one-third cup of shortening and when the mixture is well blended, mix to a soft dough with cold milk. Turn [illegible] on a floured board and roll to one-eighth inch thickness.

Cut in pieces about three inches square. Place a large spoon of any kind of sugared fruit on the lower half of each square. Fold over the dough to make triangles, and press the edges firmly together.

Place on a buttered pan, brush the tops with milk or melted butter, and bake fifteen minutes in a hot oven.

Cornmeal Souffle.

Heat one pint milk to the boiling point, then add one tablespoonful butter and one teaspoonful salt, and gradually sift into this one-half cup cornmeal. Cook until of the consistency of mush; remove from the fire and whip in the beaten yolks of three eggs, cook a minute longer, and when almost cool fold in the stiffly beaten whites of the eggs. Add one-fourth teaspoonful paprika, two tablespoonfuls grated cheese and a little pepper. Put in buttered baking dish. Set baking dish in another dish of hot water in a moderate oven and bake 30 minutes.

FEW CAKES AS DAINTY AS NUT MACAROONS

They Are Fascinating to Serve at All Festive Occasions.

Macaroons, the dictionary tells us, are small cakes composed, chiefly of whites of eggs and ground almonds or other nuts.

While the definition of macaroons appeals to the imagination, macaroons are in reality just as appealing to the taste as their description is to imagination.

While many amateur cooks are under the impression that macaroons are difficult to make, the contrary is true. They are very easily made and baked, and the nice part is, there are several varieties of the cakes to choose from.

These several recipes for macaroons cover the most popular types of these small cakes.

Almond Macaroons.

Take one-half pound almond paste, one-half pound granulated sugar, two egg whites.

Mix egg whites and paste until smooth. Gradually add sugar, and if the mixture is a little soft, add a little flour so it will drop and not spread. Drop from a teaspoon on damp paper fastened to a board and bake in moderate oven 20 minutes.

Nut Macaroons.

Take one egg white, one cup brown sugar, one cup chopped nut meats and one-fourth teaspoon salt.

Beat white of egg until stiff and add sugar. Fold in nuts sprinkled with salt. Drop on greased baking sheet and bake in slow oven 30 minutes.

Cake Crumb Macaroons.

For this tempting sweet use two egg whites, one cup powdered sugar, two-thirds cup cake crumbs and one teaspoon almond flavoring.

Beat egg whites very stiff. Whip in sugar two tablespoons at a time and continue beating until mixture can be cut clean with a knife. Then fold in cake crumbs lightly. Drop by teaspoonsful on a damp paper fastened to a board, dust with sugar and bake in moderate over 20 minutes.

Cocoanut Macaroons.

Take one pound of fresh cocoanut, one cup sugar and two eggs.

Beat egg whites until stiff. Add sugar gradually, beating constantly. Cut and fold in cocoanut. Drop from spoon on thick paper fastened to a board and bake in moderate oven 30 minutes.

Butter Macaroons.

This is another popular variety of these small cakes. To make them take two egg yolks, one-half cup butter, one-half cup granulated sugar, one-half cup almonds blanched and chopped, grated rind of one-half lemon, one-fourth teaspoon cinnamon and one and one-half cups flour.

Cream butter, add egg yolks, pressed through sieve, and add other ingredients in order named. Mix all to dough. Break off pieces size of hickory nut, roll in the hands to a smooth ball, then pat into the shape of a macaroon. Brush over with white of egg, beaten slightly, dredge with granulated sugar, and bake in moderate oven 15 minutes.

RHUBARB BETTY IS A TIMELY AS WELL AS TASTY DESSERT

Also a Wholesome Dish Which Should Be Served Frequently in Spring.

Cut one pound of fresh pink rhubarb into small pieces. Grate or grind enough dried bread to make three cups of crumbs.

Butter a baking dish and sprinkle in one cup of the crumbs. Add half the rhubarb, one tablespoon of butter. Cut in pieces, and a scant half cup of sugar. Add another cup of bread-crumbs, then the rest of the rhubarb, a tablespoon of butter and a half cup of sugar.

Cover the rhubarb with the remaining breadcrumbs and dot with two tablespoons of butter. Pour in one-half cup of water, cover the dish and bake in a moderate oven for about fifty minutes. Uncover and bake just long enough to brown the top.

Serve warm with hard sauce or with thick plain cream. The juice from the rhubarb should moisten the crumbs and make a well-flavored, rather moist pudding.

If the oven is too hot it is likely to dry out, therefore it is better to cook it a little longer if necessary in a slower oven, if you have no regulator to control the temperature.

MAKE TUNA FISH WIGGLE

An Intriguing Dainty for a Luncheon Or Sunday Night Supper.

Tuna fish wiggles is an easily made dish. Use one can tuna fish, one-half a green pepper, one small can green peas, four narrow strips canned pimientoes, one pint hot cream sauce.

Separate fish into small pieces, cut green pepper in small pieces. Add to the cream sauce together with peas, pimientoes. Remove from fire and serve immediately.

VARYING HOT MUFFINS

This Ideal Breakfast Quick Bread Easily Made.

Use a cupful each of entire wheat and bread flours, instead of two cupfuls of bread flour. Add with the flour, for this combination or in making plain muffins, one cupful of blueberries or three-fourths cupful of dates or raisins.

To make cereal muffins, add with the flour for plain muffins, one cupful of any cold left-over, cooked cereal, rubbing it into the flour.

A Plate Lunch.

Spread slices of hot boiled tongue with mustard, and top with a spoonful of steamed spinach.

DISCUSSION OF SAFE REDUCING DIETS

Never Try to Reduce a Great Deal Unless Under Physician's Advice.

It is generally agreed that the best allround reducing diet is made up of a regular mixed diet, using smaller amounts of each food than would be ordinarily taken.

Many people eat so much more than they need, and the extra, of course, goes to make fat. Often all that is necessary to do is to cut down the amounts of food eaten, especially the starches and fats.

A sugested diet is as follows: For breakfast—one medium-sized raw apple or an orange, or one-half grapefruit without sugar; a soft-boiled or poached egg, one slice of toast very slightly buttered, and one cup of coffee with skim milk and one-half teaspoon of sugar, or better still, none at all.

For luncheon—a sandwich of rye bread and lean meat, or a slice of cold lean meat and two thin slices of rye bread and a lettuce and tomato salad, or a dish of cold slaw, or a fruit salad with French dressing (no mayonnaise or whipped cream); or a cottage cheese and lettuce salad. A dish of spinach with a poached egg, or a hot vegetable plate made up largely of green vegetables, or a cup of hot vegetable soup may be used instead of the meat.

For dinner—boiled or baked fish or a lean piece of roast boiled beef, veal or mutton; a large serving of cauliflower or cabbage or any green vegetable; one-half of a boiled potato and plain lettuce or water cress salad with a little French dressing; fresh fuit if desired, and a small cup of black coffee.

If you feel hungry in the middle of the afternoon, take a cup of hot water or a cup of tea with lemon and a cracker.

It is never good to try to reduce a great deal unless under the supervision of a doctor, who can regulate the loss of fat without danger to your general health.

HAM IS A POPULAR MEAT AT HOTEL AND RESTAURANT

The Following Recipes Tell How Ham Is Cooked At Those Places.

Lunch rooms must serve good, substantial meals at moderate prices. Investigation proves ham one of the most popular of meat dishes.

Fried Ham.

Cut a slice one-fourth of an inch thick from the center of a ham and gash the fat on the edge in several places. Place in hot frying pan, brown quickly on one side, turn and brown lightly on the other side. Then cook very slowly until tender.

Pan Boiled Ham.

Heat pan very hot and lay ham on to broil. Reduce the heat and cook slowly. Cover the pan to allow the ham to steam the last few minutes of cooking. When tender and delicately browned, remove to platter and serve.

Frizzled Boiled Ham.

Slice ham about one-quarter-inch thick, according to the number to be served, and trim off the rough edges. Have the broiler very hot, lay the slices of ham upon it and brown well. Serve with buttered toast.

WHY NOT INCLUDE SPINACH IN THE MENU EVERY DAY

It Is Wholesome and There Are Numerous Ways of Serving It.

For a really substantial dish, try spinach and bacon au gratin. To make it, dice two slices of bacon and fry brown. Add contents of a can of spinach, one tablespoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, a few grains of nutmeg, one-eighth teaspoon paprika, one-half teaspoon chopped onion and one beaten egg yolk.

Pile in a buttered baking dish.

Cover with buttered crumbs and sprinkle one tablespoon of grated Parmesan cheese over the top. Bake in a hot oven until brown, about 15 to 20 minutes.

A simpler method of preparing spinach is to dice some bacon, and fry it and about a tablespoon of minced onion in a pan. Then heat the spinach in the fat, seasoning liberally. Serve with lemon.

APPETIZING CURRIED RICE

This Is Numbered Among the Favorite Red-Hot Dishes.

Wash one cup of rice and boil for twenty minutes in two quarts of boiling salted water. Then drain and rinse with hot water.

Melt two tablespoons of butter or any fat, add one teaspoon of curry powder and two tablespoons of flour. Stir until well blended, then add two cups of water, or equal parts of milk and water, and one bouillon cube. Stir until slightly thickened.

Season to taste with salt, and add one teaspoon of lemon juice. Stir in the ice, reheat and serve very hot with lamb chops, veal or chicken.

Red Cabbage Salad.

Cut cabbage very fine and mix with celery cut in small pieces, apples diced and a can of crushed pineapple. Mix together with any boiled salad dressing. Serve on lettuce leaves and garnish with salad dressing and chopped nut meats.

Tasty Corned Beef Sandwich.

Mustard improves most any sandwich, but here is a special suggestion for its use: Place a slice of corned beef spread with mustard on lightly buttered bread. Cover again with bread, mustard and a slice of corned beef. Place third piece of bread on top, press together, and cut in squares, garnishing the top of each sandwich with a small sprig of parsley.

Spinach and Cheese Roll.

Cook the spinach in as little water as possible until nearly tender, drain, add butter, and simmer until thoroughly cooked. Chop it fine, add cheese, seasonings, and enough bread crumbs to make a stiff mixture. Shape into a roll, and bake in a moderate oven until brown, basting occasionally with melted butter and water.

CLASS CELEBRATION FOR THE SCHOOL SET

College and High School Students Mark Close of School Year.

Feasting on good things to eat has ever been the pleasure of boys and girls who are of the school age.

Consequently, it is not surprising that the end of the school year finds many luncheons and dinners scheduled by the high school and college sets.

Commencement week, which generally comes either the latter part of May or in early June is most often the time selected for these entertainments.

The following suggestions for commencement and class celebrations will be found helpful to persons planning class entertainments.

These entertainments may be made attractive though very simple at home by using the class colors for all decorations.

Real flowers form the daytime table centerpiece; while for the evening party a large paper-covered box to represent a book is used.

The words "Class Prophecies" are written on the surface. The box is surrounded by small pennants and ferns.

At the end of the meal this box is opened, and a sheet of paper is given to each guest who then writes his or her prophecy for the person whose name appears on top. These are collected and then passed to others who read them aloud.

Tiny diaries with pencils attached make attractive place cards and are excellent souvenirs. The nut and candy cups are wound with class colors and bear small pennants.

The cakes, which represent class books, are baked in oblong pans, one and one-half inches deep and the edges are cut to look like a book. With butter cream icing and plain tube the top and one side (the closed part of the book) is covered with chocolate and the end, representing the leaves is spread with yellow icing. This icing may also be used with the pastry tube to write "Class of '29" on top.

SPANISH QUICK CAKE IS AN APPEALING SWEET

Foreign Types of Cookery Are Becoming Increasingly Popular.

This cake is called "Spanish Quick Cake." Just why is left for the individual cake baker to fathom.

It is a delightful sweetmeat which is made with one and three-fourths cups of flour, three teaspoons baking powder, one cup sugar, one teaspoon cinnamon, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one-half cup shortening, two eggs, and one-half cup milk.

Sift the dry ingredients together. Separate eggs and beat the whites until stiff. Add the shortening, which should be melted, to the egg yolk and milk; mix well and then add to dry ingredients.

Fold in the beaten egg whites. Bake in a greased loaf pan in a moderate oven for about 40 minutes.

By omitting the cinnamon and adding one teaspoon of vanilla extract and two ounces of melted, unsweetened chocolate, the result will be a handsome loaf of chocolate cake.

MAKE MARSHMALLOW FLOWERS

They Provide Charming Decorations for Cakes and Puddings.

Marshmallows, which formally were considered purely a sweetmeat, are now numbered among the food products used in cookery. Now the cook boldly captures this candy and uses it in all sorts and kinds of combination dishes and for trimmings for foods.

A new adaptation of marshmallow decoration is the marshmallow flower which any cook who is expert in fashioning garnishes and decorations can make.

With scissors cut marshmallows in thin slices, about six slices to each one. Stick slices together to make petals around a toothpick or piece of wire which forms the stem. Use powdered sugar to prevent sticking of scissors and fingers. When formed place on wax paper to dry; then color, using vegetable coloring and small brush.

SAVORY KIDNEY ROLLS

The Very Thing to Serve for the Sunday Breakfast.

Peel and chop a small onion fine, mix with it one teacup of grated bread crumbs, one tablespoonful chopped parsley, the grated rind of half a lemon and a small quantity of pepper and grated nutmeg.

Moisten the mixture slightly with beaten egg, spread it over thin slices of bacon and place a small kidney on each. Roll the bacon round the kidney and transfix it with skewer.

Put the rolls in a baking dish and bake them in a hot oven for 20 minutes. When done, put on a hot dish, garnish with fried parsley and serve.

Bananas Fried in Butter.

Peel ripe bananas, cut in half and then split each half lengthwise. Dip in milk and then in very fine dry breadcrumbs and fry in hot butter until delicately browned. Be careful not to let the butter get too hot or the bananas will have a scorched flavor. One of the cooking oils may be used instead of butter if desired.

The Wonder Club Sandwich
A Luncheon in Itself
Prepared With Wonder Bread By Alice Adams Proctor

It is easy to make and very dainty. Note recipe below photo at right

By ALICE ADAMS PROCTOR

MADAM: In making this sandwich, please avoid ordinary breads. This is highly important.

Only with Wonder Bread can you make it perfectly. Trained chefs have discovered this. So take care.

Being a close-textured bread, Wonder Bread slices without crumbling. And because of its delicate flavor it vastly improves the taste of the sandwich itself.

Since it keeps its freshness, sandwiches stay appetizing for hours.

For toast it knows no equal. And eaten plain it amazes with its delicate flavor.

Also please note its remarkable dietetic advantage. If eaten daily, it promotes family health to a marked degree. It restores burned-up energy and fosters growth. This because of its high calorific value. Also its remarkable protein content.

To maintain its remarkable quality day after day, we go to great lengths. We specify a specially milled short patent flour. Only the heart of the wheat berry is used.

We use double the usual amount of milk.

We employ a special method of baking. Slo-baking, it is called. A method that seals in the dietetic value of ingredients and improves their flavor.

So please try it at once. Simply to prove what it offers you and yours.

But remember! Insist on Wonder Bread always.

Velveeta represents a new idea in cheese making

We extract from the pure whole milk more Vitamins, Lactose (milk sugar), Calcium and other milk minerals in greater quantities than ever was possible by old methods, and these we add in making Velveeta. The result is purely a milk product that looks like cheese, tastes like cheese but which because of its enhanced food value should be called a super-cheese.

Use Velveeta wherever you would use any cheese. It spreads like butter or will slice when chilled. It melts, dissolves and blends so readily with other foods that for cooking purposes there is no comparison. It is as digestible as milk itself. Try a package of Velveeta—it will become a staple on your table. Your dealer has it.

Make this amazing test!

Put a teaspoonful of Super Suds in a glass; a teaspoonful of any chip or flake in another. Now fill both glasses half full with water of dishwashing temperature.

Instantly, every bit of Super Suds rushes into suds all through the water, not just on top. Instantly every drop of water in the glass becomes creamy with soapiness. While in the other glass, gummy chips float on top or sink to the bottom, dissolving very slowly.

This is the way these two soaps act in your dishpan. This is why Super Suds gets to work faster . . . cleans with such amazing swiftness.

This test taught thousands
a new way to do Dishes

Super Suds saves one-half to one-third dishwashing time. Becomes America's greatest dishwashing soap in less than a year.

MAKE this test and say goodbye forever to old slow dishwashing methods.

See, through glass, exactly how soap acts below the water in your dishpan. In one glass, you will see the old familiar sight of gummy, half-dissolved chips. In the other glass, you'll see Super Suds dissolve instantly into abundant suds, clear down to the bottom of the glass.

This instant and complete dissolving speeds dishwashing in three important ways.

No waiting for suds. Whether the water is hot or cool—hard or soft—without waiting . . . without stirring . . . Super Suds gives instant suds.

Faster dishwashing with underwater suds. It's lack of suds below the water that makes dish water greasy and slow acting. Dishes come clean like magic with Super Suds, because there's suds all through the water, right from the start.

No dishwiping. Super Suds dissolves so completely, every trace of it disappears in one hot rinse. There's no soap film to spot or streak. Dishes drain dry to clear, shining brightness without wiping.

Melted soap sprayed from towers

Super Suds can actually work four times faster than any other soap because it's four times thinner. It's not chips. Not powder. It's beads. Made by spraying melted soap from high, steel towers. As the soap falls, it forms into millions of fine, hollow beads . . . so instant-dissolving—so swift in cleansing power—that in less than a year Super Suds has won one-third of America away from chips and flakes.

Buy Super Suds today. Make the test pictured above. Then try Super Suds for dishwashing. For laundrying. Wherever you want safe, speedy cleaning.

Empty one can of Lewis' Lye into a stone jar or iron vessel (Never use aluminum ware) with 2½ pints of cold water and stir until lye is dissolved, then cool to 70 degrees F. Next melt 6 pounds of grease, lard or drippings (clean and free from salt) and bring temperature to 100 degrees F. Add the lye solution to the grease in a small steady stream with slow, even stirring. Rapid addition of lye or hard stirring is liable to cause a separation. Continue stirring for about ten minutes or until the product is of a rather thick, syrupy consistency. Then pour it into a mould. (A wooden tray lined with oiled paper or cheesecloth makes a suitable mould). Cover the mould with a blanket or carpet and set in a warm room. After about 24 hours the soap can be removed from mould and cut into bars with a string, fine wire or knife. Pile so that dry air can get to the bars for at least a week. Aging improves soap.

MAYONNAISE VARIED IN SEVERAL WAYS

A Bottle of Commercial Dressing Is Capable of Many Variations.

The possibilities that lie within a bottle of commercial mayonnaise are unknown to many housewives.

Most persons hold that a bottle of mayonnaise is a bottle of mayonnaise and let it go at that when, as a matter of fact, the bottle without the use of slight-of-hand tricks, contains Russian dressing, whip cream mayonnaise and several other varieties of dressings which may readily be made from the contents of a single bottle of commercial dressing.

These several recipes will demonstrate exactly how this culinary feat is accomplished.

Use a second-sized bottle of mayonnaise.

Celery dressing—To foundation mayonnaise dressing, add one-quarter cup finely chopped celery and two tablespoons chopped green pepper.

Club dressing—To foundation add two tablespoons chopped currants, two tablespoons chopped raisins and one tablespoon chopped nuts.

Different dressing—To foundation add one chopped hard cooked egg, one tablespoon chopped pimiento and two tablespoons India Relish.

Fruit salad dressing—To foundation add one-half cup whipped cream. Fold in lightly.

Indian dressing—To foundation recipe add one-quarter cup chow-chow pickle, chopped.

Russian dressing—To foundation recipe add one-half cup chili sauce.

Snappy dressing—To foundation add four tablespoons tomato, one tablespoon Worcestershire sauce and two drops Tabasco sauce.

Thousand Island dressing — To foundation recipe add one-quarter cup chili sauce, two tablespoons chopped green pepper and two tablespoons stuffed olives, chopped.

Tartar dressing—To foundation add three tablespoons chopped gherkins, one tablespoon capers, one tablespoon chopped parsley and two tablespoons stuffed olives, chopped. If preferred, sweet mixed pickles may be used instead of the sour gherkins.

IT IS TRULY AN ECONOMY TO PURCHASE A WHOLE HAM

It Will Afford a Variety of Dishes for Routine Family Meals.

You can serve it broiled, boiled, fried or baked. Divide the ham into three sections, as indicated in the accompanying illustration. You can boil the shank with vegetables such as cabbage, kraut or spinach.

Slice the center portion for frying or broiling. You will find they make tempting ham steaks, unusually good-looking and especially tasteful; a welcome change now and then for all the family.

You can bake the end for a pleasing main course, or serve it in any of the many other appetizing ways.

Any portion is easily and quickly fried. Left-over cooked portions may be creamed, or served cold decorated with a dainty garnish. It makes the most delicious sandwiches. Each style of service has its own peculiar charm that assures the saving grace of variety.

REFRIGERATORS ARE FAMILY NECESSITIES

For All Perishable Foods Must Be Preserved From Decaying Bacteria.

No matter how careful we are, foods which come in contact with air or water acquire some bacteria, yeasts and molds.

Therefore, we must not only be as cleanly as possible, but we must prevent the organisms from multiplying rapidly. Heat will kill them. Some die at temperatures as low as 140 degrees F. Others must be heated to temperatures above 212 degrees F. to be killed.

Even so, if the cooked foods are moist, and most of them are, barteria again get into them from the air or from dust. Hence, the need of keeping them in a refrigerator.

It is only by the use of refrigeration that perishable foods may be preserved and at the same time retain their original freshness and flavor.

It is this fact that enables us to enjoy fresh fruits, vegetables and meats, produced thousands of miles from the consumer.

A knowledge of the handling of perishables combined with refrigeration makes the factor of time relatively unimportant.

The freshness of foods depends more upon the environment in which they are kept, than upon the length of keeping time, and this is as true after the food reaches the home as during the period of marketing.

A FEW POINTS TO REMEMBER WHEN PREPARING SALADS

These Rules Apply to Both Simple and Sophisticated Dishes.

In the serving of perfect salads several points should be taken into consideration:

All ingredients should be cold.

The salad greens must be dry and crisp.

All meats, vegetables or other ingredients should be cut in shapely pieces, not put through the food chopper, nor minced, unless so specified.

Unless the salad is to be dressed at the table the various ingredients should be allowed to marinate, that is, stand in a certain amount of designated French dressing for from 10 to 20 minutes, so that the flavorings and oil may be absorbed.

All salads should be served with a garnish of some kind of fresh green. This may be lettuce or one of the many salad plants.

Care should be taken to select the right dressing for the salad.

A Thought for the Day.

Are you suffering from an attack of spring fever: The changes that have come about in the average diet make this less a general complaint than it used to be, but there are still many people who feel a decided lassitude and lack of energy when the spring season comes. This is often due to an acid condition which in turn comes from eating heav protein and acid producing foods during the winter months. The best cure for it is a wide use of vegetables and green salads, together with fruit juices and milk.

Tasty Salmon Dish.

Lightly fork together three cups salmon, two cups mashed potatoes, six tablespoons milk and six tablespoons melted butter. Season with celery, salt and pepper to taste. Pile lightly in individual glass baking dishes, which have been buttered. Sprinkle one-half cup cheese over the tops, then sprinkle buttered crumbs over that. Brown in a moderate oven, 375 degrees, for about fifteen minutes.

A Timely Hint.

If containers that are as tall as will fit well on the shelves are used, the space in the refrigerator will be utilized to much better advantage.

LOSS OF APPETITE OFTENTIMES OCCURS

Sometimes It Means the System Needs Rest From Too Much Eating.

We all suffer days when the very thought of food seems, as we say, to go against us—nothing offers the slightest temptation to the appetite and we long with a great longing for "something different" in the way of food.

There are a number of reasons for loss of appetite—sometimes worry causes it, sometimes it is because we have been eating the wrong kind of food.

Perhaps we have become over tired, or nervously excited. It may be due to improper elimination and the presence in the system of poisons—these are a few of the simpler causes.

Generally such a condition is nature's way of suggesting that it would be wise to go easy on food for a few days—to give ourselves and our digestive apparatus a rest.

If you don't feel like eating, don't worry about it, but go without food for a day or two, drinking plenty of water and fruit juices, especially the citrus fruits.

Usually a day or two of this will bring back the appetite and give you a new zest for life again.

Follow these days of comparative fasting by a day or two of eating rather sparingly, and chiefly vegetables, fruits and cereals. Stay out of doors as much as you can, exercise as freely as possible, and be sure to keep the intestinal tract clean.

Sometimes it is necessary to force oneself to eat, especially if there is likelihood that this lack of desire for food is something in the nature of a habit. When this is the case it is best to eat small quantities of food at frequent intervals, and to keep the food simple in character.

Very often all that is needed to restore a lost appetite is a change from the rather daily monotony of food selection that is sometimes unconsciously adopted.

Changes of flavoring, combinations, methods of cooking, of ways of serving, changes of environment, and even companions all help at such times to renew one's interest in food.

SUCCESSFUL MODERN COOKS CAREFUL ABOUT MEASURING

Old Hit-or-Miss And Guesswork Methods of Cooking Discarded.

The necessity of using accurate measurements cannot be too strongly emphasized.

A teaspoon of sugar, baking powder or any other dry ingredient is leveled by bringing the dull edge of a knife across a heaped teaspoon from the handle to the tip.

For a half-teaspoon, the teaspoon is first leveled and then divided lengthwise; for quarter teaspoon the cross division comes just above the center. Flour should be sifted before measuring and all cups should be leveled.

Accuracy in time and temperature in baking is also essential to good results in cooking. An oven thermometer helps greatly in securing the correct oven temperature. And it is of the utmost importance that the full amount of time called for in baking should be allowed.

MISCELLANEOUS RECIPES

Stuffed Baked Haddock.

Place parchment paper in which fillets are wrapped, in bottom of pan, lay one fillet skin side down on paper, and cover with dressing made of crumbs, pepper, fat melted, parsley chopped fine, and milk. Place other fillet skin side up on top of dressing and bake in hot oven from thirty-five to forty minutes, basting often. Serve hot with drawn butter sauce.

Open-Faced Bacon Sandwich.

Butter two large, thin slices of white bread and place open on a luncheon plate. On one slice place well-washed tender leaves of lettuce and put in the center thereof one tablespoon of well-seasoned mayonnaise. Cover the other slice with six nicely browned slices of bacon and serve the sandwich open, immediately.

Cream of Onion Soup.

Soften in a saucepan four tablespoons butter, blended with four tablespoons of flour mixed with one teaspoon salt and one-fourth teaspoon pepper. Add one quart hot milk and stir until whole boils. Then add one pint steamed and chopped onions, together with the water or juice of onions while they steamed. Serve very hot.

A Hasty Dessert.

A hasty dessert may be fashioned with two cups dried bread crumbs, one cup confectioner's sugar, one-half pint whipping cream and six ounces of bitter chocolate.

Melt chocolate in double boiler; add sugar and bread crumbs. Serve in sherbet glasses with whipped cream.

Orangeade.

To two quarts of water add the rind of one lemon and one orange and boil gently for five minutes. Remove the rind and add one cup loaf sugar and stir until dissolved. Cool the syrup and add the juice of six oranges and two lemons and a pinch of salt. Serve in tall glasses with cracked ice.

Hot Hors d'Oeuvre.

Take six large stuffed green olives, roll a thin slice of raw bacon around and fasten with toothpick, and fry to a nice brown in deep hot lard. Serve hot on a lettuce leaf.

Use Lemon Extract.

A little lemon extract will aid materially in making any icing firm but not brittle.

Overcome Dislike of Milk.

If you do not like to drink plain milk, try flavoring it with fruit juices, with vanilla or some of the other extracts. By disguising the flavor of the milk, or by increasing its rather bland flavor, many people have found that they can overcome their dislike of milk and can drink greater amounts of it. Children especially can often be tempted to drink milk when it is so prepared.

Tomato and Eggplant.

Slice and pare eggplant; boil in salted water for 10 minutes. Drain, brush with melted butter, sprinkle with salt and pepper and broil until browned on each side. Choose firm, red tomatoes, cut in thick slices, brush with melted butter, sprinkle with salt and pepper and broil on each side until slightly browned. Place a slice of the broiled tomato on a slice of broiled eggplant and serve very hot.

How to Care for Berries.

Do not wash the berries until ready to use them. Put them in a well ventilated container such as a wire sieve with the handle removed or in the original wooden box if clean and dry. But remember not to crowd the berries, for they will resist mold longer if the air can circulate freely around them.

How to Measure Eggs.

Eggs vary in size. One large egg may easily be the equivalent of two small ones. Therefore the cupful is a more accurate measure when a number of eggs are used.

FOR A SILVER BIRTHDAY

IT would be quite appropriate to celebrate the twenty-fifth birthday as a silver birthday.

The decorative scheme should be in silver, and in some months it might be effective to introduce the birthstone. For instance, wire shade frames can be silvered, then carefully overhung with the silver fringe used to decorate Christmas trees and known as silver icicles. To introduce the birthstone strands of beads can be hung between the silver "fringe." The amethyst, pearl, diamond, pink ruby, sapphire, turquoise, etc., all will blend nicely with the silver.

For the large dome decoration branches of silver foliage can be arranged to cover the dome or merely outline the upper and lower edges.

A silvered basket filled with bright silver foliage and set into a surrounding fluffy maline frill in the birthstone color, if it is a delicate, harmonizing tone, will make an attractive table centerpiece.

However, it is a birthday party, so the birthday cake must grace the center of the table, and this should be of silver. Make a two or three tiered cover of cardboard, and on each tier paste or sew a border of braided twine, drawn taut. Apply silver paint to cover the entire "cake." When dry, decorate with silver leaves and stud the rope border with tiny silver candles and, if desired, candles in the birthstone color. The candles might be in the color of the birth stone or just have a medium-sized single candle on the top tier of the cake. The real cake should be frosted and decorated as usual, and when ready to cut the camouflage "cake" should just be lifted off.

A high silver vase containing one or two sprays of silver foliage placed on each side of the cake will make a striking table center decoration. Miniature vases can be covered with silver paint and a small boutonniere of silver flowers placed in each. These can constitute the favors and may be at each plate or artistically arranged in groups to enhance the table decorations.

Silver foliage may be purchased in sprays of all sizes. The long-stemmed, bright silver leaves are especially effective as striking decorations and would look well against a colored background of tulle. The January garnet as well as the February amethyst colors would make an exceedingly pretty overhead table decoration if draped from the chandelier to the end of the table and a few silver leaves placed in the folds of the tulle. If preferred, silver foliage could be constructed with the bright silver paper.

Twenty-five bright silver coins (quarters would be especially appropriate) would make a suitable gift for the silver birthday.

Vanilla Develops Flavors.

Vanilla is used successfully in developing all flavors, even those from fresh fruit. Remember though—not enough to taste, just enough to blend.

Add Chives to Sandwich.

Chopped chives with a sandwich of sliced cucumber o[illegible] minced meat fillings are excellent.

Meditations OF A Married Woman

By Helen Rowland

BACHELOR FLATS

I have just discovered why every man needs wife, and why most men DO marry, sooner or later. Usually, sooner than they want to and later than they ought to.

* * *

It is the BACHELOR FLAT, which first keeps a man out of matrimony—and then drives him into it.

* * *

Once upon a time, when poor, stray bachelors lived in gloomy boarding houses, and rich ones lived at their clubs, there was no question about it. A man HAD to marry in order to get a home and a housekeeper—a place where he could set up his household gods.

But, with the advent of the bachelor apartment—Eureka!—he saw a way out of tying himself to any one woman for life. And particularly out of untying himself from all of the others!

Yet, alas, like homeopathy, the bachelor apartment has a primary and secondary effect. It appeals to a man because it offers him all the comforts of home, and none of its restrictions. It is a place where he can entertain all the people he likes, whenever he likes and as long as he likes without interference.

* * *

Grand and glorious! Nobody to make him climb into a dinner coat, to sniff his breath, to ask him how the china got broken, or to stop his convival friends from singing "Sweet Adeline" at 2 a. m.

* * *

Nobody to tell him to put out the lights and go to bed, to ask him who dropped the pearl earring on the divan, to weep when the bath tub runs over or lie awake keeping tabs on him.

And yet—shush!—it frightens him when he discovers that it leaves him at the mercy of ALL women!

Oh, yes, he can invite all the people he wants to invite—but he can't keep them AWAY. He can fill the place with charming guests—but he can't make them go HOME!

He can drag in his cronies for a game of poker whenever he chooses—but he can't get them OUT until they please to go.

A man with an attractive bachelor apartment leads the life of a goldfish, and gets about as much sleep as a Pullman porter.

Stray men dropping in at all hours of the night to be amused or fed or put up. Women calling him up on the telephone all day, and dropping in for tea all afternoon. Revelers on their way home from parties, with nowhere else to go, and nothing to do till tomorrow, waking him at dawn!

NOBODY TO PROTECT HIM! Nobody to shoo them away or scare them off! Nobody to save him from the playboys and playgirls! Nobody to see that he gets his sleep, eats his meals and does his work!

* * *

THAT'S what a man needs a wife for! To protect him from himself, and from all the OTHER women in the world! And above all, to protect him from the temptations and torments of the BACHELOR FLAT!

HELPING THE SCHOOL CHILD

By Emilie Hoffman

THE FINAL EXAMINATIONS

SCHOOL children are now on the last lap of the school year and their thoughts are centering upon those final exams, in the offing, which determine their promotion. Tests will be eagerly met, as these are indicators which show what the chances are.

This is the time when home co-operation may mean much to your child. A year lost in school is a serious matter, looking at it from the earning capacity, so parents should willingly give their aid to avoid such an unfortunate occurrence.

Even the most dilatory pupil will brace up and make a last desperate effort when he realizes how few weeks there are left to prepare for the finals, and home encouragement at this time will help so much.

If you have been indifferent to your child's school progress thus far, make a change now. Take a vital interest in the school. From the teacher ascertain the child's class standing. If this is unsatisfactory, give your help as the teacher may suggest. It may only be necessary to have all home work done under your supervision. If you have neglected this part of your child's education, that may be one reason why his promotion now stands in the balance.

By all means give him all the chance you can during these remaining few weeks. Insist upon home work being done perfectly. If the teacher advises home help in certain studies, give your child this help, even if you must do it at a sacrifice of your own activities or pleasures. Think what it will mean to your boy or girl to be set back a year or half a year. The advantage your interest or help will be to your child is well worth any sacrifice you may make, so co-operate freely and willingly with the school during the next two months.

It is not only in actual lesson helps that you can further the promotion chances of the school child. His lessons should receive first consideration in the home, and parents should see to it that he can do his home work undisturbed. Let nothing interfere with his home work. Do not excuse him because guests are present. Movies and other outside activities should be relegated to Friday and Saturday evenings.

Do not add to your child's fears by nagging about rates or continually expressing anxiety about his promotion. This will only tend to make him nervous, and what you do will be a handicap instead of a help.

Ample sleep and correct food are especially essential to the school child, and this help every mother should give.

In short, give your child every advantage and all encouragement during the remainder of the term, to enable him to exert his best efforts in school work—individual teaching often works wonders.

TALES THAT TABLES TELL

By Alma Zaiss

MORE and more, as the season advances, the formalities of winter and early spring tables fade into the background of the home picture. And in their place we delight in arrangements as summery and colorful as the gardens out of doors.

Then do we welcome short, lightweight cloths and smaller napkins; cool and fragile looking glassware as a change from more substantial appointments that have gone before. And, sooner or later—this season—we fall victims to the smart new tinted linens with hand appliqued designs in white or pastel shades.

Remembering that we are canny folk, these sets have been most cleverly proportioned to do service for the small family table at tea time, for breakfast luncheon or informal dinner on the porch—as well as for bridge luncheons at all seasons of the year.

One delightful setting we have illustrated just to tempt you. The cloth and napkins are of pale yellow linen with a jagged applique design in white. Instead of using china, we have service plates, bouillon cups and tumblers of tinted glass—not in the usual shade of amber, but a twinkling topaz shade that blends subtly into the yellow of the cloth. Much of the table's interest is centered about the arrangement of spring flowers which include Darwin tulips in shades of red, and wild sweet peas in bluish lavender grouped in a bowl of pewter with curiously wrought handles.

The setting, made especially for our story, is a mere introduction to the growing family of appliqued linens, but tells its decorative story in emphatic terms for those who seek the new. The imagination is free to wander through the full range of pastel colors and original designs suited to practically all decorative schemes.

Fully as interesting as the appliqued linens are those in the new linen damask group combining two-tone effects which are perhaps the high notes of the season's showing. The satin sheen of the damask is still with us but now, instead of having only self-toned designs, we have white with modernistic or conventional motifs etched out in pale green, or the same idea carried out in a dozen different ways in tinted damask.

There is much to be said for the informal table. With colorful linen, glassware, china, one may suit the mood of the meal to the day without half trying. It invites relaxation; strikes a cheerful note for the entire family, and its simplicity makes it an economical table.

But, of course, informality cannot be imposed upon. There is always the strict command to be beautiful enough, distinctive enough to justify the lapse from more dignified service.

ANNULMENT OF MARRIAGE

By Dorothy Frooks

A YOUNG man, 19 years of age, maried a young woman of 25. They had a child. At the time they were married, he was a minor. He lied about his age, making himself older so as to bring himself within the legal age.

The reason for his misrepresentation, as he explained, was to plead his case with more seriousness to the girl he loved. He felt that if she knew his right age, she would not have encouraged his attentions. Minors may marry within the law, if their parents consent to the marriage. Some states do allow a union at the age of 18. In New York State, as well as in many others, an annulment of a marriage can be had where one of the parties was not of nature age as required by law at the time of the marriage.

Annulments may be had on many grounds. Unless the statute clearly requires the contrary, the marriage before the age of consent is reached is valid till voided. Living together as man and wife after reaching the age of consent will constitute a ratification of the marriage and deprive each of the power to void it. Since marriage is a contract, an infant cannot before his majority affirm a contract. Any false misrepresentation by the infant as to his age does not estop him from annulling. The marriage is neither void nor voidable, but inchoate and imperfect until either ratified or disaffirmed.

One may have a marriage annulled where proof can be given that either party has a spouse living. This is a bigamous marriage. Such marriages are not permitted in any state of the Union. At one time it was tolerated in the State of Utah, but for many years none has been performed nor permitted.

Some states would grant an annulment on the grounds of misrepresentation. In fact, punishment for marriage of different races is quite severe. While social position, religion, etc., are no bar to marriage in the United States, yet by statute in some states marriages between black and white, white and Indian and white and Chinese are forbidden.

Mental incapacity generally renders the marriage void and it may be impeached directly or collaterally, but by statute many States require a sentence of nullity and treat the marriage as voidable only.

Drunkenness, if at the time of the union one was in a state of delirium tremens or unable to understand, the law regards as a condition of temporary insanity. Such a marriage may be annulled.

Every case of incapacity to contract to marry stands on its own merits and a court must decide.

Defective Speech in Children

(U. S. PUBLIC HEALTH SERVICE.)

SPEECH is the most valuable of all our accomplishments; yet speech disorders, particularly in children, have until recently been the most neglected of all hampering defects observed among them. It is estimated that in the United States at least 1,000,000 persons have some form of speech disorder, and of these, approximately 500,000 are school children who stammer or stutter.

It is difficult to be successful without speech. Most of the knowledge gained by the child through the special senses is acquired in conjunction with the hearing of words representing the knowledge acquired, and the development of the mental faculties through exercise in expressing his own thoughts. Uncorrected speech defects observed in childhood thus become a serious economic and social handicap in later life, because of their bearing on educational achievement and the ability to secure preferential and gainful employment.

Speech is controlled by certain centers located in the brain. In normal individuals it is produced by the harmonious action of the respiratory apparatus, which forces air through the larynx, the laryngeal apparatus, consisting of the vocal cords, which vibrate in currents of air producing vowel sounds, the articulative apparatus, consisting of the muscles of the mouth and tongue, and two sounding boxes, the oral and nasal cavities which produce the consonants by varying the degree of obstruction of the blast of air. Any interruption or interference with the harmonious co-ordinated action of these associated organs results in defective speech. Fortunately, the majority of speech defects are functional in character, not dependent on definite organic lesions, and can, therefore, be corrected. (The majority of speech defects develop between the third and eighth year of life.)

The development of speech by the child is gradual. The baby first makes his wants known by crying, a normal way of expressing discomfort, hunger, pain. When about three or four months of age, he begins to babble, automatically exercising the speech organs, including the speech center in the brain. At about seven months the baby begins to associate objects with words he may hear, and at about one year he often begins to use words of his own with definite meaning and purpose. At about 18 months he will be reproducing little words appropriately, and usually by the end of the second year he uses short sentences. Slow or imperfect speech development calls for prompt attention.

The more common forms of speech defect observed in children are:

1. Retarded speech.
2. Imperfect speech associated with partial deafness.
3. Imperfect speech caused by certain malformations of the organs of speech.
4. The nervous speech disorders, such as stammering, stuttering and nervous hesitation.

The normal child learns to talk largely through imitation; and when this instinct is lacking, speech development is retarded and there exists a form of speech defect called by specialists "dumbness without deafness," which requires very careful attention and training. Other causes of retarded speech development are inattention and, occasionally, strange as it may seem, the fact that there is very little conversation in the home.

The popular belief that children who do not learn to talk at the normal age are mentally defective is responsible for much unwarranted anxiety. While it is true that disordered speech may be an early symptom of mental defect, speech development may be delayed as late as nine years of age in children otherwise perfectly normal.

Partial deafness may also be the cause of speech defect. Most deaf mutes have perfectly normal speech organs, but do not exercise them because of their inability to hear spoken words. With them the underlying cause of their inability to talk is deafness. Since imitation is such a pronounced factor in the development of speech in children, careful tests should be made of all speech defectives for the discovery of partial deafness which may easily account for the imperfect speech. Such children should always be referred to an ear specialist for treatment; and if treatment is ineffective, lip reading should be taught.

Imperfect speech may also be caused by malformation of the speech-producing organs, such as harelip, very short upper lip, narrow palate, cleft palate, nasal obstruction, tongue-tie, very irregular teeth. A very careful search should be made for the presence of malformations in order that prompt corrective treatment and speech education may be carried out. Of interest in this connection is the opinion of a number of specialists that in cleft palate cases better speech is obtained in those who have not been operated upon than in those who have, when supplied with proper corrective dental contrivance, because the muscles in such cases are free to adjust themselves, eventually resulting in more nearly normal speech.

The most usual form of speech disorder is "stammering" or "stuttering." From the standpoint of development these are two distinct types, one which commences with the development of speech and the other that begins after the child has learned to speak normally. The first form is the most difficult to correct.

The underlying cause of stammering is purely mental. It is essentially due to emotional disturbance, and implies lessened ability to meet a difficult situation. It is most frequently observed in the so-called nervous, highly strung children. As these children grow older they subconsciously fear that their speech organs will refuse to work and have the horror of being the object of ridicule. A sense of inferiority develops, establishing a vicious circle—the greater the dread, the more imperfect their speech.

According to some observers, stammering is more or less common among left-handed children when they are taught to become right-handed writers. This opinion is largely responsible for the objection to educators attempting to train left-handed children to become right-handed. It is also believed to be more common among boys than girls.

Parents should not be deluded by any expectation that the "child will outgrow the defect." Only the very mild cases developed through imitation may be said to be outgrown when the increasing mental development of the child enables him to recognize and correct his mistake. On the other hand, the nervous speech disorders when well developed, are more difficult to correct because they are curable only by special forms of re-education. Of late years because of the growing demand for the treatment of nervous speech defects such as stammering and stuttering, a number of speech clinics have been established through the country, particularly by boards of education in the larger cities, for the correction of speech defects. The wise parents will take advantage of these clinics or will otherwise give attention to the speech disorders of their children in order to remove the handicap in life which these disorders impose.

THE CARE OF THE BABY

By Claire Morton

THE MOTHER NEEDS KNOWLEDGE

THE perfect baby, when all is said and done, is a baby whom everyone, including the parents, loves to have around.

Any child is perfect to his parents most of the time. The test of a perfect baby is whether he is healthy, looks sweet, smells clean and behaves so nicely that even the nearest neighbors can remark: "What a perfect child he is!"

Many any woman who has given her child the heritage of good health can have a perfect baby if she goes into the business of motherhood with the same forethought, intelligence and willingness to work that a good stenographer gives to her job, or a creative artist to hers.

As Nature has arranged things, a woman is given nine months in which to prepare herself for the job of motherhood—and how often is this time wasted! During that time she should study her prospective duties with the same enthusiasm that would characterize her preparation for a job if she had been told that nine months hence she would have an opportunity to obtain this or that position.

She should throw overboard all the sentimental bosh about instinct and "it will come to you." Too many babies have been brought into the world by mothers who thought knowledge as to child care would "come to them" at the appropriate time—and the children have suffered as they sought wildly for advice from this person and that one and experimented with all their ideas.

The United States Department of Labor, Children's Bureau, Washington, D. C., will provide up-to-date bulletins for both prenatal and infant care, free of charge, to any mother who is anxious to know exactly what to do, who is willing to prepare herself for the important job of motherhood.

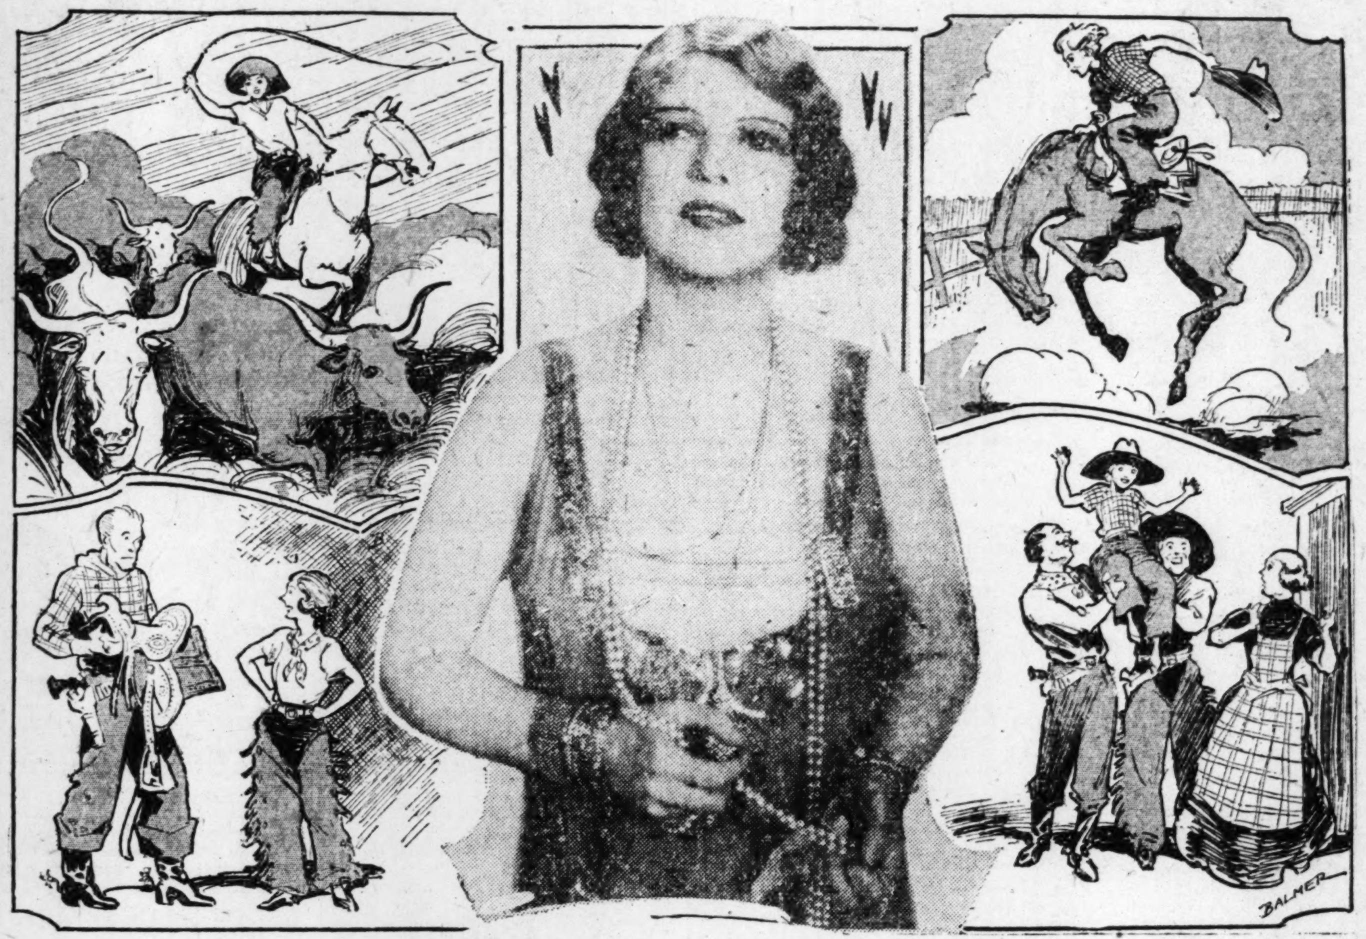
After studying these books thoroughly, absolutely refuse to use any advice offered to you by any one, even your best friend or your mother, though they threaten your child with all sorts of terrible consequences. Methods of child upbringing have changed with the years. Children don't die as often as they used to. If there is any question at all in these bulletins which one of these bulletins cannot answer, consult your doctor.

There is one more point, which applies to all that has been said in these articles. A happy, confident mother has a happy, smiling baby. He looks into her eyes and sees all the world as rosy. A cross, distracted, frightened mother who doesn't know what to do will find her qualms reflected in the anxious eyes of her baby. Such a baby grows up afraid of the world. He will rarely smile.

And so one might say that a perfect baby has a perfect mother, or at least one who is willing to give him the love and time and thought and energy both before and after he is born that will insure his happiness and health and good habits. Thus she can prepare him adequately to begin the complexity of existence which will become his life.

TEX GUINAN AND HOW SHE GOT THAT WAY

She Begins Her Show Career as a Bareback Rider



By TEXAS GUINAN

(Copyright, 1929.)

"WHOOP-EEEE! The 101 Ranch Show's in Town!"

The cowboys brought the news to the ranch house on a day in early summer. Do you remember, when you were a kid, what a thrill it was when the circus arrived? That's the way I felt, too. I was 16 then.

Hank Miller and his 101 Ranch Wild West Show were famous all through the West. His cowboys were all crack riders, picked up at this ranch or that one when work was slack. Everybody turned out to see the show in every town it played.

I rode into Waco with Dad and the cowhands, expecting nothing more than to see some fancy riding, which was just a quiet day's fun for me.

I couldn't know then that the day was to be a turning point in my life, bringing an event that was to take me away from home and the family for the first time.

Some of our boys gathered outside the big tent and began stunting with their broncos, while I looked on with Dad and a few other men. At first I was satisfied to watch, but after a few minutes, I fairly itched to do some riding myself. And when I itched, I usually started scratching.

I turned to a big man beside me and said:

"I'm going to show these smart cowboys a few of my own tricks."

"Go to it," he urged, laughing. "Knock on 'em." That was a favorite phrase of cowboys.

I sprang on Pedro's back and whirled into the middle of that knot of cow hands. For an hour I followed up every stunt they did. Just like a game of stump the leader. Then I did a little leading myself, putting Pedro through all his paces. The boys were delighted. The big man was so surprised you could have knocked him off his pins with a feather. When I quit he strode over to me.

"Little girl," he said, "you're one of the greatest bareback riders I ever saw. I'm Hank Miller. I own this circus and you can have a job with me any time you say the word."

"You've hired a hand," I said. "When do I start?"

"This afternoon," he told me, and we shook hands.

The boys sure were plenty burned up when I went on in the show and did a bareback riding act and a few roping tricks. Dad was amazed. He started to bawl me out after the show, but I talked him out of that. After all, riding a horse was just part of life to us. Not at all like going on the stage. So Pa threw up his hands and told me I could have my own way. Back at the ranch, I said good-bye to Mother and Dad and the boys. It was tough to leave them, but I wanted excitement. Next day, I was 200 miles away from home.

It was a great life, but a hard one. There was no hotel life and service for circus people. We slept on the ground, rolled up in blankets, and the fellow who didn't tuck his top blanket under him was out of luck. It was a 10 to 1 shot it would be missing in the morning. Everybody ate in the chuck wagon, going in for grub in three shifts. That chuck wagon was no place for the guy who wanted clean dishes and silver.

The racket certainly didn't breed refinement, but I loved it. I never had a chance to see the country, until Hank Miller gave me a job. Besides, I loved to be where there were crowds of people. The circus crowds, most of them in little jerk towns, fascinated me. The big tent, the smell of the animals, the buzz and roar of the fakirs and the suckers on the midway, all these were like the breath of life to me.

From Texas all the way up to Montana and Wyoming we toured, and from California to Kansas. After a few weeks of my riding, roping, singing and shooting clay pigeons for the benefit of the customers, I felt like a veteran trouper.

Hank Miller had given me my first real taste of show business and it had gotten into my blood. This seems like a good spot to say that the circus first taught me that the public likes to be gypped. The racketeers, the shell-game artists who followed the show taught me that the average citizen is a sucker, and showed me why Barnum said:

"There's one born every minute."

It was many years before I found out that the birth rate is double in New York.

All that summer Hank Miller watched over me like a father. He was even stricter than dad and took it upon himself to tell me where I could go and who might go with me. I was licked when it came to an argument with him, because he could always fire me and send me back to the ranch.

That's just what he did at the end of the summer. He said I'd have to go back to school if dad wanted me to, so back to Texas I went from some little town in Kansas.

What a swell reception I got when I arrived home. I've seen some gloomy times on Broadway in the last few years, but no gloom like that at the ranch house the day I blew in. After hugging and kissing everyone in the family, I found out what the funeral was about.

Dad had been speculating in the cotton market. He had gone out of his line to play with something he didn't know anything about, and they made a sucker out of him. He was practically broke and had been forced to sell the ranch. The family right then was getting ready to move to Denver. They were all cut up about it and I couldn't kid them out of the dumps.

Dad's case was just like plenty I've seen in New York. A guy makes plenty of money in the bootlegging racket, but he isn't satisfied. He takes a whirl at Wall street and goes home talking to himself. A Wall street broker makes a couple of millions, and he tries his luck at bootlegging. He's a sucker, too, when he winds up.

The point is, stick to your knitting, play in your own back yard and let other people's rackets alone.

Denver looked great to me, just because it was a city. Dad got a job as boss of the public warehouses and we never had to worry about where the sausage and beans were coming from. Willie had a job, too, and that helped a lot. I went back to school.

That's where I first met Paul Whiteman, the big fiddle and baton man, whose orchestra is still knocking Broadway for a loop. Paul and I were the champion marble shooters of the town. He could beat all the boys and I could beat all the girls and plenty of the boys. You'd never know Paul in those days. He was still a lightweight man.

Dad began to make more money, and at the end of the school year, the family was sitting pretty. So I wrote to Hank Miller and asked him if he could use a bareback rider. His letter was short, like Hank's speech. It read:

"Can't get along without you. Join us in Boulder in two weeks."

So started another summer with the circus, but this time it seemed like work. Besides, Dad had insisted that I save the $25 a week that Hank was paying me, and use it to go away to a finishing school. With that on my mind, the circus life wasn't such a riot of fun. But I'll tell you about one kick I got out of that summer.

We had arrived in Fort Worth, Tex., early one morning and a street parade was billed as usual. The parade started down the main street, which was crowded on both sides. Suddenly there was a scream somewhere ahead of me, and the crowd started a stampede.

In the middle of the street a young girl had dropped a baby, right in the path of the circus steers and untamed pintos. Believe me, death was marching fast toward that kid.

I gave Pedro the spurs and dashed to the head of the parade, while women screamed because they thought my pony would trample the child. Twenty feet from the baby, I swung down over Pedro's side, and as we reached the little white bundle, I snatched it up with one hand just as a cowboy picks up a handkerchief while hanging from one stirrup. You've seen me do the trick, maybe. I used it later in the movies.

The crowd went wild. The men cheered. The women, some of them, anyway, went hysterical. And, to cap it all, we found out that the baby I had saved was the daughter of the Mayor. Believe me, we got the keys to the city that night, and the Mayor thanked me personally while a crowd cheered again.

Hank Miller himself gave me a $50 bill for that stunt, and there were tears in his eyes when he slapped me on the back, as he would a husky cowboy, and told me I was a "brave little girl."

Then he reminded me that it was time to get started for home and school. I hated to leave him, but it had to be done, so I pulled out for Denver with $300 in cash, more money than I had ever had at one time in my life. That was a lot of dough in those days, and I was a proud kid when I dug it out of my purse and laid it before Mother and Dad on the kitchen table of our house in Denver.

"That will give you a start in school," Pa said. "You've done well, Texas. I'll be able to help you a lot."

He did help me all he could, but how was he to know that illness would strike him at the time when I would need his help the most. I'll tell you about that later.

HOW TO TRAIN FOR YOUR TAN

DO you tan well? That will be the leading question this summer because the sun-tan vogue will reach its glory this year. If you burn and peel, but must be fashionable, here are some secrets from Hidegarde Fillmore, McCall's beauty editor, in the June issue:

"Years ago around late August or September women came in to beauty specialists to be bleached out after a summer of sunburn and tanning. Nowadays they don't wait till after the summer's over to worry, they come in before the hot days and start a campaign of preparedness.

"There is a special make-up for the girl and woman who do not tan becomingly by exposure to the sun, yet want to look bronzed and summery. First she smoothes on oil, then a lotion, then cream rouge and tan powder. When she has finished, she looks as if she had been sunning herself in Bermuda for about a month! Her skin—and others of an almost liquid Of course, it does away with the nuisance of bleaching the skin after a summer in the sunshine. It does something else, too; it protects the skin from actual burning.

"For the girl who never tans at all, but just burns an ugly red, there are protective creams aplenty, some of them quite stiff in texture—these seem to work specially well on the oily type of skin—and other of an almost liquid consistency, which appear to have a special affinity for the dry skin. Women who know skins and colorings tell me that some pink-and-white skins of this type don't take a tan make-up becomingly. Nature seems to have worked this all out in her mysterious way. A protective coating of cream and powder can screen out the rays of the sun, at least some of them. But it has to be applied evenly. If the skin is particularly sensitive and the sun very hot, don't be afraid to put a generous coating on. It may save you hours of torment afterwards, for sunburn, the extreme kind, steals upon you, unawares."

In Time of Need

If a hot-water bottle is needed and one is not at hand, a plain glass bottle will fill the bill. Warm the bottle first and then pour in the boiling water. Cork tightly and wrap in flannel or the warmest material on hand. This suggestion sometimes comes in handy when on a picnic and someone is taken ill suddenly.

A Washington detective sought a man possessed of an unusual watch. He found him by asking strangers the time of day.

INSTALLMENT XLVI.

"THERE is no sense in my beating about the bush, Overseer. So far as my legacy is concerned from a pecuniary point of view, it isn't worth fighting for. It isn't even worth that." He snapped his fingers. "But I know what you mean by estate, sir. It isn't to be reckoned in gold or lands or merchandise. What he really left to me, sir, is all this." Here he made a significant gesture with his hand. "But in order to accept this I must deprive myself of what? The whole world. The world is mine in the same sense that New Scrooby would be mine if I chose to stay here."

There was another brief period of silence.

"And when you are dead, Jasper," said Crownstone, gently, "will you be richer for having had the whole world, or will you be poorer for having had—well, nothing at all, as you must reckon New Scrooby by comparison?"

"In either case," said Jasper, lightly, "I shall be dead, so it won't matter."

"Our religion is as simple as our mode of life," said David Tupperly, didactically. "We ask only that which God in his merciful kindness chooses to bestow upon us. I wonder, Jasper, if it has ever occurred to you to think that God demands nothing of us? He has his laws. But he does not compel us to obey them. He does not make our religion. We make that for ourselves in accordance with our desires. Our business here is not religion, as you may have been led to suspect because we attend to it with—er—diligence."

"Well," began Jasper, "as the minister paused to let his observation sink in, "I've noticed one thing. In the three months I have been here, not once have I been importuned to mend my ways or to go to church or even to read the Bible. You certainly have been fair and considerate and patient and—and all that sort of thing," he concluded lamely.

The meal had come to an end before the preceding conversation began. The company sat about the long board very much as if they were in church. Jasper knew there would be no smoking of pipes on the Sabbath Day. (He had not touched a cigarette since his first day in New Scrooby!)

"God made man after his own image," said Godlove Crownstone. "He gave him a soul and a body and the thing we call a brain. He has left nothing undone. Would it not therefore be folly, even presumptuous for us, although we profess to be devout—to seek to make man after our image?"

"That's just what the missionaries are supposed to be doing, Overseer. They're trying to make Christians out of Mohammedans and Buddhists and all the rest of them simply because they happen to have taken it upon themselves to like the model."

"That is a bold, uncouth statement, Jasper," said the First High Overseer—and even then he smiled. Their graciousness always baffled Jasper. "Nevertheless," he went on, "I am constrained to agree with you. The business of tearing down one sacred establishment in order to merely erect another in its place, is not a noble one. We all worship God in one form or another. We cannot help it. There are hundreds of creeds, hundreds of religions, hundreds of beliefs. What right have we to say that ours is the only one worthy of God's approval? There is but one God. There are countless creeds. He will take care of those who worship Him, no matter how. He will not punish one man for being a Mohammedan and exalt another for being a Christian. It is inconceivable. No more will he consign an infidel or an atheist to everlasting damnation and at the same time grant paradise only to a believer. His Son our Lord Jesus Christ did not teach that, Jasper. We can hardly improve upon the teachings of Christ or upon his attitude toward all humanity."

"Did I understand you to say that God will not punish atheists and infidels and scoffers?" demanded Jasper.

"I did not mention scoffers," said Godlove. "God respects an honest, sincere atheist, but could you expect him to tolerate a scoffer? He would not. No more would you, Jasper, and you are merely mortal."

"It is considered rather smart and up to date to scoff at God and all his works in the world I came from, Overseer," said Jasper, dryly. "It is pretty generally conceded that God couldn't construct an ocean liner and there are skeptics who hold that he couldn't thread a needle."

"Even so, he created man, did he not?" put in Robert Carver, the doctor. "And man created needles."

"God created the ocean," said Lydia Standish.

"And all that there is in the sea or on the land or in the air," said Cynthia. "He made all the things that man cannot possibly create."

"He even created the baboons," said Prosper Standish, ironically which proved that the poet was not altogether out of touch with the world in which the rest of us abide.

"I have never seen a baboon or a monkey," said Martha Cable.

Her remark served to turn the conversation back into a religious channel.

"There is nothing intricate or inexplicable about our religion," said Godlove Crownstone. "Even a child can understand it. It is very simple. We teach faith, we profess hope and we practice charity. That is all there is to it, Jasper. Without God we would have none of these. We are not missionaries, neither are we converts. We do not proselyte. We do not ask you or any other man or woman to look at life or death or the hereafter through our eyes. Your three months are up on next Wednesday. I speak now for all of us. We like you. We offer you all that we have to give, Jasper. If you can find it in your heart to remain in New Scrooby and to become one of us, our arms are open to you."

Jasper felt something warm run through his whole being. A lump came into his throat. He looked up from his empty plate and found that every eye was on him now—even Cynthia's.

"That's—that's mighty fine of you," he stammered. "I am ashamed to say, Overseer, that up to this moment I entertained a—er—sneaking idea that you might turn me out for a very obvious reason."

The First High Overseer lifted his head. "An obvious but unworthy reason, Jasper," he said with grave dignity. "Let me remind you that we are men of honor."

"I have never doubted it, sir," said Jasper, humbly.

"You came here at our invitation. You are not the first. Many have come as you have come and many have been denied. Not because we coveted. On the contrary, they came simply because they coveted. Few—a very few—have stayed beyond a week or two. It was their privilege. They saw at once that we have nothing to offer and they but little to lose. So they went away. You have given us a fair trial, to put it baldly—and we have done as much by you. It rests with you, Jasper Blades, whether you are to accept or refuse your uncle's estate."

The young man was silent, his throat strangely tight. He was conscious of the effort to appear calm and matter-of-fact when he finally announced:

"I have till Wednesday to decide, I believe, Overseer."

Cynthia looked at him quickly. He distinctly heard her catch her breath. Prosper Standish, sitting opposite, leaned forward, his bright eyes glowing.

"Then you are not fully decided, Jasper?" he said before Crownstone could speak.

"Oh—practically," said the young man, hastily. "I just thought I'd—er—like to—er—do the square thing. You may change your minds by Wednesday." He laughed to hide his confusion.

"You have till Wednesday," said Crownstone.

Whereupon Jasper blurted out something that had not entered his mind until that instant:

"It occurred to me that I might ask you to give me another month or two in which to make up my mind—er—fully," he floundered. "Oh, Lord!" he said to himself. "What an ass I'm making of myself."

Cynthia got up suddenly and walked to the window. The others looked at her in surprise. Her back was to the room, but her voice was clear and steady.

"There is a little breeze coming in," she said, and that was all.

The Overseer regarded Jasper for a moment before speaking. Then he nodded his head slowly, almost benignly.

"Your hesitation is understandable, Jasper. Your whole life is at stake. We would not hurry you, we would not drive you. A month or more, if you like. It is not an unreasonable petition. I take upon myself the liberty of granting it. Am I right, David? What say you, Prosper? Robert?"

The three men merely nodded their heads. Jasper, his gaze going to Cynthia as if drawn by a force beyond his power to resist, was rendered momentarily speechless by her attitude. Her head was bent,—he could have sworn her unseen hands were beating impatiently upon the window sill. So that was the way she felt, eh? Angry because he even suggested staying on for— Well, that was enough for him!

"Thank you," he said, rather loudly. "I appreciate your generosity. I shall not leave on Wednesday, Overseer."

"Praise the Lord," said Godlove Crownstone.

Every one at the table smiled. Cynthia straightened up to her full height, hesitated a moment before turning, and then walked slowly back to the table, taking her seat beside Jasper. She was pale.

"Roger will be very happy when he hears of your decision," she said, without looking at him. "He has taken a great fancy to you, Jasper."

Jasper lied. "And I to him, Cynthia. You are a very lucky girl."

Godlove Crownstone was speaking.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

DISTANT MUSIC.

DISTANT music, faintly falling,
Through the noises of the street,
To my ears your voice comes calling,
Vague, insistent, very sweet!

All about are din and clamor
Ringing through the city's ways,
With the strange allure and glamor
That men dread while yet they praise.

Falling, rising, ebbing, flowing
Silver notes are borne along;
As the vagrant wind comes blowing,
Somber streets grow glad with song.

So through tumult never-ending,
So through restlessness and strife
Ever comes love's music, lending,
Of its grace and charm to life.

The Clean Wash Cloth

JUST because the wash cloth is in and out of water most of the time is no reason for supposing that it is clean and that it doesn't need regular washing. These little squares of cloth perform too important a duty to be neglected. Unless they are kept scrupulously clean they cease to be sweet smelling. They can even harbor germs and infect the user. Of course it is understood that each member of the family has his own cloth which no one else uses under any circumstances.

After each use, the wash cloth should be thoroughly washed with soap and water, rinsed, and hung on the towel rack to dry. It should be laundered frequently besides, being sterilized by boiling and hung in the sun and air to dry.

Can You Do This One?

Not so many figures in this one—which means that many more to find. Here are two hints that will help you to find the correct totals, always 34. First add your 2, 8 and 13 and subtract the total from 34. That gives you the figure that goes above the 13. Then add that figure, 2 and 6, and you get the figure that goes in the lower left square. If we told you any more it would be too easy—so go ahead and work it out. You might study the solution to yesterday's puzzle, given below, to see if it will help you:

THIS NEW PLACE IS VERY SPIFFY, MOTHER.
YES SIR, IT'S JUST GRAND, PEGGY. JUST GRAND. WHAT A TREAT IT IS TO LIVE IN A PLACE WHERE YOU CAN STEP OUT IN THE HALL AND NOT BE SIMPLY KNOCKED DOWN WITH THE ODOR OF SPARERIBS AND SAUERKRAUT, BURNED POTATOES, AND SO FORTH.
SO CALM AND QUIET ISN'T IT?
I LOVE THAT TOO. I PLAYED THE PIANO A LITTLE ABOUT TEN OCLOCK LAST EVENING. THE WOMAN NEXTDOOR CAME TO HER WINDOW AND COUGHED IN A VERY GENTEEL MANNER I LOVE REFINEMENT
THERE'S ONLY ONE BAD THING ABOUT THIS PLACE. IT'LL TAKE DAD SOME TIME TO LEARN TO LOWER HIS VOICE.
I KNOW. I'VE MADE UP MY MIND THAT I WOULDN'T TALK OVER THINGS SERIOUSLY WITH HIM AFTER NINE P. M. NO MATTER WHAT HE SAYS TO ME.
WE OUGHT TO TRY AND NOT TALK TOO LOUDLY AT ANY TIME DURING THE DAY OR NIGHT. NONE OF THE NEIGHBORS SHOUT AT EACH OTHER.
NONE OF THE OTHER WOMEN IN THIS HOUSE HAVE HUSBANDS LIKE YOUR FATHER EITHER, PEGGY BUNGLE. I JUST SHUDDER TO THINK WHAT WOULD HAPPEN IF HE GOT THE IDEA I WAS AFRAID TO SPEAK UP. BEING NICE IS ONE THING, AND LETTING PEOPLE JUST WALK ON YOU IS ANOTHER.

STOCK PRICE RISE, TUR DOWNWAR

Nearly Score of Issues Car-ried to New High Le for the Year Before Se ing Hits Market.

HEAVY WEEK-END PROFIT-TAKIN

Fear That Revival of Bu ish Activity and Hea New Offerings Mig Cause Tight Credit.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 11. — T stock market ran into a storm selling in the last hour of trad today and prices generally clo lower on the reaction, which w due in part to heavy week-e profit taking, and came after early rally had carried nearly score issues to new high levels the year. Final quotations disclo a long list of net declines rang from 1 to 5 points.

Fears that the recent revival bullish activity and the unusu heavy new offerings would ag cause a tight credit situation n week undoubtedly prompted mu of the day's selling. Some unea ness also was apparent as a res of the irregularities being stre in some of the weekly business trade reviews.

3 to 5 Point Losses.

Adams Express, Borg Warn National Biscuit, Greene Cana Copper, Johns Manville and Pa ard Motors all closed at net clines of 3 to 5 points. Other p ular industrials such as U. S. St common, General Motors, Ame can Can, Chrysler, Montgome Ward, American Smelting, Anaco da Copper and Texas Gulf Sulph closed at 1 to 2½ points lower.

A few issues showed outstandi strength. Sparks Withington gained nearly 10 points of its 1 point gain, and International Bu ness Machines ran up more than points to a new high at 186.

United Corporation was ag one of the most active features today's market, going to a n high record. Chesapeake corpor tion ran up to a new high in sponse to the declaration of 33 1-3 per cent stock dividend.

Total sales ran close to 2,000, shares.

Foreign Exchange Quiet.

Few important changes to place in the commodity mark Wheat futures closed steady, favorable Missouri reports and firmness of the Winnipeg mar acting as a restraining influence the recent selling movement. C prices dropped about ½ a cen bushel in reflection of specula disappointment over the cash mand for the commodity and ea Southwestern markets. Co rallied about 25c to 50c a bal the prospect of unfavorable wea er.

Foreign exchange trading extremely light, with only nom changes in the quotations of leading currencies.

Money Drop Thought Tempor

In quarters where the mo situation is followed with m than usual close scrutiny ther little disposition to accept abrupt relaxation in demand from the 14 per cent high of Th day to yesterday's 6 per cent cl as marking definite passing of stringency. On the contrary ditions operative in the market believed to foreshadow comp tively high rates for some tim come. Relaxation on Thursday due to the influx of out-of-t funds, attractd here by high prevailing. The further abrupt yesterday, on the other hand, the result of the appearance of eral of the larger local bank lenders.

Copper Statistics Awaited.

More than the customary in est is being shown in the fo coming monthly copper stati which should be available next week. Wall street is part larly keen about the possible ence which the development the last few weeks in the co metal market may have had o activities of the industry. Fol ing the spectacular rise of co prices in March, it was found the upturn in metal prices been effective in stimulating duction sharply.

Closing stock prices w other tables and market n will be found on pages 8, 9, 10.
